Madison Consolidated High School is a six-year-old building graduating its 104th class in 112 years of existence. It is located in the 157-year-old town of Madison in the state of Indiana, which is celebrating its sesquicentennial. But MCHS is not floundering under the weight of tradition. It is alive, vital and growing. In the year 1966 MCHS welcomed Mr. Meredith Thompson as principal, approximately one hundred students from Dupont High School which just consolidated with the Madison School Corporation, and Helmut Englehardt, a German exchange student through the Youth for Understanding program. For the first time third-year French was offered so that those wishing to major in it could do so. The Business Department added a new club to the MCHS extracurricular scene, Business Leaders And Secretaries of Tomorrow, better known as BLAST.

1966 was a year of searching and awakening for the students, a year of ambition and fulfillment for the faculty, and a year of hard work and accomplishment for the administration. For many, 1966 may be just another year; but for the 227 seniors, it will stand out as one of fulfillment, achievement, hard work. To the student body, the year will be remembered as one filled with memories of football games and basketball tournaments, of Miss Cub and Homecoming Queen ceremonies, of semester exams and pop quizzes, of study halls and pre-test cram sessions.

In the years to come the year 1966 will conjure up visions of the flowers that she wore to the prom, the happy grins of the team and fans when MCHS won its tenth straight basketball sectional, and the bonfire that blazed in celebration. The sound of the first bell in the morning, the fire alarm buzzer that surprised even Mr. Thompson, the music blaring at the sock hops, and the cheer block yelling the team to victory will mingle to form a pleasant memory in a few years. At odd moments the tastes of the renown cafeteria food, of popcorn at the basketball game, of the French pastry from the Junior-Senior Prom will haunt the senses of the many MCHS graduates. A few events, accomplishments and honors will remain in the minds of the MCHS seniors and will stand out in the background of a blur of activities and become the . . .

Silhouettes of 1966

In honor of Conner K. Salm's 36 years of service

When Conner K. Salm died this spring, MCHS lost not only a principal who served for 36 years, but also a friend and a gentleman who molded the lives of the many students who had the opportunity to go to school under him and the many people who came in contact with him in other capacities. When Mr. Salm retired in 1962, the present senior class was entering MCHS as freshmen, but his ideals and beliefs affected the students more than they may ever realize. In the planning stages of the hill-top high school, he fought hard to win the facilities he and his staff felt were necessary for the best possible physical plant for education. He sincerely believed that education played a large part in preparing individuals for their contributions to the world so that it would be a better place for those who follow. He supported the MCHS sports program in putting the emphasis on sportsmanship having served several terms on the I.H.S.A.A. Board of Control. Conner Salm's presence will be missed at MCHS, but he has left his mark on the lives of the men and women who will take his place. It is to the memory of Conner K. Salm that we dedicate the 1966 MAHISCO.

The typical day at MCHS is filled

The outlines of buses carrying eager, bright-eyed students can be seen against the lightened sky each morning at M.C.H.S.

A freshman student struggles with a locker combination. This old problem faces all new students, especially when they are late for class.

A day at MCHS involves the typical and the unusual. It includes the gay chatter of friends in the corridor and the somber silence of study hall. It encompasses many areas from strictly academic to athletic. This is a broad community where the sound of a basketball dribbling down the floor in practice mixes with the harmony of a brass quintette, where the smell of brownies baking floats to exhaust fumes in auto mechanics class, where the sharp focus of a photograph contrasts an abstraction in the art department, the taste of simple addition mingles with a thirst for abstract numbers.

The shadows of scurrying students are cast upon the walls each day between classes.

with the common and the unusual

The bookstore, located in the A-wing, is always active and provides inexpensive school supplies to MCHS students.

In the morning before classes the office is the busiest place at school. Here Mrs. Bentley assists students in preparing absence excuses.

Through the unremitting efforts of librarian, Mrs. Cook, the library has grown and the facilities available have increased each year.

Queen Sheila Hargesheimer and Kenny Wehner are surrounded by their court, which is Jeannie Long, John Eckert, Jeanie Price, Terry Cahall, Carol Humphrey, R. D. Zink, Linda Dew, and Ronnie Taylor.

Principal Thompson crowns Kenny as Sheila smiles regally.

The junior class transported the prom guests to a Parisian street cafe. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Sheila Hargesheimer and Kenny Wehner as Prom Queen and King. Their court consists of Jeanie Price, Linda Dew, Carol Humphrey, Jeannie Long, John Eckert, Ron Taylor, R. D. Zink, and Terry Cahall.

The Sultans and Mona Thomas provided the music for one of the most successful proms that MCHS has seen in a long time.

Eleven students spend summer in Wales

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wingham, chaperones under the American Institute for Foreign Study, left July 18 for Bangor, Wales with 18 high school students. Those from MCHS were Mike Bonadio, Beverly Hamilton, Peggy Herbert, Peggy Hertz, Katie Johnson, Sue McAlexander, Barbara Pendleton, Sharon Thom, Sara Turner, Mary Ann Wolf and R. D. Zink.

Jeanie Price reigns as homecoming queen

The highlight of the football season and the last home game includes the crowning of a senior girl as queen. Sponsored by the Student Council of M.C.H.S. homecoming has become a beautiful and anxiously awaited event.

Kim Childs stars as Florence Nightingale in A SECRET VOICE.

The all school play hits a dramatic high point in MCHS theatrical history

A Secret Voice

A SECRET VOICE, a play in three acts, was given by an all-school cast the fifth and sixth of November. The secret voice was the voice within Florence Nightingale which prompted her work of raising the quality of care for the sick. Kim Childs, as Florence, gave a subtle and beautiful performance in the difficult role of the lady with a lamp. The play was a blend of deep drama, costume epic, and flashes of comedy.

Backstage, the make-up committee works to provide the professional touch for the on-stage performance.

The second cast practices the seance scene. The cast is John Cable as Dr. Bradman, Scarlett Cline as Mrs. Bradman, Diane Newman as Edith, Ron Nay as Charles, Vicki MacKenzie as Elvira, Carol Humphrey as Mme. Arcati and Linda Lindsey as Ruth.

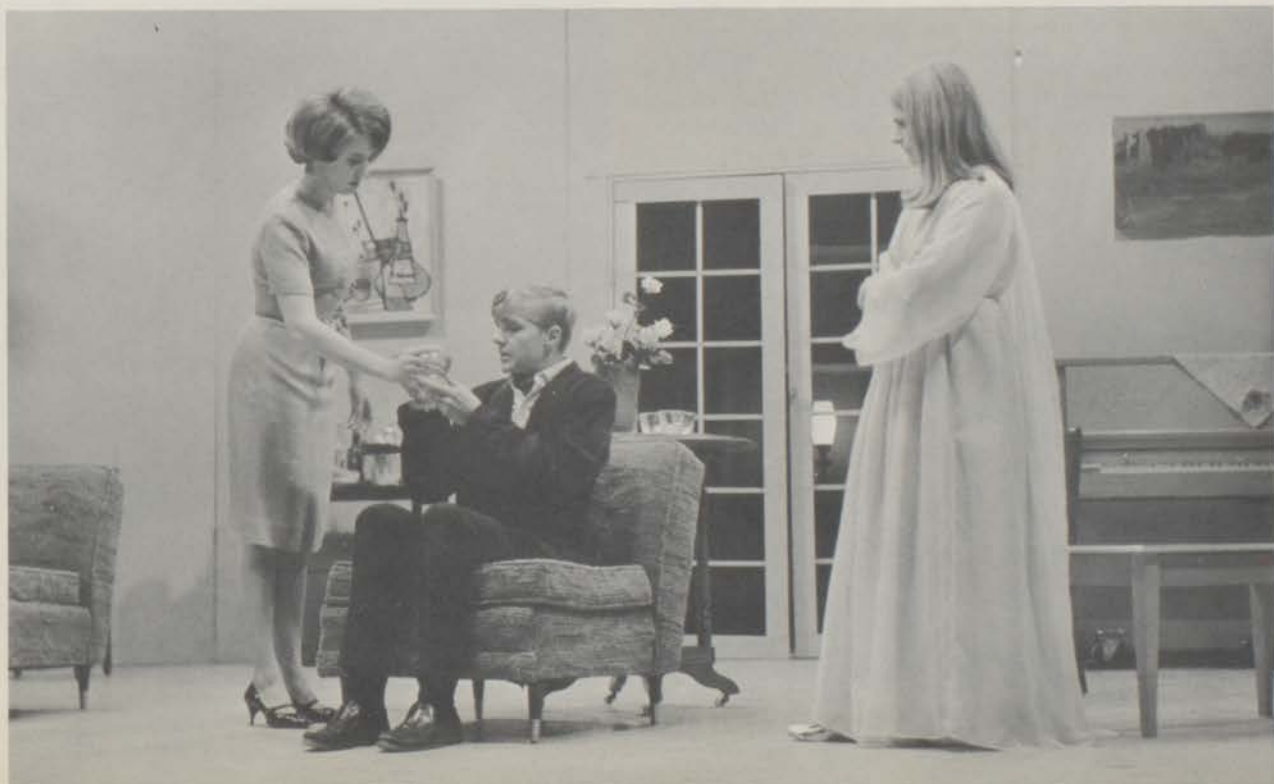

At the first performance the medium instructs the Condomines and Bradmans on what to do during the seance. The cast is Linda Gore as Mrs. Bradman, Tom Wyman as Charles, Jeanie Price as Mme. Arcati, Bev Cade as Ruth, and Phil Norisetz as Dr. Bradman.

Seniors excel with "The Blithe Spirit"

The halls of MCHS were haunted last spring by the wistful phantoms of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit". The improbable comedy was a hilarious success which contrasted with the dramatic A SECRET VOICE performed last fall. Charles is harassed by the return of his first wife, Elvira. In the course of the play he is finally able to get rid of Elvira, but his second wife is killed in the process. Because of the small cast and the large class it was decided to double-cast the play with one cast presenting it Friday night and the second Saturday night.

Bev Cade as Ruth tries to steady Tom Wyman, Charles, after seeing his first wife, Elvira, played by Karen Chambers, appear.

Co-valedictorian Karen Chambers shared the top scholastic honors with Vincent Rose with a perfect 4.0 average. Karen also won the Herff Jones French, Band, and Valedictorian awards, and Kiwanis award.

Vincent Rose gives his valedictory address at Honors Day. He received the Herff Jones Mathematics, Latin and Valedictorian awards, Bausch and Lomb Science Award, and Kiwanis Award.

Salutatorian Bev Cade welcomes the audience at Honors Day. Bev won the Herff Jones awards for Journalism and Salutatorian.

Seniors collect many awards on Honors Day

Honors Day fell on Friday the Thirteenth, but that didn't seem to mar the many awards given to the happy winners. J. Cable, B. Cade, K. Chambers, R. Nay and R. D. Zink received Letters of Commendation from the National Merit Tests. R. Nay and C. Rogers won the Madison Music Club award. J. Cable placed first in the essay contest sponsored by the Madison Classroom Teachers. The Tri Kappa award went to B. McKay.

The following Herff Jones awards were presented: choir S. Doninger; dramatics T. Wyman; typing S. Matthews, D. Liter; social studies R. D. Zink; industrial arts J. Connolly; agriculture W. Dryden; home economics L. Andrew; Distributive Education B. Anderson, W. Bell, D. Bickers, M. Ellis, G. Giltner, P. Hughes, L. Tullis, N. Wolf; art D. Hamilton, V. MacKenzie, D. Newman, S. Graduation marks a beginning

The Class of 1966 will be known as a tradition-changing-and-making class. Rather than following the usual commencement program with a special speaker, the students took over these duties. Robert Houghton opened the ceremonies with the invocation, Mary Louise Stewart welcomed the audience, Bonnie Barnes gave the intention, Richard McAtee gave the farewell, and Vicki MacKenzie ended with the benediction on May 23, graduation night for 227 seniors.

At Baccalaureate the sermon was "To Each a Gift" given by the Rev. John Kaitschuk of the Resurrection Lutheran Church. The Rev. Maurice Ankrom of the First Christian Church gave the invocation and benediction while the Rev. Wilson Smith of the Ryker's Ridge Baptist Church read the scripture.

Academics

provide a door to tomorrow

The classes of Madison High School represent two differing, yet concurring goals in learning. During the four high school years, the student is consistently exposed to those subjects which provide a firm foundation on which to base future learning experiences and to the subjects which allow the student to expand his scope of understanding and gain valuable skills.

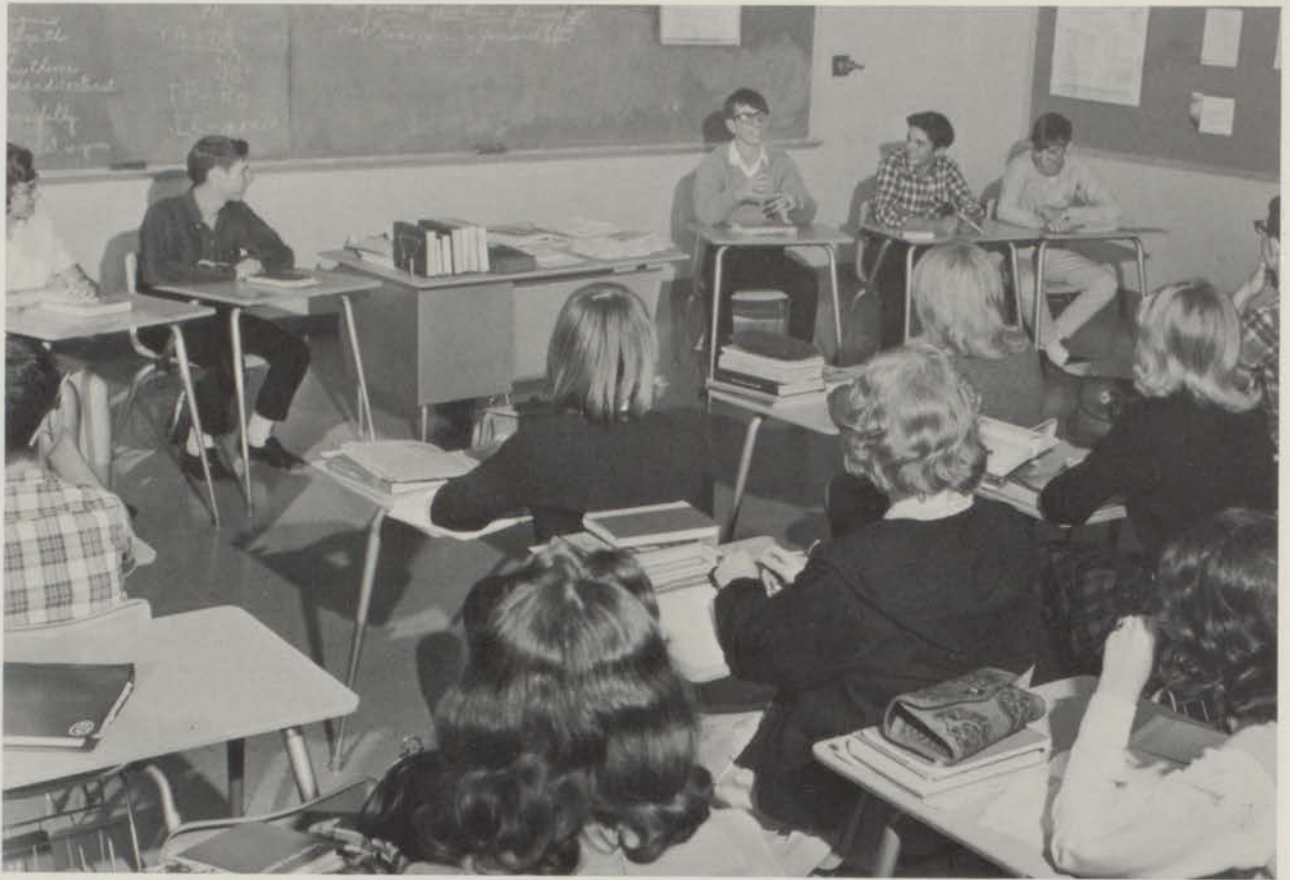

Every student becomes familiar with the studies of the more formal and basic subjects of social sciences, laboratory and theoretical sciences, and English. The social sciences instruct the student to reason through a series of logical steps and reach conclusions based on hypothesis and experiment. English instills the principles of sound rhetoric, enabling the student to communicate his experiences with others.

Language, business, fine arts, industrial arts, and home economics, rather than create a foundation for learning, are intended to build upon an established base. Language studies increase the span of the student's understanding of people of foreign countries with foreign cultures. Commercial courses prepare the student for a career in the expanding world of business. The fine arts courses build an appreciation for art and music through instruction and participation. Industrial arts ready the student for a skilled position in a society whose growing demands for such skill are constantly growing. Home economics instructs the student in the methods of creating an attractive, liveable home environment.

The courses offered at Madison are of a diverse nature. They provide a foundation for continued education and widen the concepts of the student's mind, providing him with the knowledge essential to success in a modern world.

Looks like Tim Kennedy has enthralled Mrs. Martin's class with his book report.

The English department, headed by Mrs. Smith, is the largest department in the school. In addition to courses in grammar and literature, journalism, speech, and advanced composition are offered as electives. An integral part of the English program is the developmental reading program. All students spend time in the reading laboratory, working to improve reading speed and comprehension.

Mrs. Giles gives expert instruction to students as they concentrate in the reading lab.

The language department broadens each year as more courses are added. Last year it was third-year French; this year an entirely new language, German, was offered. The course, taught by Mrs. Elswick, was greeted enthusiastically by many students who immediately enrolled. For those who wish to carry on their German study, a second-year course will be offered next year. Three other languages are also offered. First and second-year Latin are taught by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Wood. Spanish, first through third-year levels, are taught by Mr. Emery and Mrs. Willis. Mrs. Willis also teaches the first through third year French students.

Mr. Emery greets his Spanish class with a happy "¡Hola!"

Steve Geyman points out some "living history" which relates to Latin.

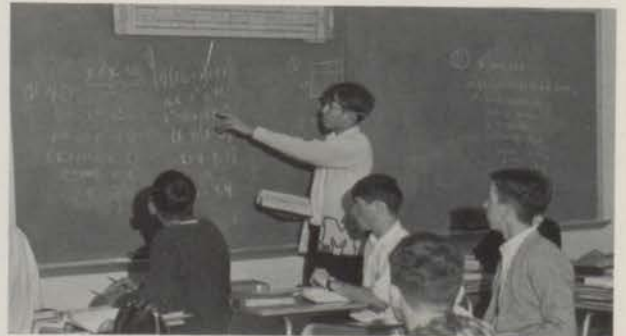

Vincent Rose and Bev Cade handle advanced math problems with ease.

Math promotes logic in thinking

The math department is headed by Mr. Buckles. Since mathematics plays such a large part in America's future as an advancing nation, Madison offers a very comprehensive math course. There are opportunities for learning math that will benefit all professions. Business math is offered for prospective secretaries; shop math for up-coming engineers; and algebra for future scientists.

Mr. Buckles' bulletin board designs add color to geometry class.

Science offers many phases of study.

The science department at MCHS offers many different areas of study for all students. There is a total of five different courses, each varying in its dealings with nature and natural law. These five areas include earth science, dealing with the earth itself and the universe of which it is a part; biology, studying the plant and animal kingdoms; advanced biology, studying in greater detail biology and biological conditions; chemistry, concerning atomic structures, elements, and experiment procedures; and physics, dealing with

With Mr. Glenn's assistance, Tom Wyman conducts an experiment for extremely interested seniors, including Phil Norisez, Milt Marquis, Ron Nay, Mark Butler, and Dennie Getz.

"Oxygen is a diatomic molecule," Mr. Dunkerton points out to this chemistry class.

Biology students Linda Chambers, Karen Tandy, and Shirley Means study the activities of protozoans and other such microscopic animals and plants under direction of Mr. Peters.

Helmut Englehardt, an exchange student from Germany, points out some propaganda techniques in psychology class.

Mutual understanding is emphasized

The Social Studies department of MCHS has received state-wide recognition due to the relatively new method of learning, independent study. As head of the department, Mrs. Eisan encourages her students to work individually in their particular areas of interest. Included in the department are world history, U. S. history, civics, world government, economics, and psychology. These departments emphasize the need for better understanding in order to achieve better international relationships.

Many visual aids in Mrs. Eisan's room aid in the study of World History.

Business department trains tomorrow's business leaders.

The business department seeks to train students to become skilled and efficient business leaders after graduation and prepares students planning to attend business schools. Courses offered in this department include general business, bookkeeping and accounting, shorthand, typing, business machines, and clerical practice.

Judy Park points out the brief forms which this shorthand class learns to use adeptly.

Kenny Brown works diligently to balance columns of figures in bookkeeping class.

Students learn to use the business machines accurately and correctly in classes such as this. Pictured are Elaine Lee, Sandy Jester, Wesley Steinhauer, Barb Bliton, Sharon Lucas.

DE and DECA go hand in hand for future careers

Distributive Education students, also members of the Distributive Education Clubs of America, train for jobs in distribution and marketing. This year, they received on-the-job training. Emphasizing DECA week are officers Bruce Anderson, Martha Ellis, Pat Perkins, John Wood, Junior Tullis, and instructor, Darryl Smith.

Bookstore assistants aid students with supplies

Responsible for the orderly and efficiently run bookstore are bookstore assistants Sara Moreillon, Darleen Liter, Christine Chatham, Chris Briddle, and Nancy Moore, who under the direction of Mrs. Reul, provide students with their school supply needs.

"Get with it, Keller!" shouts Steve Roberts, as Jim Bassett looks on with amusement.

Diane Newman, a "celebrity," receives much attention as the only girl in Mr. Elswick's Mechanical Drawing class.

Industrial arts trains future craftsmen

The Industrial Arts department promotes specialized training in mechanical skills. The department offers many opportunities in the curriculum. Auto mechanics, woodworking, mechanical drawing, and metal working are electives offered to students interested in the technical trades. Besides learning practical skills, the students are given numerous opportunities to aid the school. Last year, the shop classes undertook the project of constructing small stepladders.

Woodworking class is the scene of diligent and specialized activity.

Home Economics provides sound basis for future homemakers.

Sue Bell and Marcella Shipley work to complete their clothing projects, while at the same time they learn the proper techniques of clothing construction.

Students who are taking home economics receive instruction in several areas of home management and care. Not only does this instruction include the two areas of nutrition and foods, and textiles and clothing, but also the areas of human development, housing, home nursing, and management of time and money.

The reflections of a home economics class are unlimited. Here students learn basic principles of child care, which will prove invaluable later in life.

classroom*

Colorful Christmas decorations on the lobby windows are becoming a tradition at MCHS. Busily working are Connie Borter, Larry White, Karen Mason, Janet Hyden, and Scarlett Cline.

Everyone is enthusiastic about the art department, mainly because it is a means of expression and cultural development. The personal achievement and wide variety of activities are important factors in the great attraction art holds for students.

Students, along with Mr. Knoble, observe the basic principles employed in these art examples. Students learn to judge their own work as well as that of others.

Music and art appreciation stimulate cultural interest among students

With the whole-hearted support of classmates, Tanya Klopp tries to convince Mr. Knowland that although popular music recorded by such groups as the Beatles is fine, classical music is significantly greater.

Music appreciation is one of the newer courses at MCHS and it offers an excellent opportunity for students to become acquainted with the music of various periods. Students listen to well-known pieces of music and also study the chief characteristics of their respective periods.

Miss Millican points out the factors which student must observe in their own work in order that it be artistically correct.

Physical education students "bend over backwards" to become physically fit and genuinely healthy.

Physical education means fitness

At MCHS physical education becomes physical fitness through a plan of physical training in all areas of sports. Having completed such a plan, students are well on their way to becoming physically fit, healthy Americans.

Members of this girls' physical education class battle it out in vigorous and fast-moving game of basketball.

MCHS offers a course for every student

Aside from the regular academic and vocational course, MCHS offers many and varied subjects to fit the needs of every student. Health, vocations, and drivers education are all offered to help round out the curriculum of the student. Study hall is in most students' schedules to provide a time to at least begin homework.

The major purpose of vocations is to acquaint the students with the many new and interesting careers and occupations.

Mrs. Rider's class is planning for the future by taking the semester vocations course and studying hard.

This year all study halls moved to a new location, the MCHS auditorium. Here most students spend one period a day studying and preparing for classes.

Organizations

add spark to MCHS life

Madison High School recognizes the importance of providing extra-curricular activities for its students. A daily thirty-five minute break from routine comes as a welcome interlude for all. The opportunity of devoting time to a special interest not only makes high school life more acceptable, but also it aids in the formation of the well-rounded student, a common objective among all secondary schools.

MCHS clubs willingly extend activities to suit the tastes and interests of almost every pupil. The girls have exclusive claims over GAA and Knitting Club, while the boys are the lords of Lettermen's and Hi-Y. The sexes meet on mutual ground, however, in Debate Club, FTA, Pep Club, and the language clubs. Despite the broad field of organizations, it remains the decision of the individual student whether to take advantage of the opportunity offered.

The student who participates actively in a chosen organization shows his interest in his school, his fellow students, and himself. As a result, he is a better person and MCHS is a better place in which to learn.

Regardless of plans following graduation, the student who has given time to a club has learned the importance of working with others and subordinating his desires to those of the group. This section illustrates and explains the organizations to which students and teachers donate their time.

Debate club boosts arguing power

"Resolved: That the national government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration in basic industries." Under the leadership of new debate coach, Mr. Larry Richardson, the club has increased their schedule of schools to debate. Along with regular debating duties, several club members traveled to Indiana University to attend a special conference on world affairs. Bob Houghton, club president, was awarded a letter of excellence for his participation in the discussion groups and during the legislative session. Debate makes one quick-thinking, articulate, and informed. But hard work and practice are needed.

The Debate Club officers are Carolyn Price, secretary; Bob Houghton, president; Vicki MacKenzie, treasurer; and Chuck Rogers, vice-president.

Mr. Richardson gives helpful advice to debaters Chuck Rogers, Erana Jackson, Robert Scott, Jim Gibson, Karen

Pep club boosts team spirit

The boys' and girls' cheerblocks constitute the largest and loudest organization at MCHS. Under the supervision of Miss Eisenhardt and the leadership of the cheerleaders, the Pep Club meets on Fridays to learn new yells and practice old ones. The result of all the hard work is a rip-roaring cheerblock decked out in red and white. During tourneys, the Pep Club adds spice to their usual garb by adding colorful hats and gloves. All in all, the cheerblock backs the Cubs with a rousing spirit.

Agriculture improvement is aim of FFA

Coordinating training in agriculture classes with practical use, the Future Farmers of America attempt to improve the caliber of farming. By sponsoring such projects as a soil judging contest and a grain and tobacco show, the club promotes practical application of knowledge learned in formal classes. The club is sponsored by Mr. Cosby.

Science Club is introduced at MCHS

One of the newly organized clubs this year is the Science Club, sponsored by Mr. Cory and Mr. Dunkerton. A member of the Indiana Junior Academy of Science, its purpose is to promote interest in science careers and individual project work. The students learn requirements for college entrance in the field of science and gain an insight into what the colleges expect of them.

FHA and Knitting clubs develop domestic arts

Both FHA and the Knitting Club are sponsored by Miss Horn. The members of the Knitting Club combine practicality and fun. Miss Horn patiently guides the girls, whether it involves "purling" or "picking up stitches." FHA strives to promote a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking, to emphasize the importance of worthy home membership, and to foster the development of creative leadership in home and community. Through their efforts and contributions, they practice their motto, "Toward New Horizons."

Sunshine serves school and community

Sharon Thom, State President

SUNSHINE CREED

"With love in my heart, forgetting self, and with charity for all, I will make the object of my life helpfulness and kindness to others. I shall try to fit myself to give intelligent service in making my community a safer and more beautiful place in which to live. Thus will my own life become rich and complete."

The Sunshine Society, by special money-making projects, such as selling candy, Christmas ribbon and wrapping paper, and working at the concession stands during games, earns money to provide baskets for the needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas, special gifts to the school, and contributions to the Riley Fund. This year the Madison Chapter is honored to have the State Sunshine President, Sharon Thom.

Juniors and seniors in Sunshine are Row one: S. Wells, S. Beatty, K. Chandler, S. Hatchell, D. Noris, P. Wilson, L. Andrew, I. Storm, N. Moore; S. Branam, A. Moore, J. Dew, K. Liter, L. Glore, J. These boys earn the big white "M"

The Lettermen proudly display their sweaters and jackets which they receive for excellence in athletics. By urging good conduct and school loyalty, Lettermen's club promotes not only athletic achievement, but scholastic and moral development as well. The boys work toward a richer program for all athletic teams.

Discussion gives insight into world affairs

Current events fulfills the worthwhile goal of molding tomorrow's informed and responsible citizenry. The members of the organization investigate world problems and consider domestic affairs. The club, sponsored by Mrs. Cooper, strives to keep up with newsworthy events.

Hi-Y develops Christian fellowship.

Madison High boasts of their own chapter of the nation-wide Christian organization of HI-Y. Their projects include the annual Sweetheart dance and the hat and coat check during basketball season. This year, Greg Scott and Gary Denning were the two delegates sent to the model legislature in Indianapolis.

Greg Scott, state Hi-Y vice-president, will be the state president next year. He represented Indiana at the national Hi-Y convention.

Row one: Mr. Dougan (advisor), J. Connolly, G. Scott, B. McKay, D. Thompson, G. Denning, T. Spicer. Row two: R. Nay, J. Cable, R. McAtee, J. Connolly, M. Keller, D. Hackney, B. Flint, R. Holcroft, P. Spry, S. Chadwell, A. Copeland.

One of the newly organized clubs this year is BLAST. BLAST has many activities such as the candy sale; guests speakers who point out the many qualities admired in a secretary, such as personal grooming, personality, dress, and the acquired skills; and advice from the business teachers on dress and the care and variety of one's wardrobe. BLAST members do not have to be business majors to be a part of the club; they need only to possess an interest in gaining knowledge of the business world and the workings of machines and office procedure, which is one of the main objectives of the club. Sponsors this year are Mrs. Reul, Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Wynn.

BLAST officers are Linda Dew, vice-president; Margie Thornton, president; Connie Jones, treasurer; and Judy Park, secretary.

The French, Spanish, and Latin Clubs of MCHS serve multiple purposes. The clubs emphasize aspects of language other than those stressed in the classroom, thus adding interest to the regular course.

In a language club, the student has the opportunity to practice his language and to gain an understanding of the people and the culture of the lands where it is spoken.

Mrs. Willis helps Greg Scott in his third year French. This is the first year this course has been offered at MCHS. Susie Sloan, Margie Tullis, and Carol Humphrey continue studying.

The accent is on action

The girls in GAA are always active. They make money for the organization by selling Holiday Packs, sweaters, and sweatshirts. A lot of energy and class spirit is exhibited during the interclass basketball and volleyball tournaments. MCHS's GAA holds "playdays" to which several schools are invited for a day of fun and games. Finally, there is the camp at Versailles which any GAA girl may attend. It all adds up to lots of body-building fun through healthy competition. This year's GAA State Plaque winners are Linda Andrew, Nancy Gilles, Judy Park, Norma Riley, Barbara Singer, Mary Stewart, Tammy Tevis, Margie Thornton.

Journalism classes work fast and furiously to produce THE MADISONIAN

The Board members, Steve Standerford, Bruce McKay, Donna Stutler, Susie Britton, Bev Cade, John Cable, Carol Humphrey, Terry Lodge, Wendy Morgan, Karen Chambers, are instructed by their teacher, Mrs. Adler, seated at desk.

From "writing copy" to sketching "lay-outs," "proofing galleys," and doing "paste-ups," the thirty-five journalism students work to compose Madison High's school paper, THE MADISONIAN, which has a circulation of 1500. Previously, there has been only one journalism class, but this year Mrs. Adler instructs two classes, fifth and sixth periods, in the writing and the organization of THE MADISONIAN. During evening meetings, the editorial board and Mrs. Adler make preliminary plans for the coming issue of the paper. The reporters fulfill their assignments by gathering news and writing features. THE MADISONIAN is distributed throughout the school each month.

The sound of music is an integral part of the curriculum at MCHS. Under the leadership of Mr. Knowland and Mr. Neeld, the band members play in the regular concert band, the Marching Cubs, stage band, and various combos. At any performance there is variety in the choice of selections, ranging from classical to contemporary, marches to jazz. The Marching Cubs show their marching skill at the Regatta parade and at half-time shows. During concert season the band presents several concerts and travels to WHAS in Louisville to tape numbers for High Varieties.

Choir provides harmonious entertainment

This year, Mr. Ralph Meluney, director of the Choral Club and Ensemble, is stressing classical works to build the members' appreciation of more mature music. On the other hand, the Choral Ensemble tends to include the contemporary compositions. The Choral Club furnishes entertainment at assemblies and attends the annual Music Festival which was held at North Vernon in April.

Choral Ensemble members, directed by Mr. Meluney, are

More power is vested in Council

Student Council is one of the most important and powerful organizations of MCHS. Two Student Council representatives are chosen from each senior homeroom and one is chosen from each freshman, sophomore, and junior homeroom. Mrs. Williams and Mr. Fisher act as sponsors and advisors. The members form a vital link between the student body and school administration. With Mr. Thompson's encouragement for a strong student council, the organization does much to offer suggestions for the betterment of MCHS.

'66 Staff emphasizes quality

The staff of the '66 MAHISCO, sponsored by Mrs. McKenna, has put the emphasis on quality. Editor, typists, copy writers, and individuals assigned to specific sections have worked long hours to make this year's MAHISCO the best yet. The use of cut lines and more extensive copy, plus elimination of the summer supplement coupled with a summer delivery are changes the staff feel will greatly enhance the quality of the book. Editor Karen Chambers and assistant editor Darleen Liter attended Indiana University's 1965 summer yearbook workshop; and through this training, they have been able to propose more efficient methods of preparing the yearbook.

Typists Kris Cheatham, Linda Lindsey, Linda Gore, and Susan Matthews work on copy, as Tom Wyman, copy editor, checks the material.

Karen Chambers, editor, and Darleen Liter, assistant-editor, attended a yearbook workshop for two weeks this summer at Indiana University.

Ron Nay and R. D. Zink handle the fiscal matters of the MAHISCO while John Cable and Jim Connolly supervise the advertising section.

Vicki MacKenzie, Bev Cade, and Susie Branam, album editors, collect and organize the underclassmen's pictures.

Routine is speeded by library assistants

Several MCHS students volunteer to work in the library to help Mrs. Cook, the school librarian, with some of the routine duties. These library assistants spend their study halls or homeroom periods charging, checking in, shelving, stamping books, and getting new books ready for use. The students take turns performing these duties in such a manner as to allow study time for each student. Those who serve as assistants for the first time work temporarily as "assistants in training" until they become better acquainted with library work. In addition to being a help to Mrs. Cook in keeping the library running smoothly, these students become informed about the work of a librarian.

Frosh., soph., and sen. library assistants are Row one: B. Hamilton, N. Harper, D. Williams, M. Willis, B. MacKenzie, V. MacKenzie, S. Birchfield, S. Cline. Row two: P. Norisz, P. Stewart, C. Price, G. Martin, S. Wells, S.

Assistants give aid in lab and office

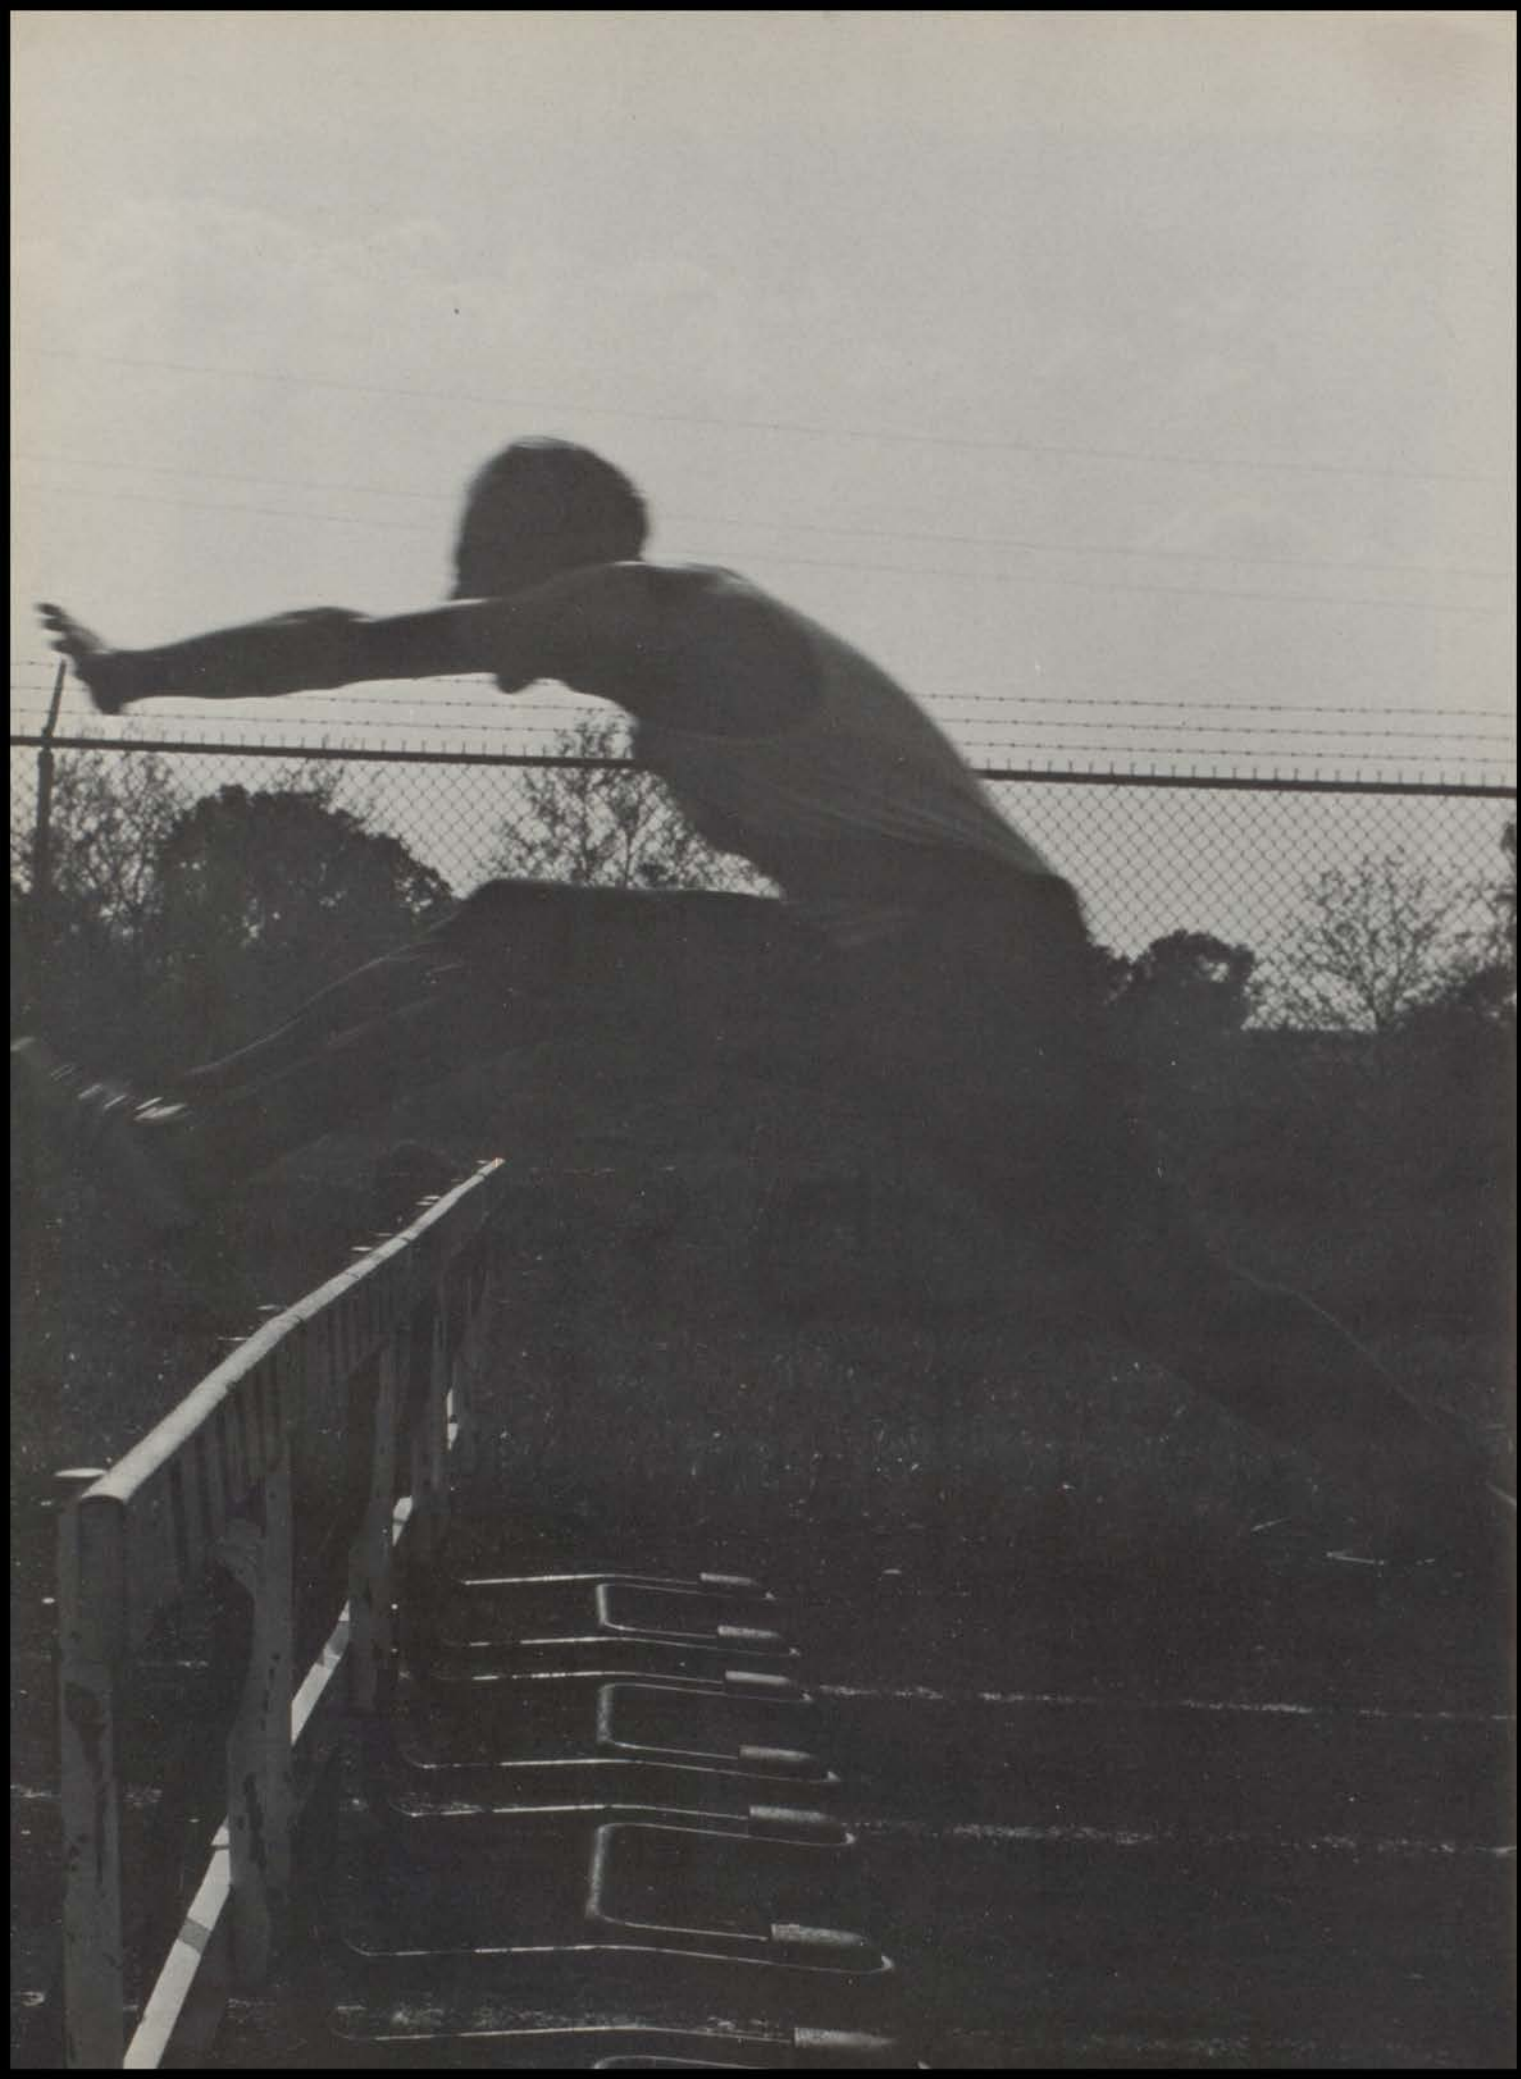

And there are those who lend a helping hand. . . . The lab assistants give their time and energy to aid the science and language teachers. Each lab assistant is kept busy by his respective teacher helping instruct classes, grading papers, typing and tape recording.

The office assistants provide the office secretaries with invaluable aid. Each period's assistants perform various duties such as running errands, typing, and checking texts. The office helpers willingly give their study hall to expedite the many office jobs.

Office assistants are Row one: M. Woodfill, S. Beatty, K. Copeland, D. Grubbs, V. Kroll, S. Campbell, S. Lowrance, B. Barnes, J. Park, P. Wyne. Row two: B. Cloud, G. Risk,

Sports

set a fast pace at MCHS

No school is complete in its curriculum without a varied program of sports. Sports develop the mind as well as the body and present the student with the opportunity to compete with others. The spectator, also, benefits from sports. A well-played game acts as a safety valve to relieve the pressures which accumulate on the shoulders of the contemporary student.

Sports assume many and varied forms for MCHS students. For those who enjoy knocking others down in a manner less than courteous, there is football; basketball is the order of the day for the spectator who enjoys fast-moving action with cliff-hanging results; if, perhaps a student desires to sink balls into holes without unduly exerting himself, golf is the answer; strong lungs and fast legs are the prerequisites for the oldest of competitive sports, track. Perhaps, though, a student weighs too little for football, has eyes too close to the ground for basketball, doesn't know a spoon from a brassie, and doesn't like to get cinders in his tennis shoes—the answer to his prayer is wrestling, the sport which takes boys from ninety-five pounds up.

All sports, however, require much time and some physical dexterity; thus, there are many students who are unable to participate actively. A spectator who has an understanding of the game and a sense of sportsmanship may prove to be as valuable an asset as a good athlete. Happily enough, there is sufficient room in sports for both the fan and the player.

Madison was in a rebuilding year in 1965. With only eight returning seniors, the smaller, lighter Cubs faced tough opposition from such teams as North Vernon, Aurora, Salem, Clarksville, Lawrenceburg, and Franklin. Under the guidance of Head Coach John Adler, the Fightin' Cubs employed the "split" and "winged" T formation to good use against Corydon at the Big Red homecoming and effectively in the Batesville match.

Leading the Cubs this year were Coach Jim Bates and Assistant Coach Roger Gallatin.

With only two seniors and many relatively inexperienced underclassmen, Mr. Bates coached the team to a 12-12 record.

The Cubs see action

Bob Liesure gets a hard-earned basket against his taller Greensburg opponents.

The squad of Coach Jim Bates, playing one of their most competitive schedules in years, broke even in the 1965-1966 season. The Cubs played such state powers as Greensburg, Columbus, New Albany, Vincennes, East Chicago Washington, Shelbyville, and Indianapolis Tech. With only two seniors on the team, Al Schmidt and Jim Logrig, the Cubs showed that they could run with the best around. Among some of the regular season's best performances were the games between rivals North Vernon, Columbus, Tech, and the teams in the East Chicago Tourney. Mr. Bates brought his charges to a peak for the sectional. The Cubs played their finest ball yet and swept to their tenth consecutive sectional win. The closest game was an overtime win over Charlestown. In the second meeting with Columbus this season, the Bulldogs dropped the Cubs in the Regional.

The Madison High cheerleaders play an important role in maintaining our school spirit and encouraging in the spectators good sportsmanship. Bouncing zestily about, blowing trumpets, hopping up on each others' backs, and always ready with the right cheer at the proper moment, they encourage the team, rouse the fans, and create a high level of school spirit.

Darryl Smith's Cub Grapplers posted an almost perfect season, winning all regular dual matches. The only mars in their schedule came in tournament play where they finished a respectable second and third. They also finished high in the tough Indiana Sectional. Seniors on the team, all of whom lettered, include M. Bonadio, B. Rigsby, P. Geyman, D. Lieser, E. Schindel, R. Turner, D. Bolen, G. Giltner, D. Lock, K. Wehner and M. Keller. Junior Gerald Risk was voted the best improved wrestler and Mike Keller was voted most valuable by his teammates.

Intramurals show a different dimension in MCHS sports

MCHS offers an extensive intramural program. Intramurals provide an outlet for the energy of exuberant MCHSers. The boys who participate in the program learn the meaning of sportsmanship and develop a sense of competition. The boys accept the responsibility for organizing, managing, and coaching the teams; also they name the teams with such colorful tags as the Cherryblossoms. The teams compete in football, basketball, volleyball, table tennis, and softball. The highlight of the season is the game with the faculty team.

The 1966 track team came the closest of any Madison cinder team in recent years to having an unblemished record. After rolling to victories in eight straight meets, the Cubs were finally derailed by Columbus in the final meet of the season. During the season new MCHS records were set in the low hurdles, two-mile run, pole vault, and half-mile relay.

Seniors who will be missed by next year's team are Garry Giltner, Marvin Eades, Dennis Getz, and Kenny Wehner.

Golfers chalk up improved season

Coach Jim Bates' golfers ran into some stiff competition namely the weatherman. Many of the matches were postponed due to inclement weather. Album shows MCHS at its best

The Madison Consolidated High School is a multi-million dollar complex of brick, concrete, and tinted glass. It houses modern facilities for all the departments and is a landmark of civic pride. Yet on a Saturday morning this costly, modern, and proud structure is a desolate shell because it is lacking the vital element—people. This year the MCHS student body reaches an all-time high. There are 1062 students with varied personalities, likes and dislikes, strengths and weaknesses, and interests. But it is due to these differences that MCHS is strong. These students, these people, are the heart, the mind, and the soul of every class, club, and activity. The faculty and administration are the chief molders of the beliefs, ideals, and aspirations of the students. These people have dedicated their lives to guiding young men and women to find a meaning in their lives and thus find meaning in their own. The Board of Education plays a large role in the life of MCHS. These concerned citizens realize the importance of education and take time to supervise the operation of the school and to formulate basic policies.

People need people. The cooks, custodians, and office secretaries perform the many tasks that account for the smoothness in MCHS routine. Although the people of MCHS may not always be aware of the endless, time-consuming work behind the scenes, they need only pause in a moment of thought to see just how much they owe to these people. MCHS is vibrant and alive, vivacious and enthusiastic, vigorous and energetic because of PEOPLE.

Mr. Meredith Thompson

The administration, faculty, and student body of Madison Consolidated High School join in sincerely welcoming our new principal, Mr. Meredith Thompson. Mr. Thompson's experience and capabilities in discharging administrative duties makes our school an efficient and agreeable place in which to learn.

Following his high school years, Mr. Thompson served three years in the Navy. He then attended Ball State University and graduated as a member of the Class of 1949. In 1953, he was awarded his Masters Degree in Education and today has one year of credit beyond his Masters.

Mr. Thompson has served as administrative head of Huntington County Township High School, and Albion and Auburn high schools before accepting his present position at MCHS. Of the MCHS pupils Mr. Thompson remarked: "The general atmosphere of the student body is the best I've ever seen."

All of us at Madison High are anticipating a long, cordial, and cooperative relationship with our new principal.

Thompson and Graham lead MCHS through everyday trials

Mr. Richard Graham, vice-principal and disciplinarian, began his second year on the administrative staff this year. In addition to his duties as assistant principal, Mr. Graham coached the MCHS tennis team.

Mr. Graham received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Indiana State Teachers' College and is presently working on an advanced degree. Before coming to Madison, he taught social studies, physical education, and health, plus being the head football and track coach, and the assistant basketball coach at Veedersburg, Indiana. Also before coming here, he was the guidance director at Huntingburg, Indiana.

Cooks and janitors add flavor and sparkle to school life

The MCHS cooks are Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Andrew, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Auxier, Mrs. Kessler, Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Jaynes, and Mrs. Cooke.

The MCHS cooks arrive at the school before the students do, usually between 7:00 and 8:00 A.M. They spend their morning rapidly preparing the meals for the hundreds of students who daily buy their lunches. After laborious hours of cooking, serving and cleaning, our cooks return home just in time to face the prospects of an evening meal for their own families.

Custodial work is a necessary part of school maintenance and a job which may be more efficiently done with the cooperation and thoughtfulness of the student body. The custodial staff of Madison High takes pride in doing the countless tasks required to keep the building and grounds clean and pleasant for students and faculty.

"Double, double, toil and trouble . . ."

Our custodians are Mr. Cecil Sedan, Mr. Merle Sedan, Mr. Weis, Mr. Lewis, Mr. McManis, Mr. Long, and Mr. Glascock.

Secretaries and aides facilitate educational process.

The secretaries are Mrs. Betty Flint, Mrs. Mary Lou Giltner, Mrs. Norma Bentley, and Mrs. Mildred Thomas. Mrs. Marjorie Bright is not pictured.

The MCHS secretaries are a valuable asset in performing many functions for the administrators, faculty, and students. The secretaries type and sort grades, type business letters, and prepare grade transcripts for seniors applying for college. The secretaries are vitally essential for an efficient and organized school office.

The teachers' aide was made possible by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Designed primarily for students with problems in reading, the program appropriated $91,000 for Madison for reading consultants and the 12 teachers' aides.

Supervising learning experiences and relieving teachers for other work are two of the important duties of the teacher aide. One of the primary purposes is to improve the communication between home and school through the student.

The teachers' aides are Mrs. John Paul, Mrs. John Reed, and Mrs. Phil Stanton.

Senior Class officers are Danny Bolen, president; Carol Humphrey, treasurer; Susie Britton, vice-president; Mrs. Reul, sponsor; and Susie Branam, secretary.

Freshmen face new challenges at MCHS

Physical education is a required freshman course.

Advertising

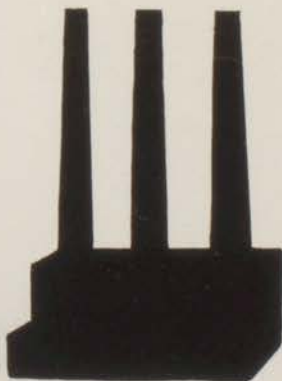

promotes community growth

The IKE plant stacks of progress point to the future of Madison and Jefferson County. They show the upward trend in all facets of a Madisonian's life. With pride they point to the projects of tomorrow and look back on the accomplishments of yesterday. With determination they mark the new heights for which a growing Madison must strive to reach the even greater pinnacles. The dignity which Madison has earned and held as a business community is typified by their stature.

For such a community as Madison to compete in a business world, a strong economic foundation is essential; for enterprise to prosper, it must bring its message to the people. This is the purpose of advertising.

Advertising is the lifeblood of any business. It is to this lifeblood that the next section of this book is dedicated, for it is through advertising that the people of a community become aware of the many goods and services offered them.

During the fall of '65 when the entire MAHISCO staff fanned across Jefferson County to solicit advertising for the '66 MAHISCO, scores of business establishments purchased advertising space. Staff members of the advertising section spent many hours planning, organizing, and laying out the many pages of their division. The following section is the fruit of their efforts.

TO THE STUDENTS OF
MADISON CONSOLIDATED HIGH SCHOOL
GRADUATING NOW AND IN FUTURE YEARS . . .

WE SALUTE YOU!

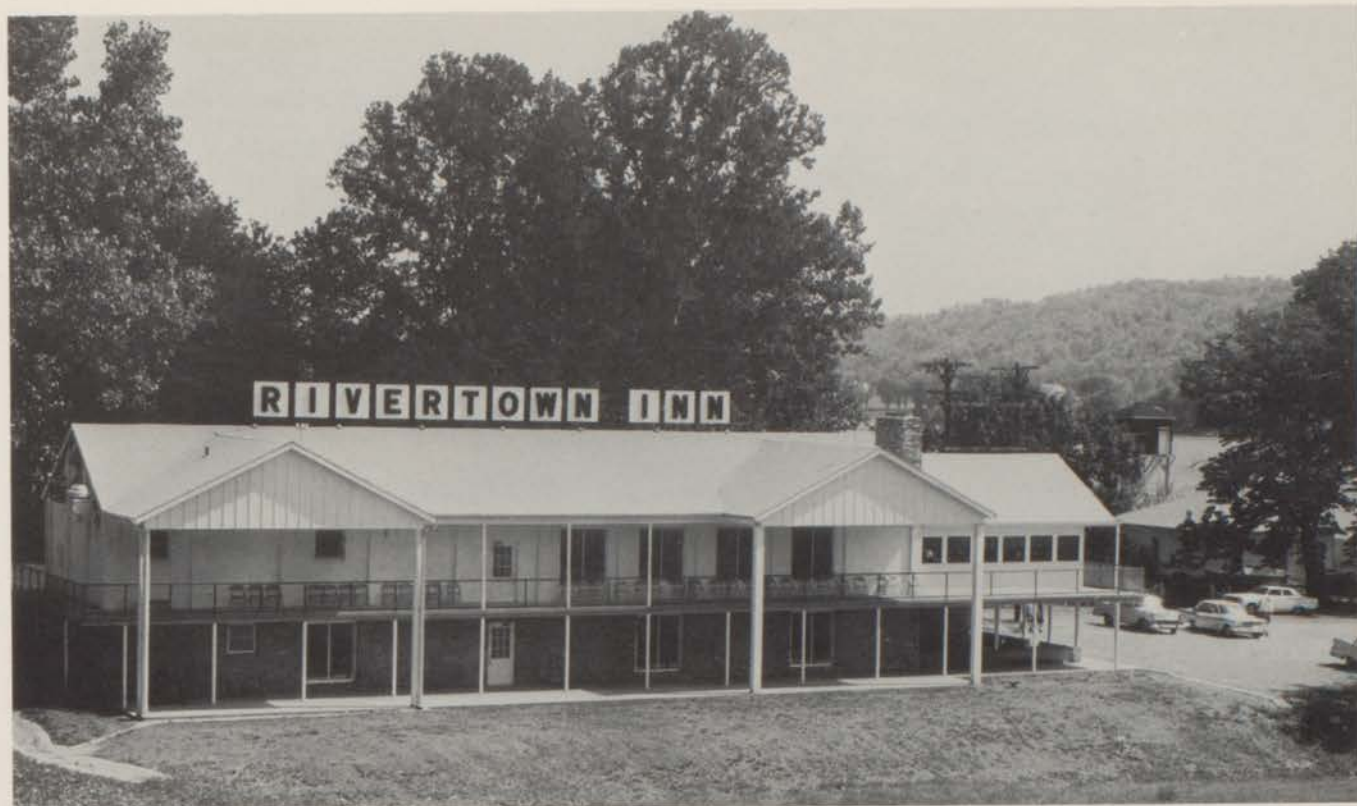

. . . with you lies the future of our community and our great country. We welcome you in this further step in our productive society, and we have faith in the sense of values you bring with you. We have trust that you are entering this stage of your life not only prepared with educational skills but endowed with the Spiritual values that set America apart. The skills change with our ever expanding technology but the basic values remain the same—

- Dedication to God
- Dedication to our fellow man
- Dedication to freedom
- Dedication to individual rewards based on hard work and achievement
- Dedication to our Free Enterprise System
