the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased in the UK (Mental Health Act 1983).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a vision of a new mental health system, which will be based on the following principles:

• People with mental health problems should be treated as individuals, with their own needs and wishes. They should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care and treatment.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in their own homes, in their own communities, and to take part in the life of their communities.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to work, to study, and to take part in the life of their communities.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is meaningful to them.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is safe for them and for others.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is respectful of their dignity and rights.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is consistent with the values of the NHS.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is consistent with the values of the community.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is consistent with the values of the world.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is consistent with the values of the universe.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is consistent with the values of the cosmos.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is consistent with the values of the universe and the cosmos.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is consistent with the values of the universe, the cosmos, and the world.

• People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live their lives in a way that is consistent with the values of the universe, the cosmos, the world, and the community.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a strategy for mental health care, which includes a commitment to improve the lives of people with mental health problems and to reduce the stigma associated with mental illness.

The strategy is based on the following principles: (1) people with mental health problems should be treated as individuals; (2) people with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care; (3) people with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in the community; (4) people with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to work and to contribute to society.

The strategy also includes a commitment to improve the lives of people with mental health problems and to reduce the stigma associated with mental illness. This is achieved through a number of measures, including: (1) increasing the availability of mental health services; (2) improving the quality of mental health services; (3) increasing the awareness of mental health problems; (4) reducing the stigma associated with mental illness.

The strategy is a key document in the development of mental health care in the UK. It provides a framework for the development of mental health services and for the improvement of the lives of people with mental health problems. It is a commitment to a more inclusive and more caring society.

FOREWORD

In 1928 the Mahisco Literary Club undertook the publication of a year book. This effort met with such unexpected success that the members of the club rightly thought that they would be justified in printing a 1929 Mahisco. Having had a year's experience, the staff was able to do its work with less difficulty and, it is hoped, with more efficiency. Among other things which the staff learned was that the purpose of any annual is to serve as a mirror in reflecting school life as it really is. If in some measure this purpose has been fulfilled, the Mahisco Staff will not have labored in vain nor will it have gone unrewarded.

DEDICATION

Because, as sponsor of the Mahiaco Club, she has given unstintedly of her time and service to the furthering of its interests; because of her kindly sympathy, tact, and understanding; because of the universal love and respect in which she is held as a teacher, the Mahiaco Club dedicates the annual of 1929 to Miss Opal Sherman.

Miss Opal E. Sherman

In Memoriam

BENJAMIN HUTCHINGS SCHAD

"Benny", as he was familiarly known to all students of the Madison High School, died at his home on North Walnut Street on October 10, 1928, after several weeks illness with typhoid fever.

Although he was unable to re-enter school as a Junior in the fall of 1928, his thoughts were continually on his school and his friends and classmates there. He was a friend and companion to all. His sunny disposition is remembered by everyone with whom he came in contact, practically the entire student body.

He was held in the highest respect by all his instructors and classmates, and was ever ready to go out of his way to perform some deed of kindness or act of courtesy for others. He had made a host of friends both in school and in the community in which he lived. Death came when he was but eighteen years of age.

FORD BOWMAN

Ford Bowman died at the King's Daughters Hospital on the morning of March 19, following an accident in which his bicycle collided with a Ford automobile at the corner of Second and West Streets. The accident, in which Ford suffered concussion of the brain, happened on Monday evening while he was working his paper route.

Although he was but a freshman in standing in school, he was well known by practically every student in the high school. His jovial disposition made friends for him of all with whom he came in contact. Especially was he held in high esteem by all members of the class of 1932, of which he was a prominent member.

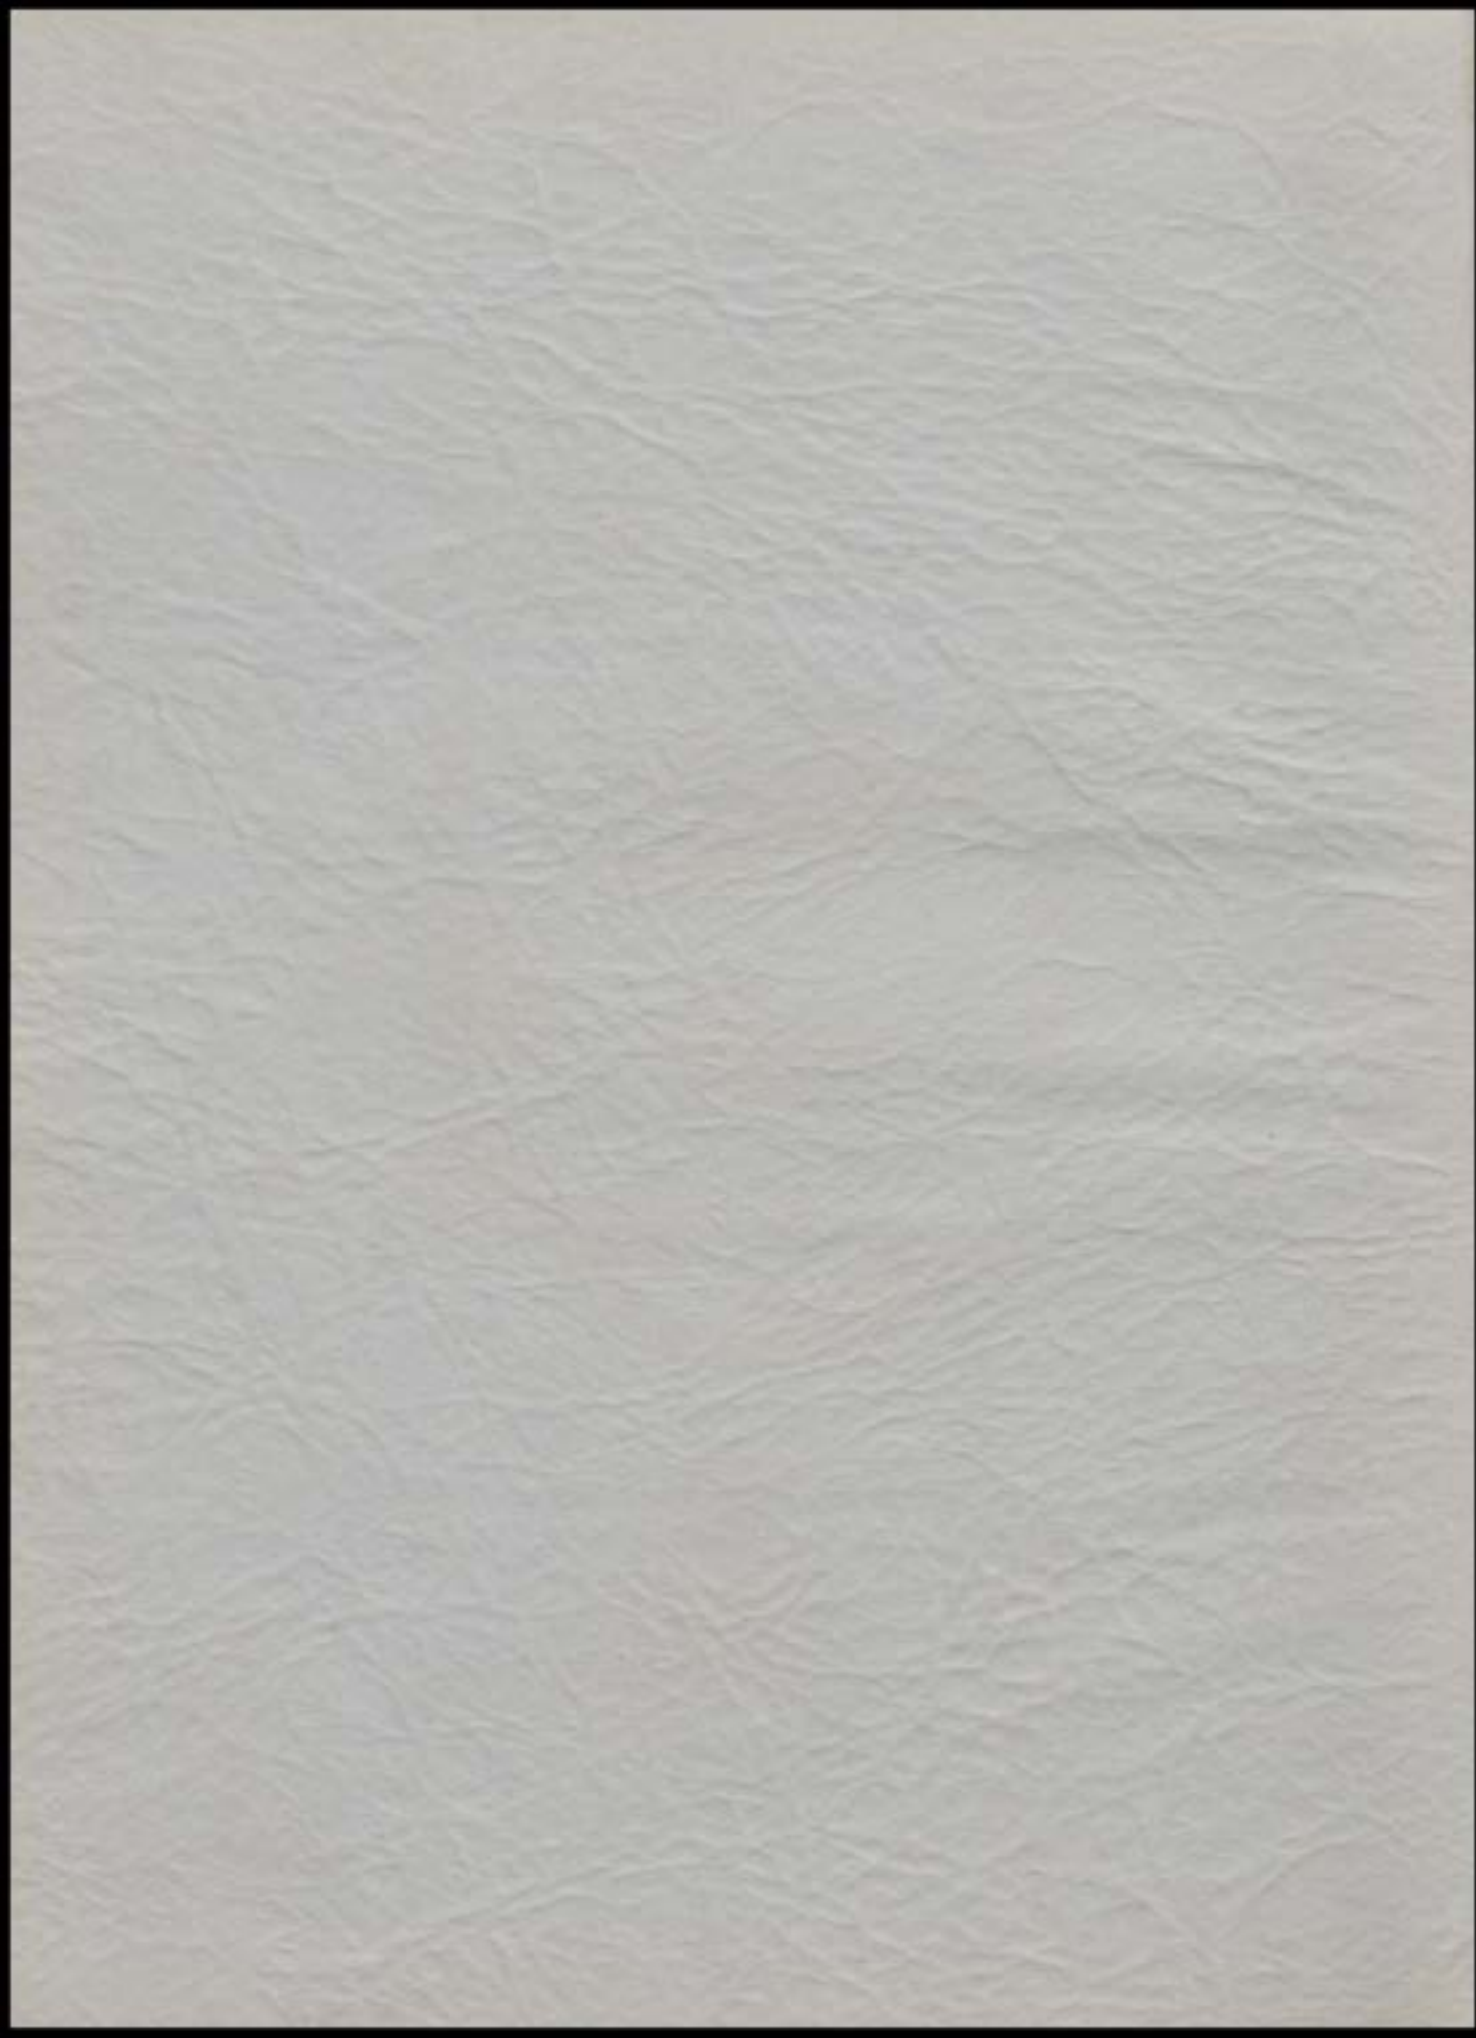

Ford's disposition and personality were such that they will not be forgotten by his classmates, even though he no longer is with them in person. For those who knew him well his spirit still lingers about the school and class.

THE SCHOOL

The Steam Packet of Learning

THE NEW $160,000 HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

This building is not only one of the finest and best equipped high schools in the state, but it also is a monument to the energy of the Superintendent, the School Board, and the progressive citizens of Madison. The Editor takes this means to extend the sincere thanks of the entire school to those far-seeing citizens who have helped to make this modern school home possible.

A Sister Ship

THE BROWN MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM.

The Gym, made possible by the generosity of Graham Brown, has been the scene of many thrilling athletic contests.

MAHISCO

The Admiral

MR. E. O. MUNCIE
DePauw University, A. B.

Mr. Muncie is an admiral who, in fair weather and foul, watches over each individual ship and guides it toward the harbor of wisdom.

The Captain

MR. C. K. SALM
"I. U.," A. B., A. M.

The Madison High School principal is truly a captain in every good sense of the word.

The Directors of the Steam Boat Line

S. J. BEAR      MARY G. MILLAR      O. HOLWAGER

No board of directors of a mighty ship company ever watched over their company more closely or worked more diligently for its betterment than the Madison School Board has over the city schools.

Class Will

We the members of the class of 1929 of Madison High School, city of Madison, county of Jefferson, state of Indiana, being in possession of superhuman intelligence and power, do establish this as our last will and testament, thereby making null and void all former documents.

Article I. Individual Bequests:

Pauline Lemen desires that her typing efficiency go to Vivian Kirgan, that she may take her place in the commercial contests.

Dalphine Turner leaves her desk in Mr. Reul's room to Virginia Howe. This location offers unlimited possibilities, Virginia, but use them wisely.

Geneva Lee wills her glasses to Winnie Collins. Winnie rolls her eyes so much she must surely be suffering with eye trouble.

Dolly Drake wills her dark beauty to Marjorie McKay. Dolly feels so sorry for blondes.

Virginia Dibler leaves her faithfulness of heart to Dru Odgen, who, we understand, is quite devoid of any such quality.

Ralph Kahn wishes that his sense of humor may go to Miss Cole, that she may understand all the funny incidents that occur in her classes.

Stanley Kendall wills his possession of "that something" to Wallace Gabel.

David Spann gives his height to Orville Bird, that he may take his place on the team, and allow some weaker brother to take his position as yell leader.

Martha Eckert leaves her studiousness to Bill Dew—not for his sake, but for the sake of his long-suffering neighbors in the study hall.

Anna Eaglin and Anna Koehler leave their ability to argue, in trust with Mr. Reul. He is to divide it equally between two deserving students of opposite politics, that his history classes may still be interesting after these two have graduated from this vale of tears.

Charles Geile bequeathes his literary ability to Gilbert Schnabel in order to lighten Miss Hilands' path of duty.

William Schwab wills his gentle voice to Robert Lodge, for the safety of students whose ear-drums are in Knoxville's vicinity.

Glennie Danner has seen fit to bestow upon Mr. Cottman his knowledge of science, in order that Mr. Cottman may not have to attend summer school to catch up with his pupils.

Joan Ogden bequeathes her classic beauty to Ellen Garber. Go get 'em, Ellen!

Mabel Raney leaves her ability to do a thousand things at once to Chester Walker that he may use it when on the basketball floor.

John Andy Crozier leaves his good looks to Glenn Pummerehn with the stipulation that he enter the movies and thus put M. H. S.'s name on the silver screen.

Charles Norisier's inquisitiveness goes to Charles Bersch, that he may get up enough curiosity to try to find out what his lessons are about.

Margaret Andres leaves her demure ways to Jacob Bersch. Jacob will make such a sweet, demure little boy.

Fritz Chapman leaves his bountiful supply of chewing gum to Dolly Eckert—lest we forget!

Louise Quinn leaves her tiny feet to Boone Lodge. Now keep your feet under your own desk, Boone!

Edna Lee Taft wills her majestic height to Miss Stout. This should prove to be a great aid to Miss Stout's dignity.

Adelbert Albright leaves his slowness of speech to Mary Lou Crozier. This will be a handicap to Mary Lou, but now somebody else in school will get a chance to talk.

Gladys Black, Thelma Jenkins, Walter Schmidt, Geneva Harper, Jean Gray, Clarise Elston, Ralph Heath, Clair Smith, and Marie Golden all leave their combined quietness to Scotty Mills. Maybe Scott can manage to keep still for a few minutes at a time, now.

Willy Joyce wills his ability to manipulate the cornet to Harold Jones. There is nothing that captures the ladies' hearts like music!

Gilbert Buchanan leaves his foreign accent to Annette Frewell. This, added to her dignified bearing, should prove to be a very valuable asset to Annette.

Howard Hillis leaves his unblemished reputation to John Collins, who, it is hoped, will pass it on as he receives it.

Horace Hamilton wills his knowledge of the Chinese language to Thomas Miles that he may tell certain members of the faculty to their faces what he thinks of them.

Louise Meyers bequeathes her knowledge of bookkeeping to Mrs. Reul. Mrs. Reul really ought to know something about that subject.

Jean White wills her winning ways to Earl Pommerehn. Now, Earl, you are a match for any of those other aspiring young Juniors.

Graham Miller leaves his powers of bluffing to Alberta Zepf, so she can graduate without studying.

Wilhelmina Gourley leaves her ability to get along with anybody to Louise Bear, and hopes that she will use it.

Lona Vestal wills her Irish inheritance to Bill Greene, as a little bit of Irish is all Bill needs to make him an A No. 1 lady-killer.

Daniel Garry wills his invincible good humor to Harry Shipley that the teachers may not have to fear for their lives.

John Dr'skell leaves his autograph to the school, in order that future students may not have to bother about writing for it when he becomes famous.

John Mitchell wills his knowledge of Physics to Louis Wettrick. John hopes this will be a little help towards Louie's graduation.

Emily Rea bequeathes her business ability to Vermetta Robbins.

Jean Lewis leaves her patience and perseverance with her hair to Helen Farley.
Article II.

To Madison High, we the Seniors of 1929, leave our love and good will.

To Mr. Beer we leave the great amount of athletic ability which is possessed by us, as a class, in order that M. H. S. may remain on the basketball map.

To the Juniors we bequeath our dignity and other most desirable qualities.

To the Underclassmen we will the advice to keep to the right and not to slide in the corridors.

To our teachers we leave the hope of someday having another such class as we.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto affixed our seals this 24th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine.

Class of 1929.

Administrators: Anna Eaglin, Mabel Raney.

The Literary Society of Madison High School was organized December 2, 1924, and about two weeks after organization, revived the old "Madisonian," the high school paper. The name "Mahisco" was adopted in January of the next year. The purpose of the society is to promote the best forms of literature and literary work in the high school. The club sponsored the annuals of 1928 and 1929. Dramatics and a school debating team are the new and most important work of this year in addition to the bi-monthly publication of the "Madisonian."

The "Mahisco" Staff

Middle Row: Horace Hamilton, Art Editor; Graham Miller, Editor of Athletics; Norbert Steinhart, Assistant Business Manager; Dolly Eckert, Underclass Editor; Dolly Drake, Editor of Activities.

The publication of the MAHISCO is one of the many activities carried on by the Mahisco Literary Society. The Board of Affairs of the club nominates members to fill the various positions of the staff. The entire club then elects the officers by popular vote. Many of this year's staff members were also members of the 1928 MAHISCO staff.

After a winter of hard work this staff presents the 1929 MAHISCO for the criticism and approval of the students of Madison High School and the public in general.

The Madisonian is published for the purpose of acquainting the pupils with events happening in the school and to create interest among the students. The school paper has been published continuously under its present name since 1919. In 1924 the Mahisco Literary Society assumed the responsibilities of its publication and it has remained successfully under this organization's supervision to the present date. The students look forward eagerly to each issue and strive for a bigger and better paper each year.

The Sunshine Society, founded in November, 1923, by Miss Jessie Wells, is an organization to which any girl in high school may belong. No dues are charged the members, yet hundreds of dollars have passed through the treasury for the betterment of the school and community.

"Get well" and "cheer up" cards and often flowers are sent to friends and members of the society when they are ill, and many poor, but deserving families are cheered by the work of this large group.

A Christmas bazaar was held to secure funds for a Christmas party with decorated tree, Santa Claus, toys, and refreshments for poor children who would otherwise have had no holiday cheer.

Through the efforts of the members of this society, the girls' rest room in the new high school was furnished most appropriately.

The purpose of this organization is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character. The Club is very active and much good is done every year.

This year the Hi-Y boys have been selling candy which has helped their finances quite a bit. They have also pledged to give the Boy Scouts fifty dollars, which sum will be paid some time soon. The Club has discussed having meetings which will be led by the various men teachers; namely, Mr. Salm, Mr. Cottman, Mr. Beer, and Mr. Reul. The purpose of these discussion groups will be to bring up important questions about the Bible and public life.

Each year the following committees are appointed: a committee on Bible study; a committee on meetings; a committee on service activities. These have duties and functions relative to their names.

The Booster Club of Madison High School was formed in the school year 1926-27. Mr. Salm is the faculty advisor. Two members of each class are chosen to make up the club, making sixteen members in all, eight boys and eight girls. The officers of the club are president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. The Club was started for the purpose of backing school activities. The first year of its existence money was raised to buy sweaters and letters for the football men. Last year the Boosters gave the interclass tourney for the sweater money. This year the interclass tourney was again given to raise the club's funds. The Club also assisted in selling tickets for the high school play and received a third of the money. The high school orchestra is sponsored by the Booster Club.

In May, 1928, steps were taken for the organization of a Student Council in Madison High School. The members and officers were elected at this time, but the council did not really come into effect until September, 1928. The members are made up of representatives from each class and organization in school.

The purpose of the Student Council is to improve the moral, scholastic, social, literary, athletic, and musical standards of the high school, and thus promote its general welfare.

Orchestra

Madison High School is fortunate in having two orchestras. One is under the able direction of Dr. Fred Henderson and has played at different school activities, such as the 1928 commencement exercises, Custer Prize Contest, the high school dedication, "Honor Bright", etc. The personnel of this orchestra is as follows: Dr. Henderson, director and violin; Martha Eckert, Neva Willis, Charles Demaree and George Thieman, violins; Emily Rea, piano; Glenroie Danner, saxophone; William Joyce and William Rosier, cornets; Charles O. Beer, trombone; Donald Bear, clarinet; Allan Rodgers, bass horn.

The members of the second orchestra organized and direct themselves under the name of the Zeider Zee Orchestra. They play dance music and have entertained the Kiwanis Club several times. They also provided music for the Junior Joy Night in 1928. The members are: Martha Eckert, piano; Glenroie Danner, saxophone; William Joyce, cornet; Fritz Chapman, banjo; Robert Turner, drums.

Glee Club

The Glee Clubs under the supervision of Miss Ella P. Griffith have flourished to a marked degree in the past few years. The boys and girls have found a new interest in music and each year an entertainment is put on by them. This year "Jerry of Jericho Road", a snappy modern operetta, was produced.

A music room was built for the Glee Clubs in the new high school and the Senior class furnished it with a new piano. A regular period during the day is devoted to those interested in musical work, and a credit a year is given to the ones who complete the work.

Much credit is due Miss Griffith for her untiring efforts and patience in this work. It is under her direction that the operettas and cantatas are produced and her success along this line is to be commended.

The Glee Clubs of M. H. S. sent four members, Louise Meyers, Martha Eckert, William Joyce, and John Driskell, to the all-state chorus at Indianapolis.

A Latin Club was organized in 1926 thru the guidance of the Latin teacher, Miss Frieda Kunkel. The purposes of the club are to unite those students studying Latin for a more effective appreciation of the Latin language, classics, Roman civilization, and customs.

The year 1927-28 saw the club in full swing with a large enrollment, holding regular meetings and enjoying numerous programs and outings. It was the desire to continue the organization this year, and Miss Stout, the new Latin teacher, called a meeting early in the term to elect officers. Due to various reasons no more meetings were held during the first semester, but the club has met regularly during the remainder of the year, and much good work has been accomplished.

Industrial Arts Club

This is the natal year of the Industrial Arts Club, and they already have aroused a deal of interest among the students in industrial education. This is the purpose of the club, together with the object of increasing the equipment of the Industrial Art's Department as soon as it is financially possible.

The organization holds bi-monthly meetings. A trip was made to Louisville early in the spring to visit the Ford Plant in that city. More such educational jaunts are planned for next year. The following were taken in at the first initiation: R. Kahn, G. Miller, J. Holwager, F. Ferguson, A. Albright, C. Weber, W. Joyce, J. Mitchell, T. Miles, M. Spotts, C. Scott, D. Mills, R. Turner, J. Eckert, E. Pommerchn, A. Rusk, H. Moore, J. Thacker, B. Lodge, C. Norisz, H. Yiesla, and E. Miller.

THE KIWANIS AWARD

Following a plan adopted last year, the Madison Kiwanis Club presented a medal to both a boy and a girl of the graduating class of M. H. S. on commencement night. To win this medal a boy must have won an "M", the high school athletic award, he must be among the highest scholastically, and his attitude must be of the best. In like manner the girl must have been active in extra-curricular affairs during her four years in high school, her scholastic record must be high, and her attitude must be such as will warrant this honor. Emily Rea and Charles Geile are the winners of the two medals this year.

CHARLES GEILE

DEBATING

The personnel of the two teams which represented M. H. S. in debating during the past school year is as follows: Affirmative: Mabel Raney, Winnie Collins, Stanley Kendall, and Eugene Cooper, the alternative. Negative: Emily Rea, Dru Ogden, Joe Eckert, and Charles Geile, alternative. The debating teams were selected and sponsored by the Mahisco Literary Club. Interscholastic debating is still in its infancy in M. H. S. and, although several debates were held within the school, only one was held with another high school. This was with North Vernon on the question: "Resolved that the United States should adopt the 'hands-off' policy' in Nicaragua."

COMMERCIAL CONTEST

On April 21, 1928, the District Commercial Contest was held at Madison. Seymour, New Albany, Lawrenceburg and Madison were entered in this contest.

Madison won the district award by gaining 39 points.

On April 28, the district winners journeyed to Muncie to take part in the state contest. Anna Kochler tied for second place in the Beginning Bookkeeping. Her score was 192 out of a possible 192 points. The team—Josephine Klein, Arthur Layton, and Anna Kochler—placed fourth.

The 1929 district contest will also be held at Madison.

ANNA KOEHLER

MR. A. S. CUSTER

CUSTER ORATORICAL CONTEST

The autumn of 1928 witnessed the loss of one of Madison High School's most loyal boosters, Mr. A. S. Custer, who died at his home in North Madison on October 30. By an endowment fund Mr. Custer made possible the prize money for the Custer Oratorical Contest, which for years has been an institution of the school. This contest is open to the five Seniors having the highest average grades. Should any or all choose not to enter, the next highest are eligible. The contestants this year are Charles Geile, Howard Hillis, Mable Raney, Anna Kochler, and Margaret Andres.

YELL CONTEST

Realizing the sad need of new and original yells for our athletic contests, the Booster's Club held a contest for new yells. Esther Burkhardt won the first prize, a season ticket to all of Madison High School's games; Jean Spicer won the second prize, a single admission ticket for a basketball game. This was the winning yell:

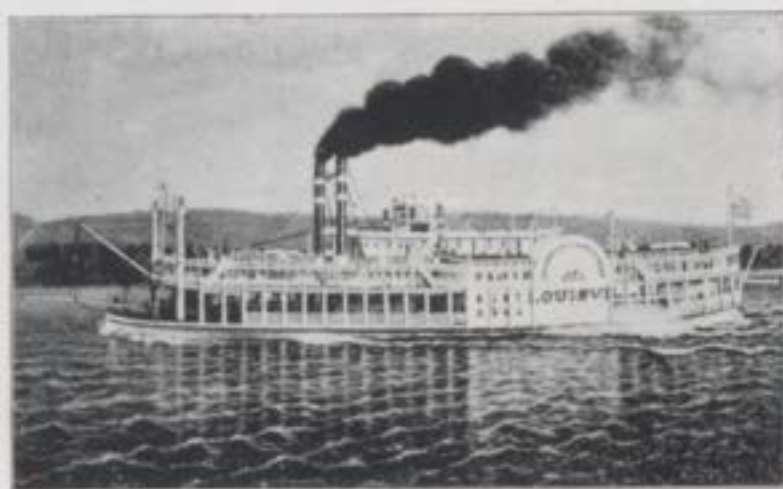

Fight 'em fair, fight 'em square,
Let 'em know the Cubs are there!
Fight, team, Fight!

STATE TRACK MEET

Although the State Track Meet probably belongs in the athletic section of an annual, yet the fact that one man, Stanley Kendall, won the right to take part in the state meet of 1928 seems to be of such importance that we feel justified in including it with our list of accomplishments. Five of Madison's track men qualified to take part in the Sectional Track Meet held at Salem. Out of these five Stanley was the only M. H. S. man who won in any event. In the state meet he finished seventh in the 440 dash.

COACH BEER

For the first time in many years Madison High School was able to chalk up more wins than defeats in her basketball column. A large portion of the credit for M. H. S.'s victories is due to the coach, Charles O. Beer, who has in three short years raised the basketball team from the depths of defeat to the enviable pinnacle which it attained this year. Had there been no other victories, the season would have been a complete success, in-as-much-as North Madison fell to the Cubs twice and Scottsburg, who had not been defeated by Madison for many a long year, likewise went down to the dust of defeat. However, Madison paid dearly for this victory; Scottsburg humbled the Cubs in the return game, and, what was a much larger pill to swallow, the purple and gold eliminated the home boys in the Sectional Tournament.

Having experienced only two defeats in scheduled games, Madison may well be proud of the team which represented her on the hardwood. One of the other hard pills to swallow, which the school was forced to take, was administered by Doctor Dupont in the finals of the County Tournament.

On the strength of this year's successes, Madison was able to schedule much stronger teams for next year. It remains to be seen whether the Cubs will be able to maintain the reputation which they established this year.

LET'S EVERYBODY BOOST FOR A WINNING TEAM NEXT YEAR!

Madison, as usual, had a very good baseball team in 1928. They were defeated only once all season, which is a very good record. Prospects are rather bright for this year, with the loss of only three men.

Track

—1928—

For the first time in five years Madison again took up track. Considering the time taken up in finding the men most suited for different events, we feel that they are to be complimented on what they accomplished. Having no field adapted for track, they were rather handicapped.

However, with practically the same men back this year and new material coming in, prospects are rather bright.

The Girls' Athletic Association is only two years old. Membership is open to those girls who have earned a certain number of "points." The point system suggested at Indiana University in 1927 is the one in use. A white felt "M" has been made the first high school award and is given to each member when she has earned four hundred points. The Association was founded by Miss Lottie Porter, but this year it has been under the guidance of Miss Mildred Stout.

The following are the members who have earned letters: Ruby Rodgers, Emily Rea, Charlotte Torrence, Anna Koehler, Gladys Black, and LaVergne Jenkins.

What Life Means To Me

The dawn, the spring, life;—I have been thinking, wondering, dreaming of what it all means to me, as I sit here on the brow of the hill to view the sunrise.

Life is a mystery—a God-given treasure. It is like the vapour in the valley "that appeareth for a little time and then vanisheth away." Poets speak of it as a river wide, or a broad pathway, but I think it resembles the spider's web which I can see right above me, stretched broadly between two boughs. The weaver is the Great Giver of Life; some threads are gold, some silver, while others have rusted and tarnished. In and out it winds—strong in some places, deficient in others. Life is bitter-sweet. There is a smile to-day—a tear to-morrow; a hope—a disappointment, yet it is life and we should take it for what it is. Only the pessimist finds no joy in living; the pessimist whose life is meaningless. He who has a smile on the darkest day is the lover of life—the one who deserves the right of living.

"For a cap and bells our lives we pay," or does it mean more than that? Life is a gift—a precious jewel and should be guarded and polished with care. A priceless gem is not meant for the bargain counter. Life may seem cheap when we view the multitude—the throngs about us, yet we do not live in vain. Circumstances plays his part; "there's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough hew them how we will," but in each life there is a purpose, and all may choose between joy giving or grief giving.

Life means daring, doing, seeking, serving, loving! It is a noble thought, a passion for the right and the ability for doing something worth while which gives life its value.

I would not think life means more or less to youth than to age. It is the care-free voluptuous life of to-day that beckons youth, and the bright beam of to-morrow which like some far off beacon shines across the waves, and guides the aged to shore.

A friend, a joy, a beautiful picture or song—that is what life means to me. It is for the love of the beautiful—of life itself, for the desire of doing that I want to live.

Alas, I have been idly dreaming while the sun has climbed high in the heavens and is sending its beams on me through the spider's web, transforming it, with its sparkling dew drops into a silver net. It is time for me to lay down my pen and be up and doing, for that is what life is after all.

Howard W. Hillis "Twoi Beau"

Cop: "How many times is this that I've arrested you?"

Gen. Perry: "Don't ask me. I thought you were keeping score."

Bob Turner (kidding Irishman): "Hey, Mike, did you know the Devil is dead?"

Mike (reaching in pocket and handing him a dollar): "Take this, me lad."

B. T.: "What's this for?"

Mike: "Oh, I'm always glad to help an orphan."

Absence makes the grades grow lower.

SPLASH! !

I love goloshes and slickers so
Their names sort of splash together.
I flop and slip through sloppy snow—
Oh, how I enjoy bad weather! !

Why should we have to learn to read?
We have talking movies now.

IF WE LIKE 'EM, WE LOVE 'EM,
IF WE LOVE 'EM, WE LET 'EM,
IF WE LET 'EM, WE LOSE 'EM,
DARN!

Jean Lewis: "Well, I finally got into the movies."

Pauline Lemen: "You really did! And how!"

Jean: "Oh, I paid the usual twenty-five cents."

To those who talk and talk
This adage should appeal;
The steam that blows the whistle
Never turns the wheel.

"—And waiter," added the fussy old gentleman, "have my chops lean."

"Yes, sir. Which way, sir."

"Winnie, wipe your chin off!"

Winnie: "Won't; can't do without it!"

Mr. Salm: "The name of your parents, please."

J. Tidball: "Mamma and Papa."

Joe Eckert (as dentist drills a tooth):
"Tell me, Doc, when do you blast?"

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased in the UK, and the number of people with a mental health problem who are in contact with mental health services has also increased (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with a mental health problem, and to reduce the stigma and discrimination that they experience. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the development of mental health services that are more user-centred and more focused on the needs of people with a mental health problem (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

One of the key initiatives in this area is the development of self-help materials, which can help people with a mental health problem to understand their condition, and to manage their symptoms. Self-help materials can also help people to access the services that they need, and to participate in their care (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

Self-help materials can take a number of forms, including books, leaflets, and audio and video tapes. They can be developed for a wide range of mental health problems, and for people with different levels of literacy and numeracy skills (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

One of the key challenges in the development of self-help materials is to ensure that they are easy to understand, and that they are relevant to the needs of people with a mental health problem. This requires a close working relationship between mental health professionals and people with a mental health problem (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

Another key challenge is to ensure that self-help materials are available to people who need them. This may require the development of self-help materials in a number of languages, and in a number of formats (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

Self-help materials can play an important role in the care of people with a mental health problem. They can help people to understand their condition, and to manage their symptoms. They can also help people to access the services that they need, and to participate in their care (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

There is a need to continue to develop self-help materials, and to ensure that they are available to people who need them. This requires a commitment from mental health professionals, and from people with a mental health problem (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).
