The building is a long, two-story structure with a brick facade and a series of windows. In the foreground, three students are sitting on the grass, reading books. To the left, two more students are standing near a covered walkway. Three tall flagpoles are visible, flying the American flag, the Indiana state flag, and a blue flag with a yellow emblem. The sky is a pale, overcast blue. The text is overlaid on the upper left portion of the image.

Volume XLI

Most people have asked themselves, at least once in their lives, "Where have I been? What have I accomplished? Where am I going?" There is not a man alive who has not had the desire to leave some mark on the world, some lasting proof of his existence.

Perhaps for the youth of this nation, these questions are the most searching and this desire the strongest, for their lives stretch out before them. They have the chance to decide what they want their lives to mean and where their services are needed most.

The students of Madison Consolidated High School stand on the threshold of tomorrow. Each one of them must decide whether his future shall hold promise or sorrow. These young men and women are fortunate in that they are surrounded by competent advisors who have years of experience and knowledge behind them. The final decisions, however, rest with each individual student.

One cannot doubt that these youths will succeed. Each will enter his chosen field with a burning resolve to do his best. Their contributions to society will be outstanding, for they have the necessary potential and stamina.

Ahead, these students face moments of contentment, dilemma, success, and failure. But their training has prepared them to accept whatever the future may bring. Behind them, they leave memories—memories of crowded hallways, slamming lockers, quiet classrooms, and laughing people. Behind them, too, they leave

THERE'S NEVER A DULL moment at MCHS. Above, several of the Physics students take advantage of an empty hall to conduct a wave motion experiment.

MORNING ANNOUNCEMENTS keep students informed about club activities, class meetings, and changes in the school policy.

"FRIEND OR FOE?" is the question asked by two members of the junior class, as they lend a helping hand.

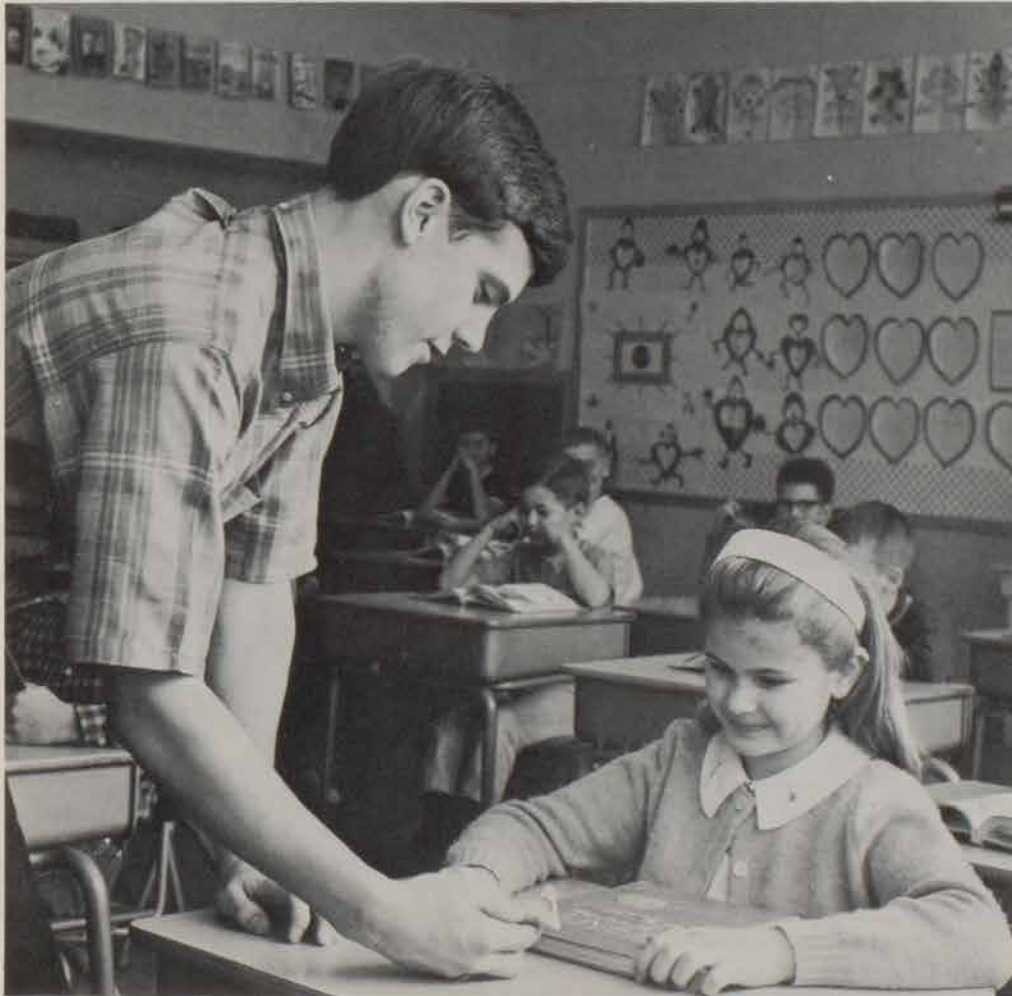

"MUSIC TO WATCH girls by" is the photographers opinion as he candidly captures some MCHS students doing the latest dances.

ENCHANTED WITH THE BLOSSOMING spring flowers, MCHS students enjoy the prom scenery. After a week of preparation, Juniors presented this annual affair with the theme, "Love is Blue". Two bands, the Oxfords and the Marauders, provided the entertainment for the evening.

A CADET TEACHER at E. O. Muncie explains the formation of rocks to a third grade pupil. The exploratory teaching was a new program at MCHS this year.

"CATCHING" A FELLOW is the object of all the MCHS girls on Sadie Hawkins Day. In the evening, the fairer sex escorted their chosen guy to the Sadie Hawkins Dance.

Students exhibit humor, spirit and patriotism

LATE AGAIN! Since many of the students must ride to school, a common problem faced is that of trying to catch their bus. Often a minutes' delay may mean a phone call home or a long walk.

STARTING THE WEEK off right, MCHS students stand at attention as they proudly repeat the pledge of allegiance to the American flag.

SPIRIT IS THE KEY word. Above, MCHS students display their enthusiasm and support as they hopefully cheer the Cubs on to another victory.

LUNCH HOUR OFFERS a break from the day's activities and a chance to catch up on the latest gossip. For a short time, students can forget about teachers and assignments. The sound of talk and laughter is stilled only by the bell, signaling the return to the classroom.

IN THE MIDST of their busy schedules, students take time out to visit the library. Here they may do research for term papers, choose novels for book reports, or read the most recent magazines. A quiet atmosphere prevails as the students become engrossed in their work.

Outgoing seniors unite in spirit while awaiting

After four years of hard work and service, outstanding seniors were recognized before the student body on Honor Day, May 17. Sally Renne, senior class president, served as mistress of ceremonies and introduced the class sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. George Ruel.

John Taylor, valedictorian, and Sharon Thom, salutatorian, offered short speeches of advice to the underclassmen. Senior members of the band, choral club, and Thespians entertained the audience with various skits.

The highlight of Honor Day was the presentation of awards. Herff Jones Awards were presented to the top students in each subject area. John Taylor was honored to receive four of these eighteen awards.

Mr. Thompson announced the winners of numerous scholarships. A new grant, the Joseph V. Cline Scholarship, was awarded to Terry Cox. The Student Council presented two scholarships rather than the usual one given in the past, while the Business Club increased its $100 award to $300. Fourteen Lotz Scholarships were presented to the top fourteen members of the senior class.

Another highpoint of the ceremony was the announcement of the superlatives, who were elected by the seniors to represent their class.

Mariellen Gourley, Chairman of the Gift to the School committee, announced that the senior class was giving a drinking fountain to be placed in the cafeteria and a portable speaker lectern to the school.

Following the Honor Day ceremony, the seniors ate lunch together and then were dismissed for the remainder of the day.

Madison Consolidated High School's Class of 1968 received diplomas May 26 during a ceremony in the Connor K. Salm gymnasium.

It was the 105th commencement for Madison High, and a total of 238 seniors were graduated. Though the actual presentation of diplomas by Superintendent George Cook comprised the biggest part of the program, short talks were given by several of the honor graduates.

Charles Rogers welcomed commencement guests following the invocation given by Sally Renne, class president. Sharon Thom presented the class intention and John Taylor gave the farewell address. Tim McKinney concluded the program with the benediction.

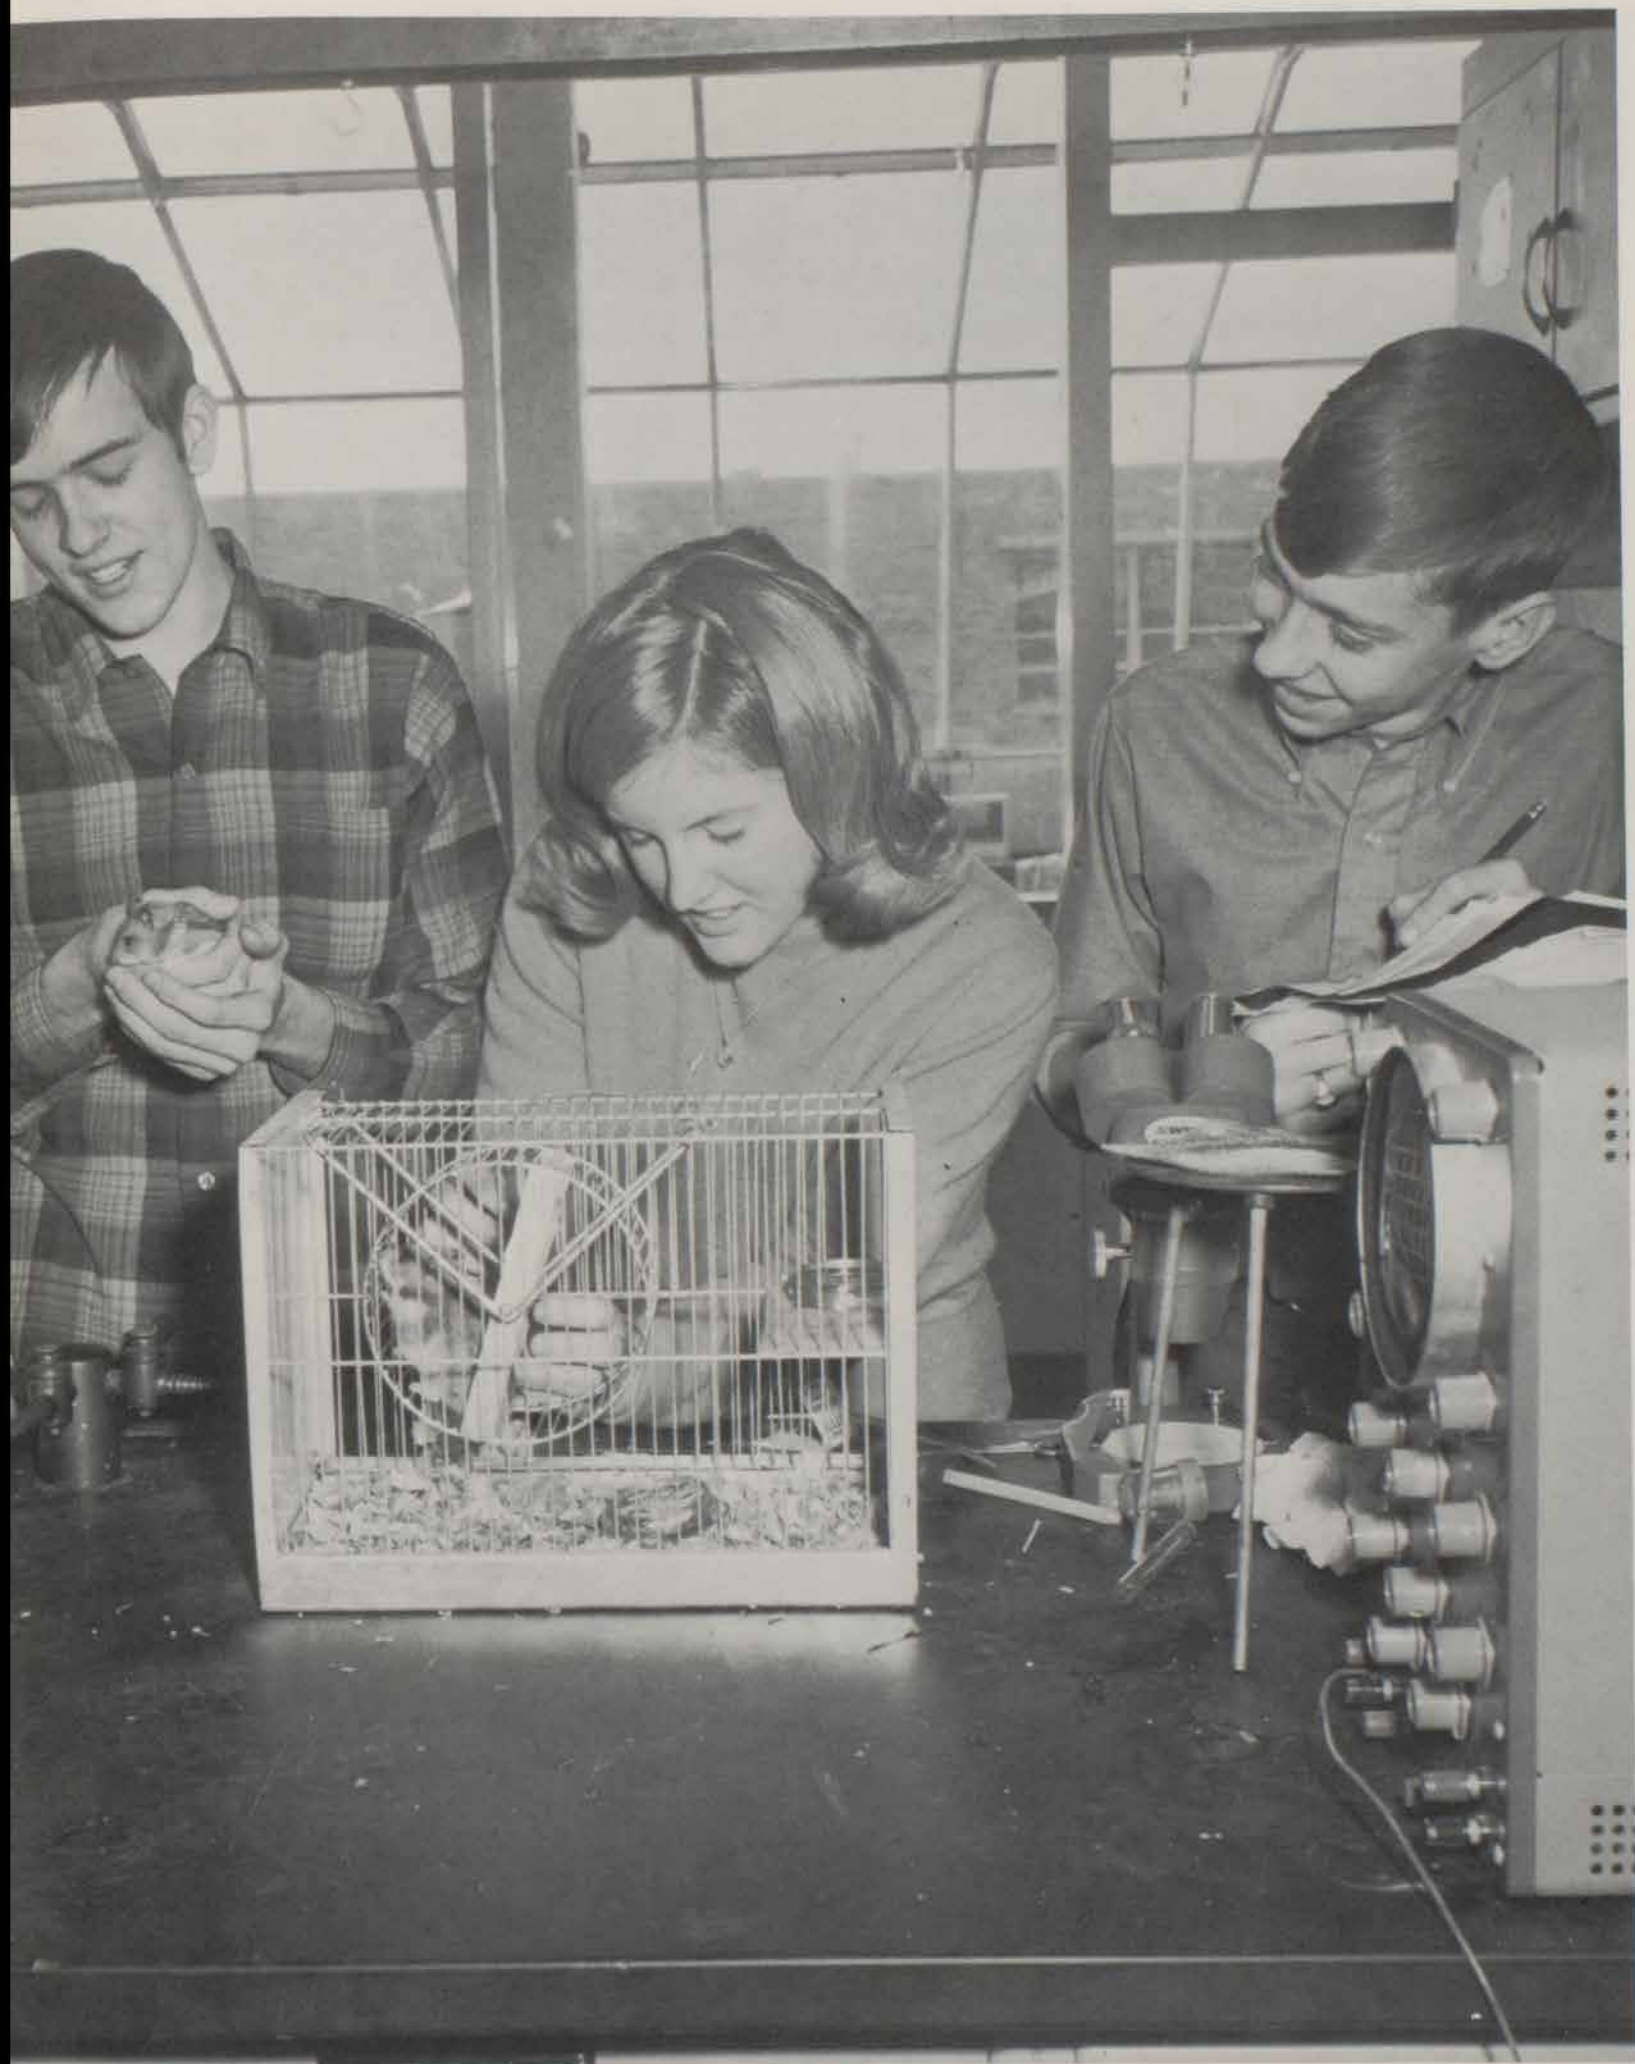

Daily life at MCHS centers around the classroom. The faculty and administration combine their efforts to make learning an experience rather than a task for the students.

Classroom work, however, is not restricted to teacher-instructions. Students assert their own opinions and defend their ideas if challenged. In quiet reading periods or discussions that sometimes become quite loud, new theories are made and tested.

Who could know what great men of the future walked these halls? Who could determine which of these young men and women will be the politicians, entertainers, or professionals of tomorrow? All know, however, that they are here. Tomorrow they will be the leaders of their fellow men leaving strong and clear footprints in their wake. For today, however, they are students excelling in

ACADEMICS

MCHS English opens the pathway to new

PARTICIPATING IN ONE phase of debate, the cross examination, Nancy Cosby questions Kit McCrary in hopes of finding fault in his reasoning.

A new addition to the English Department at MCHS was the Debate class. Mr. O'Sullivan, a new teacher, was in charge of this class.

Since four years of English were required, American, English, and World Literature were taught. Students were also introduced to at least five different books during the year. After completing the Freshman year, students were expected to do two term papers a year.

After studying the writing techniques of various authors, the advanced comp classes tried their hands at being authors.

MOCKING THE OLD Pilgrim tradition of punishment, Johnny Fitz, Linda Chambers, and Mike McKinney participated in a skit, presented by one of Mrs. Wingham's English speech classes. This presentation was a prominent feature in the Thanksgiving assembly.

DUE DATES and term papers are Ilean Weinberg's main concerns. Below, she pauses for a short break before continuing her research.

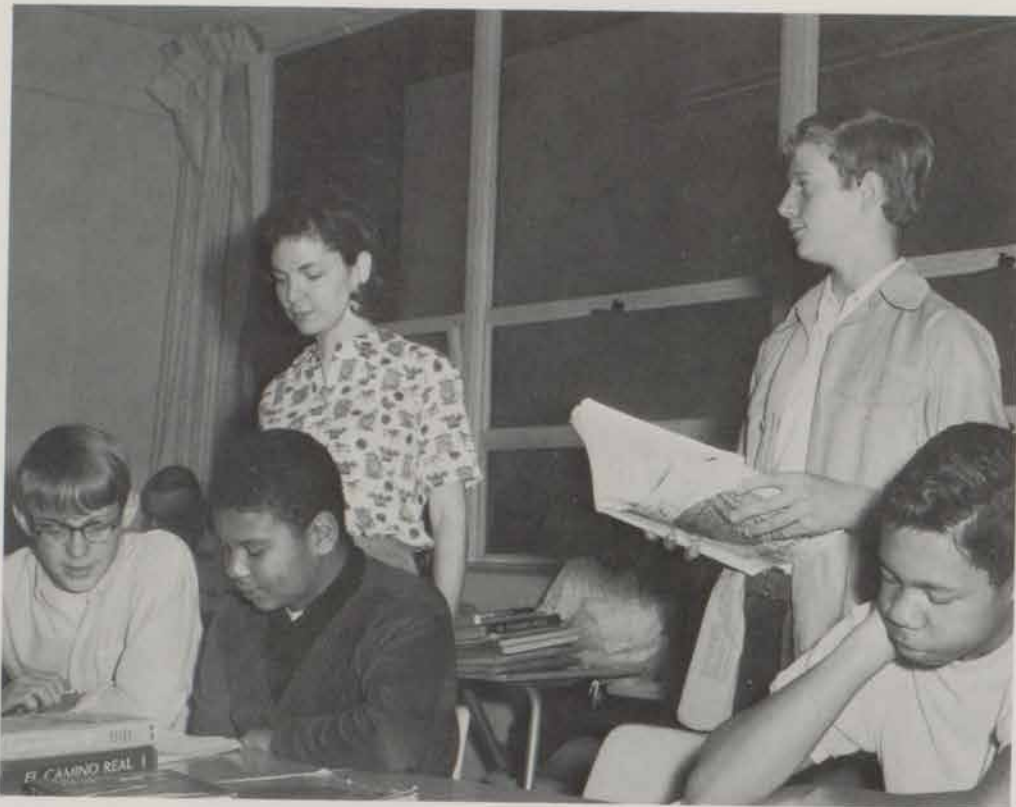

STRIVING FOR BETTER reading habits, Denise Harrell uses the shadowscope with the assistance of Mrs. Ritter.

ADVANCING IN THE understanding of American literature, Mrs. Hooker's sixth period class listens as she leads an oral discussion. Studying authors from Mather to Twain, students broaden their literary knowledge.

Language debates broaden foreign insight

WALKING THROUGH HER first year Spanish class, Miss Rubin is able to assist Mike Carlow, Louis O'Banion, David Stutler, and Marvin Cosby, when they have any difficulty.

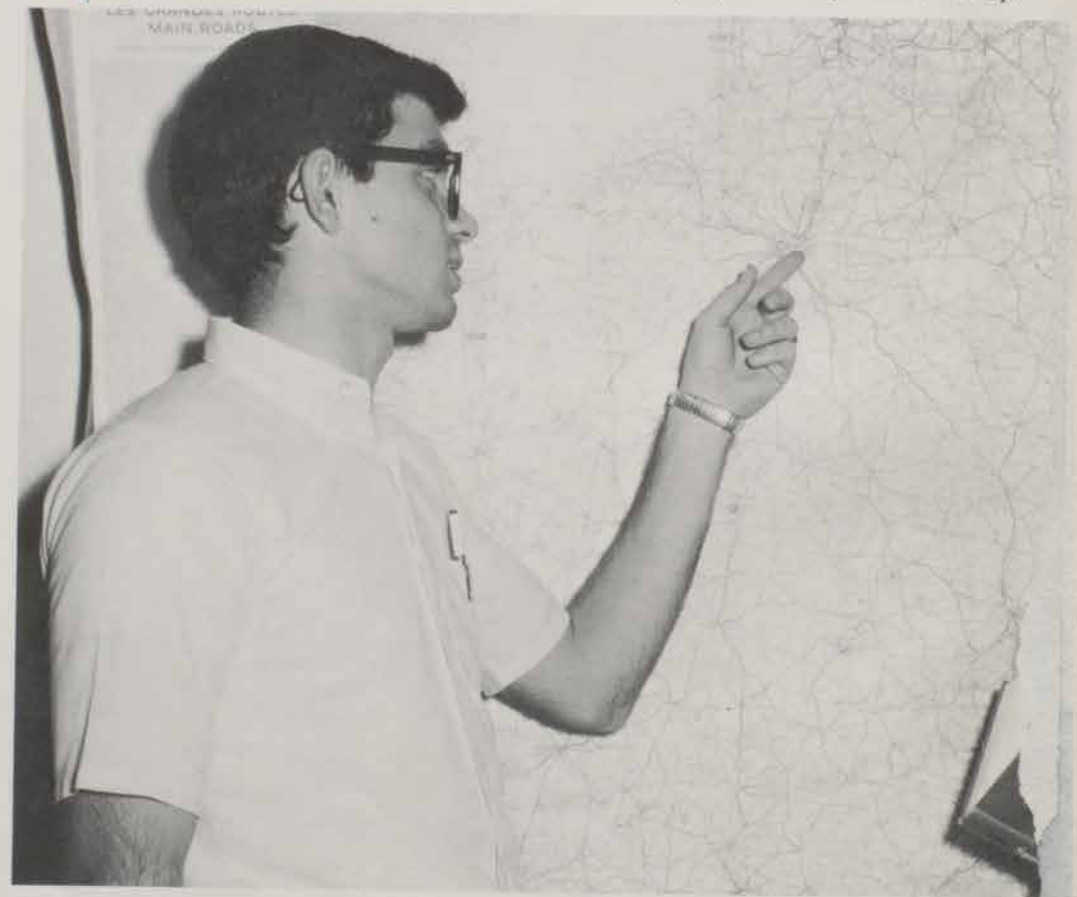

Madison's foreign language department grew in leaps and bounds during 1967-68. To aid the growth, two new teachers were added to the staff, Miss Rubin joined the Spanish classes and Mr. Whitney taught German.

Spanish classes used the audio-visual equipment extensively. By seeing films and listening to tapes of dialogues, the students were better able to speak and understand the language.

The study of phonetics and spoken French, served as the basis for beginning French students. In the more advanced classes, students concentrated on reading and writing the French language.

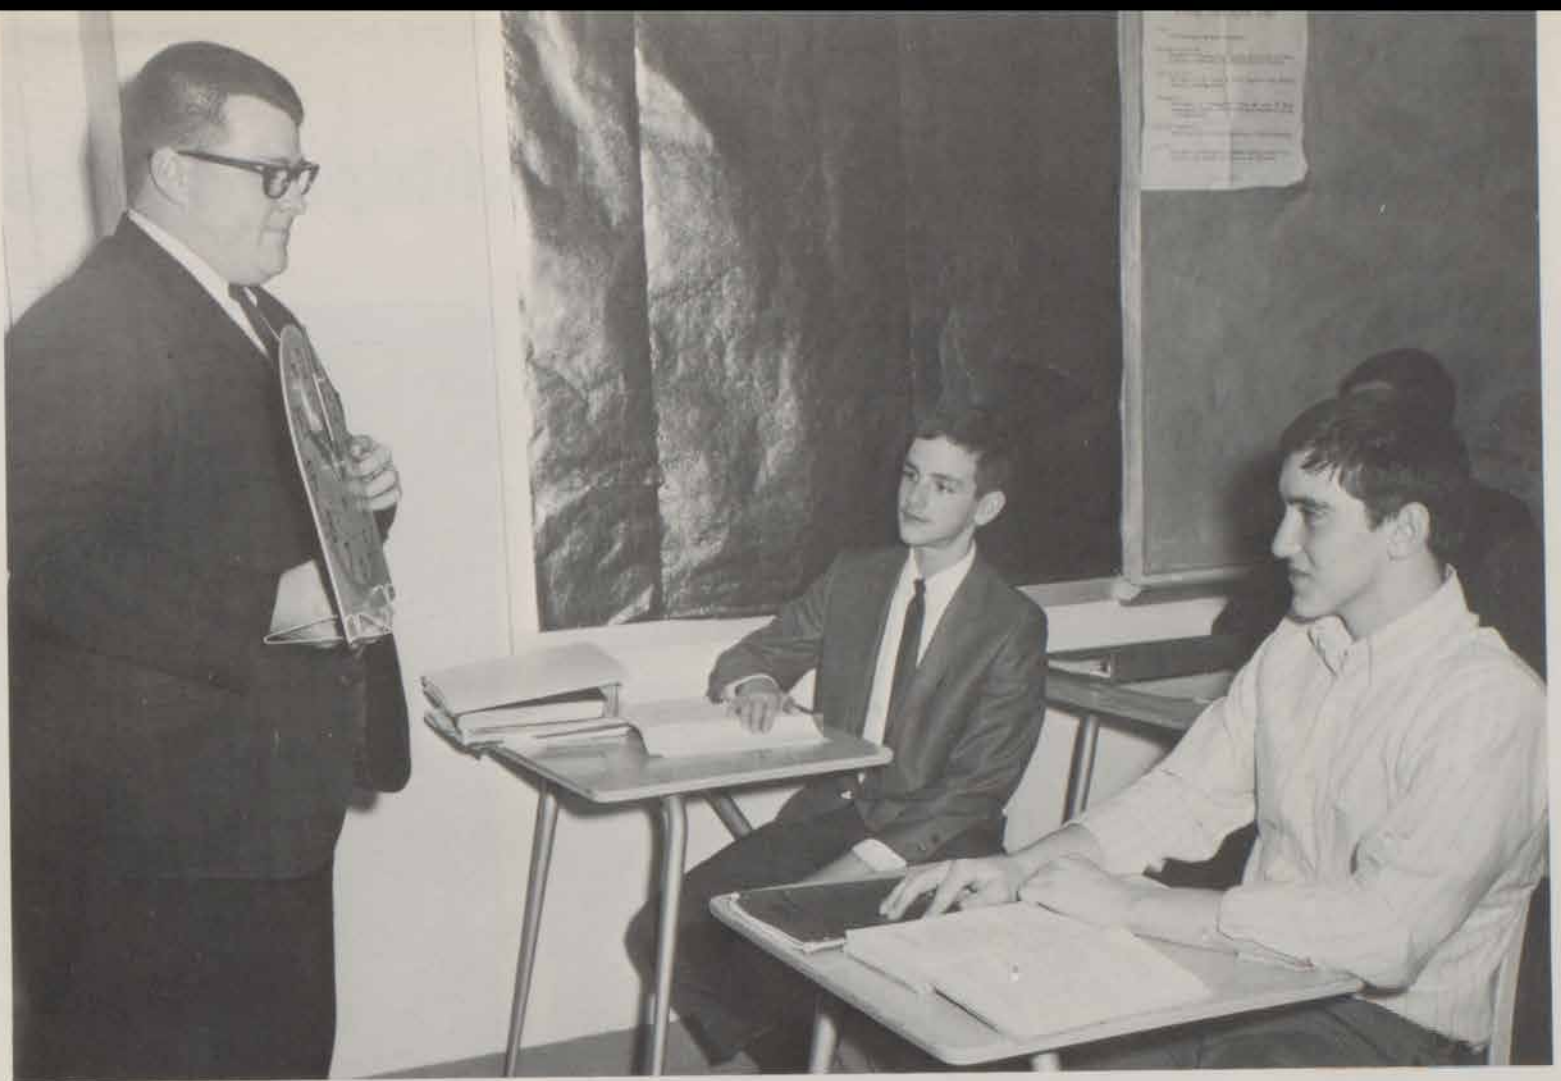

First year Latin students, under the direction of Mrs. Wood, learned the basics of the ancient language. The second year students studied not only the language itself, but also Roman history and Cicero.

German students began their studies by learning to count and conduct easy conversations. Second year pupils learned writing skills and the third year classes employed independent study.

IN THEIR FOURTH YEAR of their study of French, Chuck Rogers and Susan Wardlow have found French geography to be interesting and educational.

HELPING NANCY HARPER in correcting an assignment, Dr. Walling points out a problem.

"WIE VEIL UHR ES"? "What time is it?" asks Herr Keach, as he flashes the clock in front of Mike Mitchell and Marc Modisett. Learning to tell the time is only one of many things Mr. Keach teaches in his first year German classes.

POINTING OUT the Latin version of the American Pledge of Allegiance is Bobbi Bundy. Mrs. Wood stands by listening to class recitation.

EXPERIMENTING WITH TRIAL and error, members of Mrs. Buckles' psychology class, Chris Clark and Steve M. Thompson, watch Jim Gilles as he experiments with the maze.

The social studies department added an extra attraction to the '67-'68 school year, by initiating a Student Government Day.

The day came into existence by the work of a Steering Committee, which was composed of one delegated member of each senior social studies class.

The senior class was then divided into two political parties, the Nationalists and the Federalists. After two weeks of vigorous campaigning, an all-school rally was held the day before the general election. At that time, each party performed skits which illustrated their various platforms.

As a climax, the elected students worked side-by-side with their respective city officials for a day.

The sophomore world history classes were also active in that they took an all day field trip to Louisville where they toured the Speed Art Museum. There, they were able to see the different forms of both modern and historical art.

On February 10, two members of the senior class, Sharon Thom and Della Ryker, traveled to Indianapolis with Mrs. Cooper, where they attended the annual Government Leadership Conference, sponsored by Senator Birch Bayh.

Modern math and sciences

ATTEMPTING TO UNTANGLE a spring that was twisted during a wave-motion experiment poses a challenge for Mr. Imel and physics students Sue McAlexander and Kay Camenisch.

THE DELICATE TASK of dissecting is performed by Raymond Hoepfner and David Wells. Laboratory exercises and book diagrams help the pupils to understand biology better.

A GAS COLLECTING experiment is the object of interest for Mr. Kupler, Don Stephanus, and Pam Rogers. Chemistry laboratory findings reinforce the ideas that the students learn from textbooks.

stress the importance of technological skills

MCHS offered a full curriculum to all students interested in the scientific field. A newly introduced course, physical science, served as a prelude to chemistry and physics. Although it was mainly a methods course, involving experiments such as separating compounds and finding volume, it was supplemented by textbook reading.

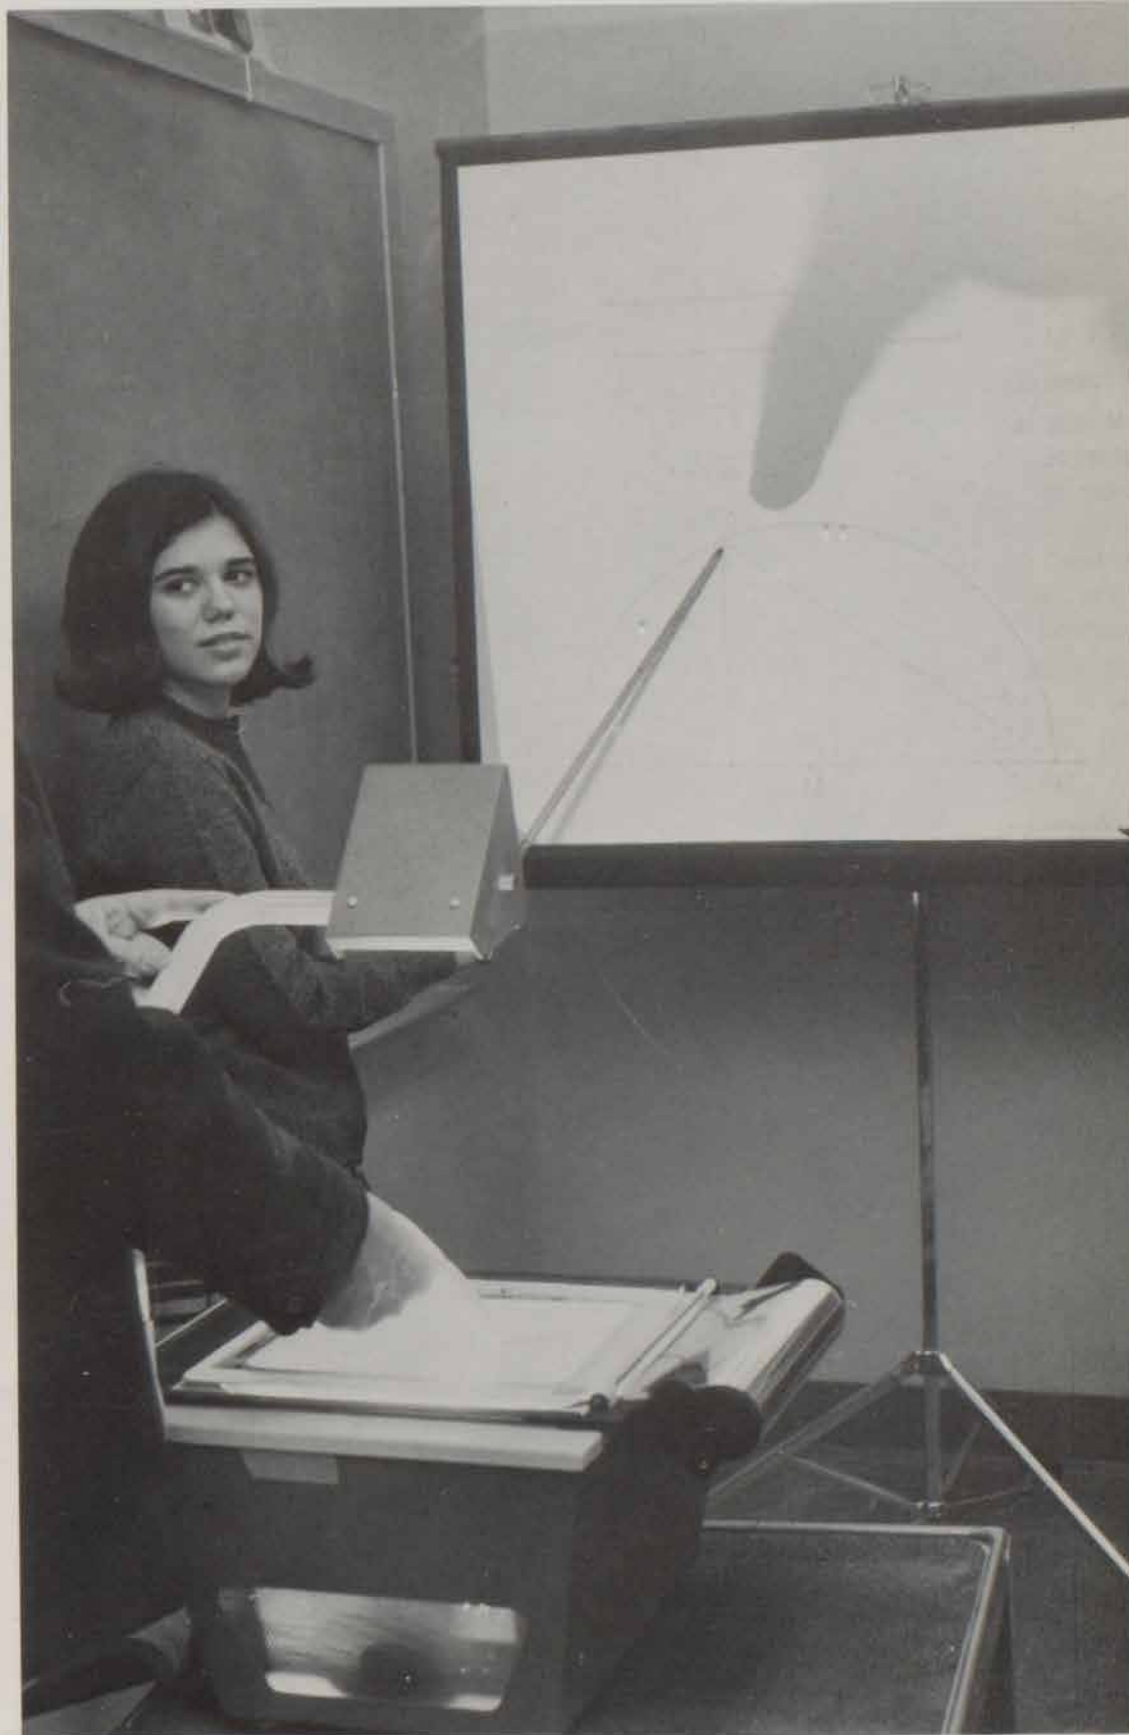

The behavior of matter was of prime interest to chemistry and physics students. Through laboratory exercises and classroom lectures, the students delved into the chemical and mathematical aspects of science.

Beginning with a detailed study of plants, young biologists advanced to dissecting animals. Independent projects highlighted the advanced course.

Learning about the physical features of the world was the primary objective for earth science pupils. Plastic models aided in the explanation of the forming of the earth's crust.

Working with theories and equations, senior math students solved problems in analytic geometry, trigonometry, and calculus. This advanced course terminated a four-year academic program that included one year of plane geometry and two years of algebra. An introduction to algebra, and general math, was also presented to interested pupils.

Commercial arithmetic pupils encountered problems dealing with bonds, interest, and commissions. Shop math offered a course in measurement, formulas, and other skills required in factory jobs.

ADVANCED EQUIPMENT enables Mary Ann Taylor to explain a geometry problem more easily. Constructions like the one pictured above are only one type of the problems that geometry pupils learn to prove.

ROUTINE DRILL serves as a basis for learning in general math class. Wanda Skrivin practices addition of decimals as part of her math assignment.

WITH PAINT ON the palette, Connie Borter makes the final touch-ups on her modern abstract design of a football game. Oils, water colors and pastels are only a few of the various media used in the art department. All these help in coloring and brightening the many projects of artists at MCHS.

CHOOSING THE RIGHT size, shape, and color, Bob Bradley and Mary Stewart decorate the lobby for Christmas. Art students also painted windows and made colorful bulletin board designs throughout the school.

ARTISTS CREATIVE HANDS work away on the first step in forming a wooden head.

MCHS artists participated in many activities during the 67-68 year. Painting, sculpturing and field trips were only a part of the students' active curriculum. While learning various fields of art, students became acquainted with artists, such as Wes Wilson, and were exposed to the new world of psychedelic art.

The music and art department correlated with one another to show the connection of the two departments. Art students, while listening to music, expressed themselves by painting on canvas.

WITH EXPRESSIONS of patriotism, Lisa Eckerty sings the Star Spangled Banner at the Madison-Connersville basketball game held in the high school gym.

Sounds of music whirling through the halls accented the spirit of MCHS Music students developed skills through various instructions in rhythmic jazz and dramatic music.

The annual Valley Choral Festival was held at MCHS. Students from schools of surrounding areas united together in singing and displaying their talent.

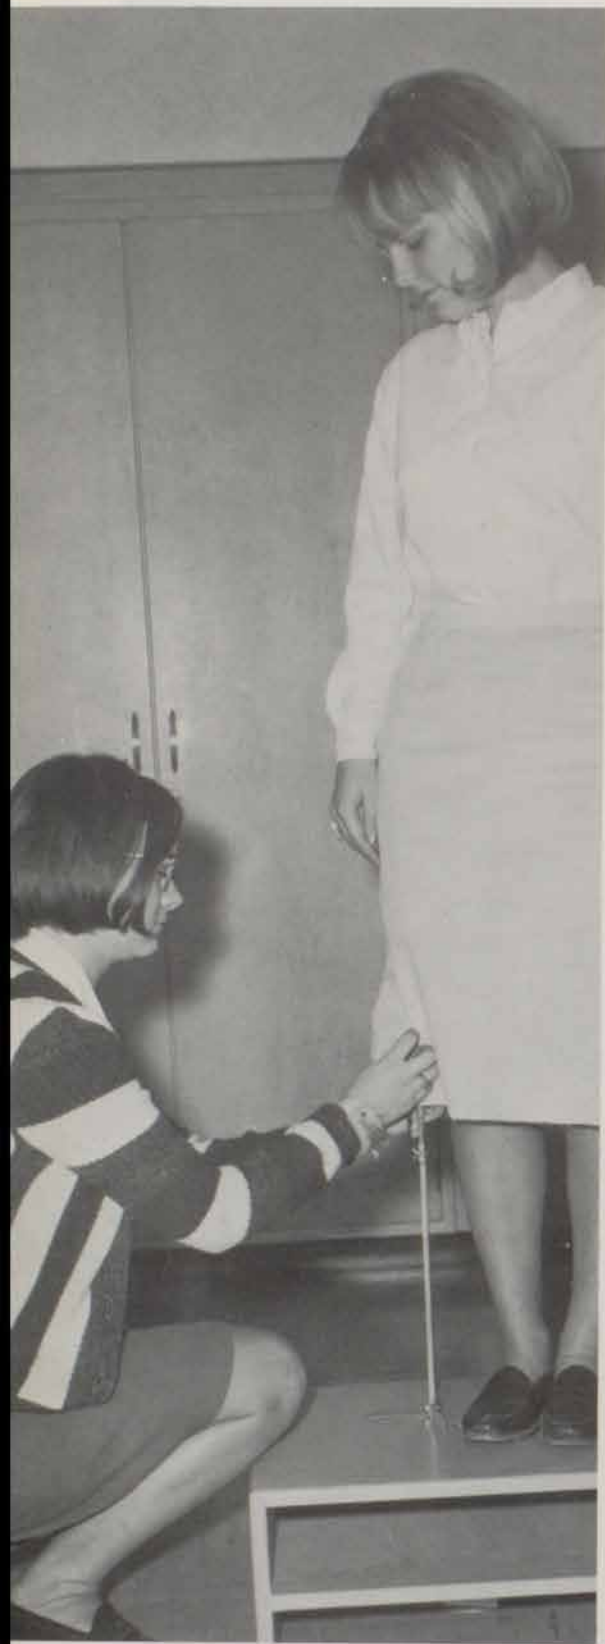

Holiday and civic programs added to the music students' curriculum during the 67-68 year.

Home economics and business

BUSILY DECORATING the Home Economics bulletin board, Diane Boaz, Bonnie Lawson, and Sue Dahlem display the latest fashion designs.

"Sugar and spice and everything nice" were the basic ingredients for a successful year in the Home Economics Department during the 1967-1968 school year. Under the direction of Miss Horn and Mrs. Rider, students learned new cooking techniques, fashion designs, first aid procedures, and efficient budgeting. In addition, Home Economics V and VI included courses in family relations and child development, housing, and consumer education.

The MCHS Business Department strived to better prepare students for the business world. Two years of typing, two years of shorthand, a year of bookkeeping, and a year of business machines was offered.

New equipment was one of the additions to the department. With more modern facilities, students received additional aid.

Shorthand students benefited from the electronic classroom. The electronic classroom equipment included headsets, receivers, and tapes. With this equipment, the students were able to increase their speed and accuracy.

The dictaphone which consists of tapes, earphones, and a control pedal, was employed by typing students. When dictation became too fast, it was brought to a standstill until the typist could continue.

Students enrolled in Business Machines used the Skill Builder and Printing Calculator for the first time. These machines helped to broaden their understanding and efficiency.

The over head projector and controlled film strips were utilized in classrooms throughout the entire Business Department. They served as supplementary drill material.

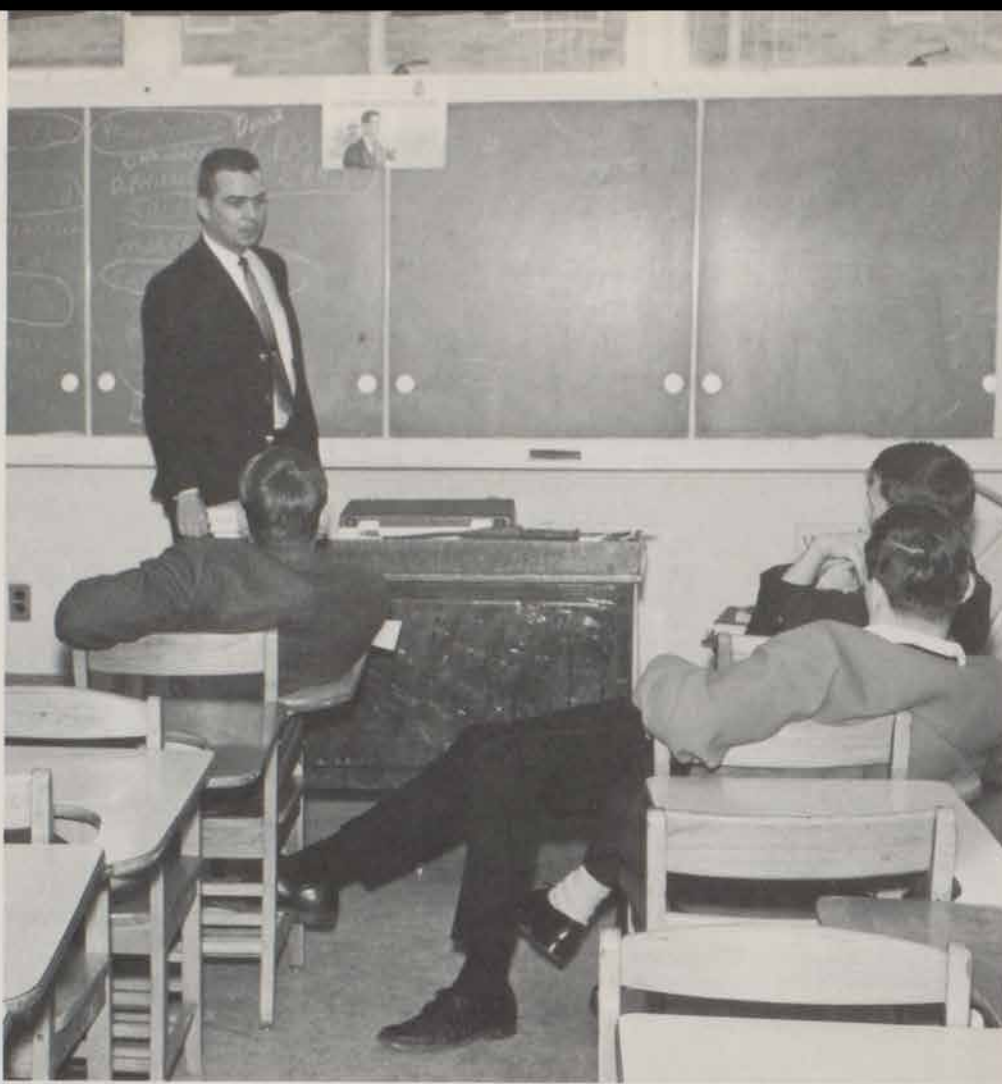

DEVELOPING THEIR SKILLS in Business Machines, Phyllis Scott, Sharon Hammond, Debbie Thompson, and Carol Sue Risk prepare for the business world.

PROMPTING HIS Vo-Ag Sales class, Mr. Harmon gives pointers to some of the members of his class. The Vo-Ag Sales class was a new addition to the Vocational Agriculture program.

SCATTERED SAWDUST is a common sight in the shop classes. Above, Louis Humes, Terry Schooley, Wayne Copeland, and Steve Geyman skillfully make use of their machines.

GREASE AND GRIME are the symbols of the auto mechanics classes. Steve Geyman and Mike Howell demonstrate the needed understanding to repair a car engine.

SIX HANDS ARE better than two. Above, Steve Bradbury, Mike Theros and Bob Adams add a few final touches to their project. In the woodworking class, each member has a special project.

Industrial Arts and Vo-Ag add new courses to old curriculum

For those students interested in making farming their career, vocational agriculture was offered. Because of the increased interest, a new building was added to give the students the advantage of new equipment and more space.

The first course of Vo-Ag developed the individual's knowledge of soils and the relation of crops to the soil. Shop work involved woodworking and the daily maintenance of farm machinery.

Second year students learned about the feeding, breeding and veterinary care of livestock.

Another facet of Vo-Ag, agriculture and sales, gave students an opportunity to work in agricultural businesses in the area. Parents, local businessmen and students co-operated to make the program a success.

Woodworking, general shop, auto-mechanics, general metals, and mechanical drawing were all a part of the growing program in industrial arts.

Each course was designed to give the student a sampling of the type of job he may someday choose as a profession.

In woodworking, students learned to design, construct and put the finishing touches on the projects which they made during the year. General shop gave the pupils knowledge which could be applied to many home jobs.

Auto mechanics offered the opportunity for pupils to work on the repairing of cars.

General metals introduced the students to the various types of tools which are used in milling machine work.

Mechanical drawing students learned to make drawings of the machines and tools used in factories. As the students advanced from three view drawings to auxiliary views, they learned the problems that companies encounter when machining an item.

PRECISION AND NEATNESS are two important facets of the mechanical drawing course. Members of the third period class, Eugene Cosby, Kevin Harrell and Danny Goins exemplify the necessity of a steady hand and a well-adjusted compass point.

DE students benefit from store training

Members who participated in the Distributive Education program took part in many activities throughout the year.

Both the juniors and seniors attended the D.E. class once a day. There they learned some of the basic fundamentals, such as, job interviews, sales demonstrations, and layouts, public speaking, and preparation of window displays.

At noon, the seniors were dismissed from school to go to their prospective jobs. Various stores and businesses in the Madison area supply on-the-job training to the members. Each student had to work a minimum of fifteen hours a week and were paid the local area wage.

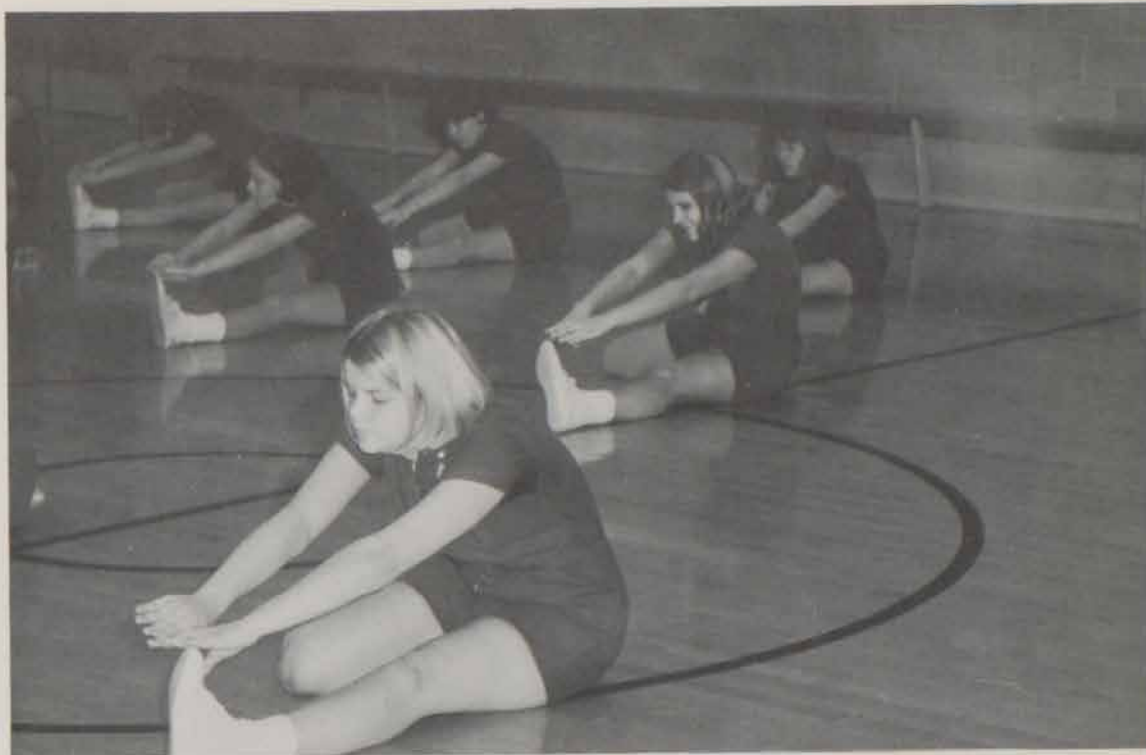

LEARNING THE BASIC fundamentals in operating a cash register and giving the correct change, distributive education students, Chipper Custer, and Judy Harrison strive for a better understanding of business administration.

BUSILY CHECKING the inventory sheet, DE student, Robert Sullivan demonstrates just one of the duties of his job. The DE class helps in preparing the students for on the job training.

WATCHING THE BIRDIE, Pam Schanding takes a swing during a badminton tourney between the girls' physical education classes.

DAILY CALISTHENICS IS a very important part in the physical education classes. Here, the students are given a chance to limber up before participating in their other activities.

Phys Ed classes strive for physical fitness

STEADY NERVES AND a good sense of balance help these boys in performing one of the various stunts of tumbling. The rest of the class looks on in hopes of acquiring the know-how so they may try it, too.

Girl's physical education classes, which stressed individual sports, and boy's physical education classes, which promoted team sports and co-operation, helped the students in becoming more physically fit.

For the girls, the scheduled activities of the year were concerned with such vigorous sports as tumbling, volleyball, basketball, archery, dodgeball, badminton, bowling, tennis, modern dance, and last but not least, their daily calisthenics. These sports helped in building their coordination and confidence.

The activities of the past year for the boys physical ed. classes included basketball, volleyball, football, softball, tennis and daily calisthenics, too. These sports helped to develop team spirit and co-operation among the boys.

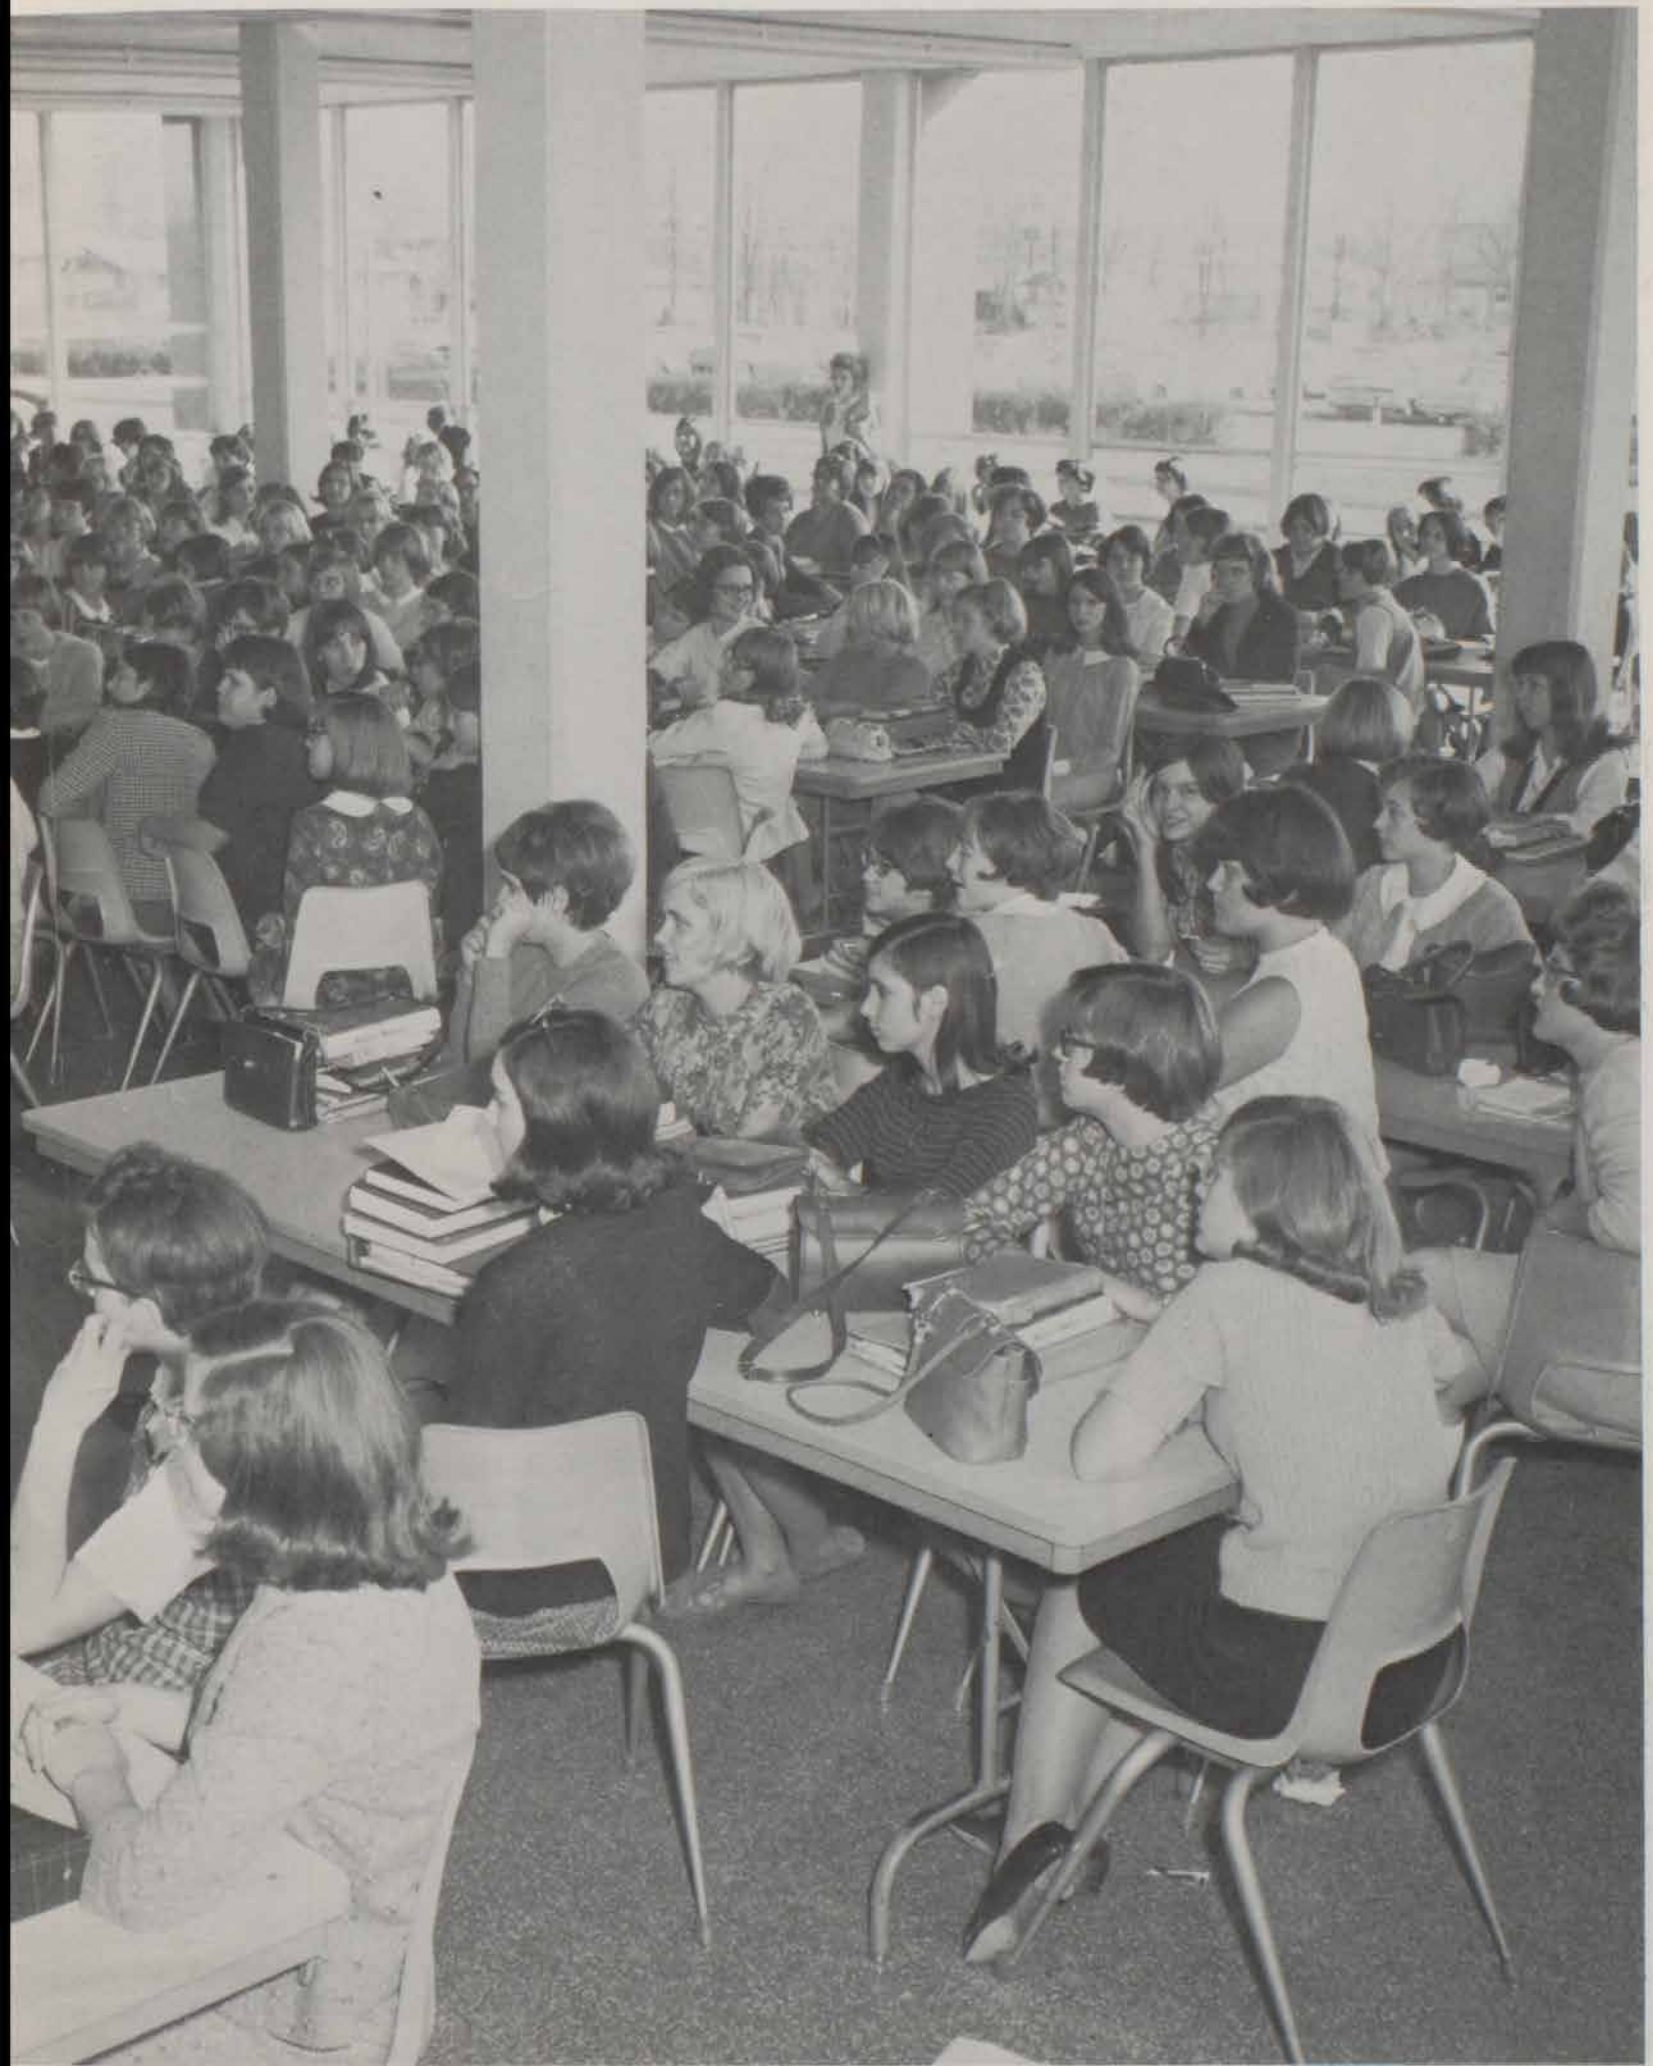

Today's generation is characterized by a seemingly boundless supply of energy and a strong determination to get things done. In the organizations and various service groups at MCHS students can find a satisfactory outlet for this energy.

Organizational work links the students with the administration, the community, and each other. Many hours of time and effort are devoted to make each club project a success. The duties these clubs perform serve as a tribute to the hard work of the club members and sponsors.

Each day during activity period, the halls echo with the sounds of footsteps as students hurry to consult an advisor about a change in plans or rush to inform cast members about a play rehearsal. The footprints they leave behind are the footprints of leaders who exhibit school spirit and dependability through their work in

Working to increase service to the school, the student council undertook many projects. At early meetings, the members drafted a set of rules to be followed at all after-game dances. In addition, the club sponsored a sock-hop to raise money for a scholarship.

Through the efforts of the council, decorated Christmas trees were placed in the lobby and cafeteria. Seasonal music was also played in the study halls and any classrooms that desired it.

To promote school spirit before the sectional, the student council designated "School Spirit Week". Members also endeavored to furnish a costume mascot.

The council broadened spring activities through Dress-up Day, Sadie Hawkins Day, and the annual volleyball tournament.

Also devolving on the council was the lunch line problem. After various experiments, a cafeteria-type line was added, and snack machines were placed in the cafeteria.

One of the highest honors a school can bestow on its students is membership in the National Honor Society. Members are chosen in recognition of outstanding ability in both academics and extra-curricular activities.

In an early meeting of the National Honor Society of MCHS, Mr. Thompson spoke on the responsibilities which accompany membership in this club. He stressed the fact that candidates are selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership, personality, and citizenship.

To obtain a more accurate listing of the students on the honor roll, honor society members undertook the job of collecting the names. On a field trip to Hanover College, members received information on communications today.

MADISONIAN changes to offset process

Headlines flashed, pictures emphasized, and stories explained the "happenings" around MCHS during the school year. The MADISONIAN staff worked with a new process called offset, instead of letterpress.

The popular opinion poll added humor and a touch of seriousness to the paper, giving various students' views and thoughts. The "Senior Spotlight", which focused on an outstanding senior each issue, proved to be a center of attention in the paper.

The journalism staff attended a three-day conference at Hanover College which informed the students of new techniques in communications and photography. They also visited the COURIER JOURNAL in Louisville to learn the problems and techniques of printing and running a newspaper.

The co-editors of the paper for the year were Betsy Graham and Susan Wardlow, and the sponsor was Mrs. Adler, English and journalism teacher.

1968 was a year of change for the MAHISCO. The seventeen member staff spent hours solving the problems which arose with the alterations in size, paper texture, and type style.

Learning how to write interesting copy, draw layouts, and crop pictures was only a part of the work involved as the members strove to publish an A+ book. For the first time, the staff members did much of the photography work.

Throughout the year, various outside speakers helped the staff learn about balance, cover design, and picture ideas. To promote sales, staffers presented brief dialogues and sponsored a contest between classes.

Thespians stage plays and varied programs

Madison's Thespian troupe, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Erma Wingham and Mrs. Rachel McKinney, gave three dramatic performances. In addition to the single act play, "Father of the Year", the club presented the all-school play, "Seventeen," and the senior play "Lute Song".

With the proceeds from the productions, the Thespian society made plans to pay half the tuition for one freshman, one sophomore, and two juniors to the National Thespian Conference held during the summer. At the conference, students learn many dramatic techniques that they will put to use in future theatrical performances.

Points toward membership in the society were gained through acting, staging, make-up, publicity, attending professional productions, or work in any other form of dramatics.

Safety Council maintains the parking lot

Promoting safe practices among MCHS students when riding, driving, or walking, is the main purpose of the Safety Council.

The Council, organized only last year, started the year by becoming a new member of the National Student Safety Program. They later profited by receiving many helpful suggestions from the National Program.

Sheriff Harold Raisor and Police Chief Norman Williams spoke to the group concerning traffic hazards around the school in conjunction with the suggestions received.

In order to deal with these various problems connected with the school, the Council divided itself into several committees. One committee issued tickets to students without parking stickers.

INSPECTING CARS FOR parking lot stickers are Joe Kimmel, Bob Center, and Mike Robinson.

"Charity toward others" might well have been the motto for the 1967-68 Sunshine Society. During Christmas and Thanksgiving, baskets filled with meat and canned goods were distributed to needy families in the community.

In order to raise money, members sold candy bars, wrapping paper, and ribbon. As a result, Sunshine donated $250 to the Riley fund and $50 for an Edna Baker Scholarship. During home football and basketball games, as well as during the sectional, the girls worked in the refreshment stands.

Mrs. Cook, sponsor, and members attended the district convention in October as well as the state convention in Frankfort on April 20. The conventions featured guest speakers and helpful hints for the school year.

The Sunshine girls held their annual turnabout dance on March 22 in the cafeteria. Refreshments were provided by the girls attending the dance.

In the spring the freshmen and new members were initiated into Sunshine by the officers. Each initiate held a lighted candle, and yellow and white ribbons were pinned on each girl to represent the Sunshine colors.

Band achieves greatness in performances

Practice and many hours of hard work helped make this year's band one of the best in the school's history.

The Marching Cubs prepared for this year's football season by spending a week in August at band camp in Lebanon, Kentucky. Each day at camp consisted of five hours of drilling and marching. This week gave the band ideas and experience for their exhibitions on the football field during the halftime of each home game. In pre-game action, they also ignited spirit by playing the school song and the National Anthem. The band, accompanied by the Choral Club, traveled to the Lawrenceburg football game to participate in their halftime program.

The marching division of the band also competed in the Madison Regatta Parade in July and the Canaan Fall Festival in October. An invitation was also extended to them to enter the Derby Parade in Louisville, which was held in May.

When the marching season ended, the concert season began and the band members prepared for a trip to Louisville where they made a tape for WHAS TV. One of the highlights of the year was the presentation of a December concert in the Sherman Auditorium featuring the concert band, dance band, and the junior high band.

The Pep Band joined in the basketball activities, playing school songs for each team and the traditional National Anthem, arousing enthusiasm from the spectators before each game and during the halftime.

The dance band was presented the highest possible award, being judged "perfect" in the state competition in Indianapolis. Although other bands also received the superior rating, the MCHS dance band was the only one to receive the perfect rating.

THE MARCHING CUBS prepare to march out on the football field for the halftime festivities of the homecoming football game. They formed an avenue of entrance for the queen contestants onto the football field for the announcement and crowning of the Homecoming queen.

Pep Club exhibits new heights in enthusiasm

Colorful capes and flashing cards highlighted this year's pep club. Members used cards to make a flag during the National Anthem and spelled action words such as "go," "fite," and "win," with their red and white capes.

Throughout the year, committees worked after school to provide a hoop for the varsity team to run through before every home game. Girls in pep club stood on each side of the hoops which were decorated with Cubs and the names of the players. Another committee wrote the club's first constitution.

The officers for the 1967-68 year were Miriam Moy, president; Pam Robinson, vice-president; Brenda Alton, secretary; and Debbie Meadows, treasurer.

Choral Club performs at school assemblies

Members of the Choral Club strived for tone quality and dynamics, initiating a drive to heighten student interest in music.

Under the direction of Miss Myra

Laughlin, the musical group performed at Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies and the spring concert. For the first time, the group performed with the band at a football game.

The three subdivisions, Sextet, Triple Trio, and Sweet Sixteen, performed at special concerts and community programs.

THE GERMAN CLUB, a new addition to the MCHS curriculum, boasted a membership of over eighty German students. Sponsored by Mr. Keach, the club made plans for having speakers at their meetings, and for raising money for the new treasury.

Membership cards, written in German, were given to members, and in February club pins were selected.

Students and alumni alike feasted on blueberry pancakes, sausage, cafe au lait, and jus d'orange at the annual French Club breakfast. The festive event was given by Mrs. Willis, sponsor of Le Cercle Francais.

In December the members combined their efforts and sold scented Christmas candles, stationery, and recipe cards in order to earn enough money to host a student teacher from France for the coming year. In addition, the members sponsored a sock-hop after the Madison-Salem game.

Recitation and singing highlighted the French Club meetings but the finale of the year was a French dinner which took place in the spring.

Throughout the year, the language lab assistants strived to make the language lab easier to work in. Helping students learn the correct way to operate the tapes was one of their first duties.

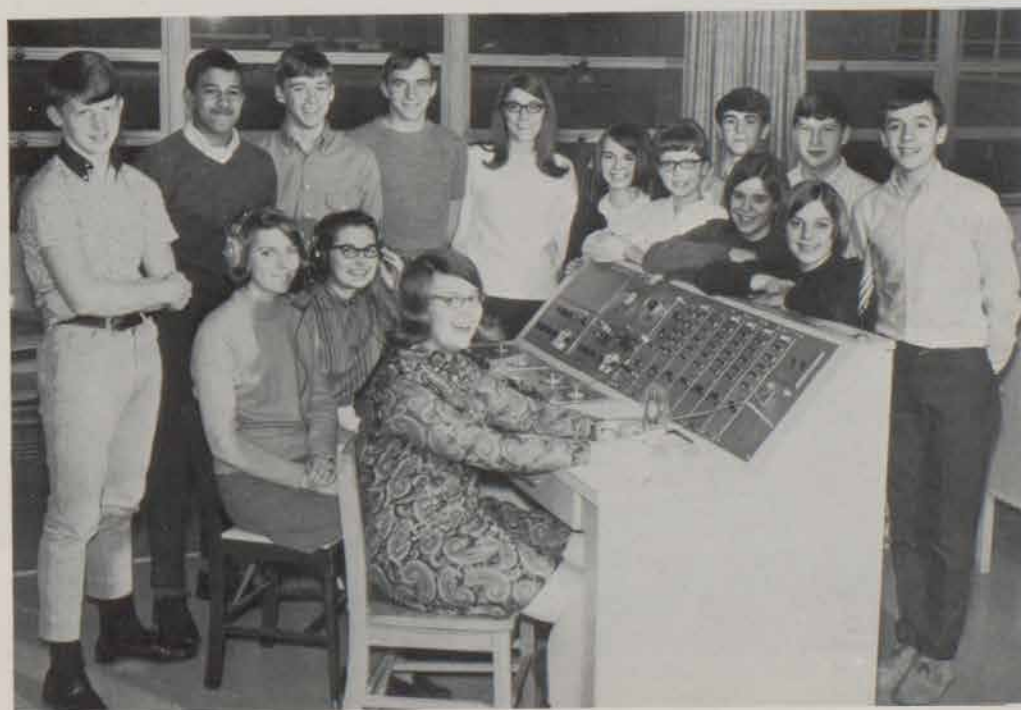

After each class period, the aids inspected each booth to make sure everything was turned off and the books were in proper order. In addition they aided the teachers in running the tapes and rewinding them.

During the times when the instructor was busy with the students or momentarily absent, the language assistants maintained class order.

Students explore science and journalism

Quill and Scroll, the International Honorary Society for High School Journalists, began the year with five members from the previous year. Eleven new members were initiated in March along with another initiation held in May.

Students selected were juniors and seniors in the upper third of their class who had done superior work in some phase of journalism or school publications work.

The Science Club, whose main purpose was to supplement the science classes and to provide an opportunity for individual experimentation, was busy throughout the year with films, demonstrations and field trips.

Besides a visit to Markland Dam in February, the club motored to Oak Ridge, Tennessee on April 19-20 to visit the atomic energy commission there. Funds for this project were earned through sponsoring a sock hop after the Madison-Connersville basketball game.

The 65 member organization journeyed to Louisville, Ky., Cincinnati, Ohio, Mitchell, Ind., as well as visiting local corporations. Included in the tours were American Standard, International Harvester, and Ford Motor Co.

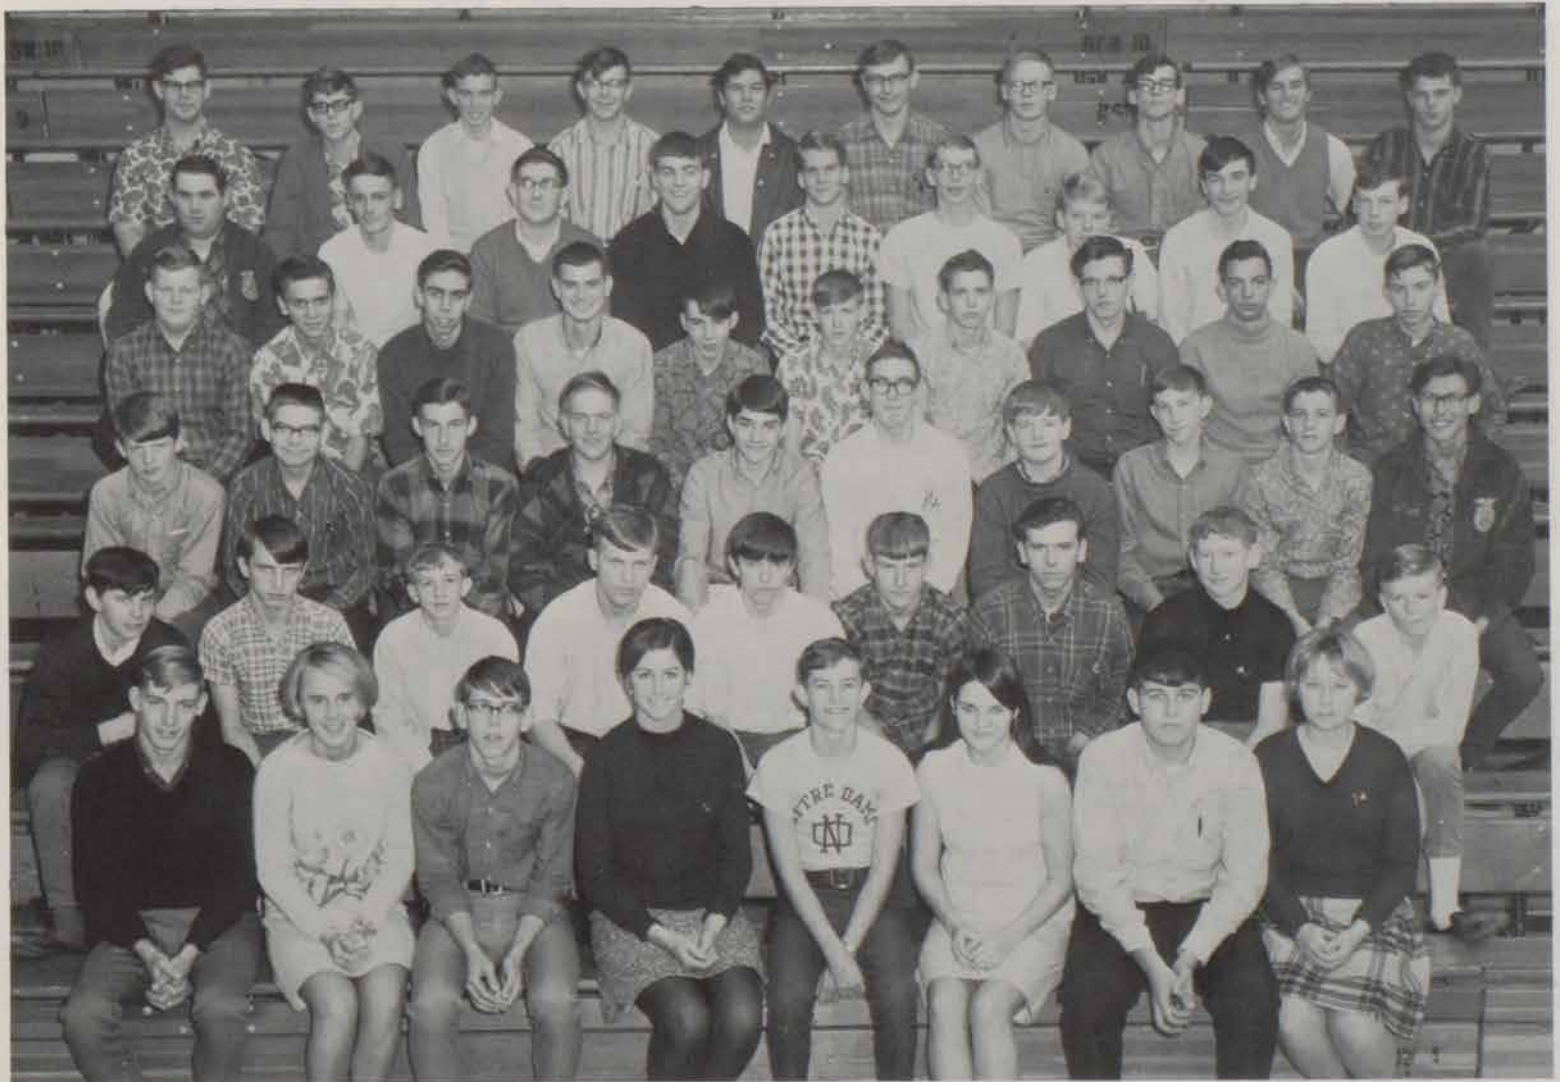

During the fall, club members increased their treasury by $300 through a candy sale. The money was used to partially finance the field trips and the annual spring banquet. In addition, the club presented a check for $50 to the Salvation Army at Christmas time.

Films shown at the monthly meetings helped members better understand the problems that companies faced.

"Knit one, purl two," became a popular phrase to the eighteen members of the Knitting Club as they employed new stitches in knitting such articles as afghans, sweaters, and slippers.

The advisor, Miss Horn, not only directed the activities, but also offered her assistance in teaching the basic steps in knitting. While experienced students perfected their skills, many learned the art for the first time.

Guest speakers and demonstrators highlighted the meetings of BLAST, a club for junior and senior Business Leaders And Secretaries of Tomorrow. Their presentations not only prepared the members for their future vocations, but also guided them in planning projects and activities.

Under the direction of their sponsors, Mrs. Wynn and Mrs. Wheeler, ninety BLAST members added $820 to their treasury by a candy sale.

In December, BLAST sent thirty-six Christmas packages to Madison servicemen in Vietnam, including items such as books, pens, candy, soup, aspirin, and toothpaste.

Modeling the most up-to-date fashions from a local dress shop, BLAST members staged a free style show early in the spring for junior and senior girls.

The club ended their year with an awards banquet in April and a trip to Louisville in May.

FHA girls of today prepare for tomorrow

The snip of scissors, rustle of material, and the whirl of sewing machines illustrate a few of many activities that took place in the Future Homemakers Association of MCHS. Throughout the year, FHA spent a large amount of time preparing girls for their futures as housewives and homemakers.

As a major part of the homemaking program, FHA provided opportunities for students to plan activities and projects related to homemaking. Among these projects were planning dinners for the school board and administration, and serving refreshments during open house in the home economics lounge.

The National Program of Work was developed by FHA to serve as a guide to state associations and local chapters. This program made it possible for chapter members across the country to work towards common objectives. The two goals they worked toward this year were to help each family member recognize his abilities and to strive for full development.

Hi-Y chapter strives for better leadership

BILL COMMITTEE FOR the model legislature: Mike McKay, Stan Price, Kit McCrary, Terry Willis, Mr. Dougan (spon.), and Byron Rohrig.

To "create, maintain, and extend throughout home, school, and community a high standard of Christian living" was the goal of the Hi-Y boys sponsoring Religious Emphasis Week. Included in the week's activities was a bulletin board display and an assembly.

During January, Hi-Y'ers attended the annual pre-legislature conference at Indiana University. Those attending learned the process involved in drafting, proposing, and passing bills. Upon returning, the local Hi-Y club prepared a bill to be presented at the model legislature held later in the year.

A hat and coat check during seasonal games and the sectional was operated by Hi-Y. In addition, the members sold red and white cub license plates in the spring.

Following the homecoming game, the club held a special dance in the cafeteria in honor of the Homecoming queen.

Gymnastics supplemented the GAA program this year and made it possible for interested members to participate in another field of sports. In addition, the club offered basketball, volleyball, softball, kickball, archery and tennis.

Members earned points through athletic achievements and received pins, letters, and ultimately the Indiana Girls Athletic Association plaque. Fund raising projects this year included selling Cub booster pins, sweatshirts, T-Shirts, and holiday packs. By selling these items the club was able to pay for the awards presented at the end of the year.

Play days highlighted the club activities and provided competition with outside schools.

To finance a scholarship and earn money for the February swimming party, FTA'ers held numerous fund raising projects. Pencils and pennants were sold during football season, and the club sponsored a sock hop after a home basketball game. Throughout the year, candy was also sold.

For the first time, Madison FTA took part in the area convention. Carolyn Hilterbran was chosen to represent the area in the state competition for Miss FTA. At the state convention, Carolyn was awarded the honor of first runner-up. In addition, the chapter's scrapbook was judged best in the state.

In observing their first year at MCHS, the industrial cooperative education students gained new experiences in the classroom and on the job. The senior participants attended regular classes in the morning and worked in their respective jobs in the afternoons.

The ICT program enabled the students to learn to work through personal experiences in getting a job, holding a job, and learning on that job. Students were able to form a liaison between classroom studies and their part-time jobs.

Filling jobs from nurse's aids to factory workers, the students learned of current community problems. Mr. Meyer, the sponsor, commuted between the school and job to advise the students in their activities.

Sharon Thom crowned Homecoming Queen

An Indian summer sun, gaily decorated floats, and a winning streak all helped to make this year's Homecoming unique. Supported by many spirited Madison fans, the Cubs roared past North Vernon's Panthers for a 31-19 victory.

The chauffeured queen candidates, followed by floats of the Senior class, Junior class, and Hi-Y, began the half-time festivities. To the music of the Marching Cubs, the queen was crowned. Senior Sharon Thom was chosen to reign over the remaining half of the afternoon game.

The Cub's victory was celebrated later that evening at the Alumni dance.

Clad in the traditional tiara and red and white robe, Carolyn Hand accepted the title of Miss Cub during halftime ceremonies at the basketball game with Connersville on February 10. Captain Mike Robinson presented the honor along with a dozen red roses to the basketball queen.

Selection of Miss Cub resulted from an election of one girl from each senior English class. The one receiving the most votes became Miss Cub and the five runner-ups comprised the queen's court.

Prom royalty stroll through a garden of love

Soft hues of blue, intertwined with red, yellow, and silver, set the scene for the May 4th Junior-Senior Prom. The elaborately decorated gym also held an array of large daisies, the class flower, flowering trees, a large fountain, and murals portraying a park scene, all of which combined to emphasize the theme, "Love is Blue".

During the earlier part of the occasion, Seniors Kevin Harrell and Carol Sue Risk were crowned king and queen to reign over the remainder of the dance. The Junior Class officers also presented gifts to the sponsors who aided with the prom preparations.

Twelve sophomores acted as ushers and servers for the upperclassmen throughout the evening. Music was provided by two popular bands, the MARAUDERS and the OXFORDS.

Willie finds girls and love in 'Seventeen'

Youth, love, and summertime set the mood for the all-school play, "Seventeen". Under the direction of Mrs. Rachel McKinney, director, and Deanna Gray, student director, the fifteen member cast presented the performance on November 10 and 11.

In that late nineteenth century day, Willie Baxter yearned for a dress suit so that he could court the pretty Lola Pratt. Lola enthralled all the boys with her baby-talk, while she herself was charmed only with her small poodle, "peshus 'ittle Flopit".

Excitement stormed the Baxter house until Lola returned home, resulting in Willie's realizing that going to college would not be such a bad idea.

Of prime importance to the administration of any school is the physical fitness of the students. Authorities realize that sound bodies are as important as sound minds in the development of capable human beings.

At MCHS, school officials developed an outstanding athletic program which covers a wide range of sports. Intra-mural, freshman, varsity, and junior-varsity teams compete in activities ranging from basketball and football to wrestling and table tennis.

Students support athletics with vim and vigor. The call for team try-outs brings forth large numbers of able students to vie for team positions.

Athletes, too, make their impressions on the school. Deep footprints gouged in the sand pit mark a recently shattered broad jump record. Skid marks in the dust are proof of a home run recently made. All are evidence of students bringing honor to their school through

Homecoming gridiron highlighted with action

Madison's gridiron Cubs compiled their best record in modern football history. Head coach Roger Gallatin guided his charges to an even 5-5 slate.

The Cubs chalked up victories over Floyd Central, North Vernon, Corydon, Salem, and West Washington. However, setbacks were suffered at the hands of Greensburg, Batesville, Aurora, Lawrenceburg, and Clarksville.

Statistically, the Cubs led their opponents in such areas as rushing, passing, and first downs. Joe Wells captured rushing honors with a total of 547 yards for a 4.7 average per carry. Quarterback Luther Dyer passed for 932 yards and 14 touchdowns. The team's highest scorer was end Mike Robinson who scored 48 points on eight touchdowns.

On the defensive unit, Wayne Perry led all tacklers with 124 downings for an average of 12 per game. Another season highlight was Dwight Ritter's fumble recovery and 80 yard run back.

Award winners were as follows: Joe Wells, best back; Al Humphrey, best lineman; Mike Robinson, best offensive player; Wayne Perry, best defensive player and most valuable senior.

CAPTAINING THIS YEAR'S varsity Cubs were Mike Robinson, offense, and Wayne Perry, defense.

FIRST DOWNS CAME few and far between for Cub opponents this season. A display of team effort allows the Cubs to thwart another attempt at a first down and possible score. Such team work held four gridiron foes to less than seven points per game.

RUNNING IN FOURTH PLACE behind runners from Southwestern and Vevay, Cub harrier Dean Ford gives an all out effort to capture a position for Madison in the triangular meet held at Madison's home course. Dean finished first for the Cubs, but the team only won a second place.

Harriers tally 3-3 state on two-mile course

Performing on the high school course for the last time, Madison's 1967 cross country team compiled a 3-3 record. Under new head coach Lou Knoble, Cub harriers defeated such foes as Scottsburg and South Ripley.

Missing the school record by one second, Junior standout Dean Ford registered a time of 10:28 during a meet with Vevay and Austin. Back-up men for such performances were Larry Rudolech, Jim Gilles and Terry Willis.

In invitational action, the Cubs captured third place at Providence.

Cubs become victims of Hoosier Hysteria

Opening the season with a 71-63 victory over Vevay and closing with a 79-72 victory over Lawrenceburg, Madison's basketball Cubs advanced to the sectional with a 8-12 slate.

The Cubs registered victories over Deputy 91-56 and Charleston 78-70 before dropping the championship tilt 69-57 to Silver Creek. The sectional defeat was the first handed to the Cubs in twelve years.

Mike Robinson headed the scoring department with a 13.7 average.

Orrillmen unfurl improved slate on diamond

The Cub hardballers opening victory over the Greensburg Pirates epitomized an up and down season. The initial triumph was followed by three straight losses; however, the Cubs rebounded with a trio of consecutive victories.

A game with Seymour characterized the unique season. In the contest the Cubs collected a total of ten hits, but they left fifteen men stranded on base while losing 4-3 in eight innings. On the other hand, the Cubs managed only one hit against Vevay, but they squeezed a run across in the eighth to down the Warriors in extra innings.

A school building by itself is nothing. It must be filled with the activities of many human beings before it can achieve an identity. People form the basic structure for any school.

At MCHS this foundation is a firm one. Capable administrators, custodians, cooks, and faculty members make adequate adjustments to fit the needs of the students. They are always willing to accept new ideas and innovations if such changes will benefit the school.

The students themselves cannot be overlooked. They are actually the representatives of the school. As such, they do their best to present a favorable picture of MCHS, knowing their every action reflects on the training they have received here.

From the moment the doors open in the morning until the last footsteps echo away into silence at night, the halls of MCHS are filled with the sounds of life. It is to those that fill these halls that we devote this

Educational challenge serves as object of

SENIOR COUNSELOR Mr. Don Fisher helps seniors prepare for the future.

MISS STINSON and Mr. Craft, new members of the faculty this year, take time from conferring directly with the students to discuss counseling procedures and the future curriculum for underclassmen at MCHS.

MR. WILLIAM BEAR, Mr. John Reed, Mr. Bud Scott, Supt. George Cook, Mr. Gavin Lodge, Mr. Carl Strohm, Mr. Lloyd Miller, Mr. Henry Custer,

Mr. Emerson Lee and Mr. John Cooke are members of this year's Madison Consolidated School system Board of Education.

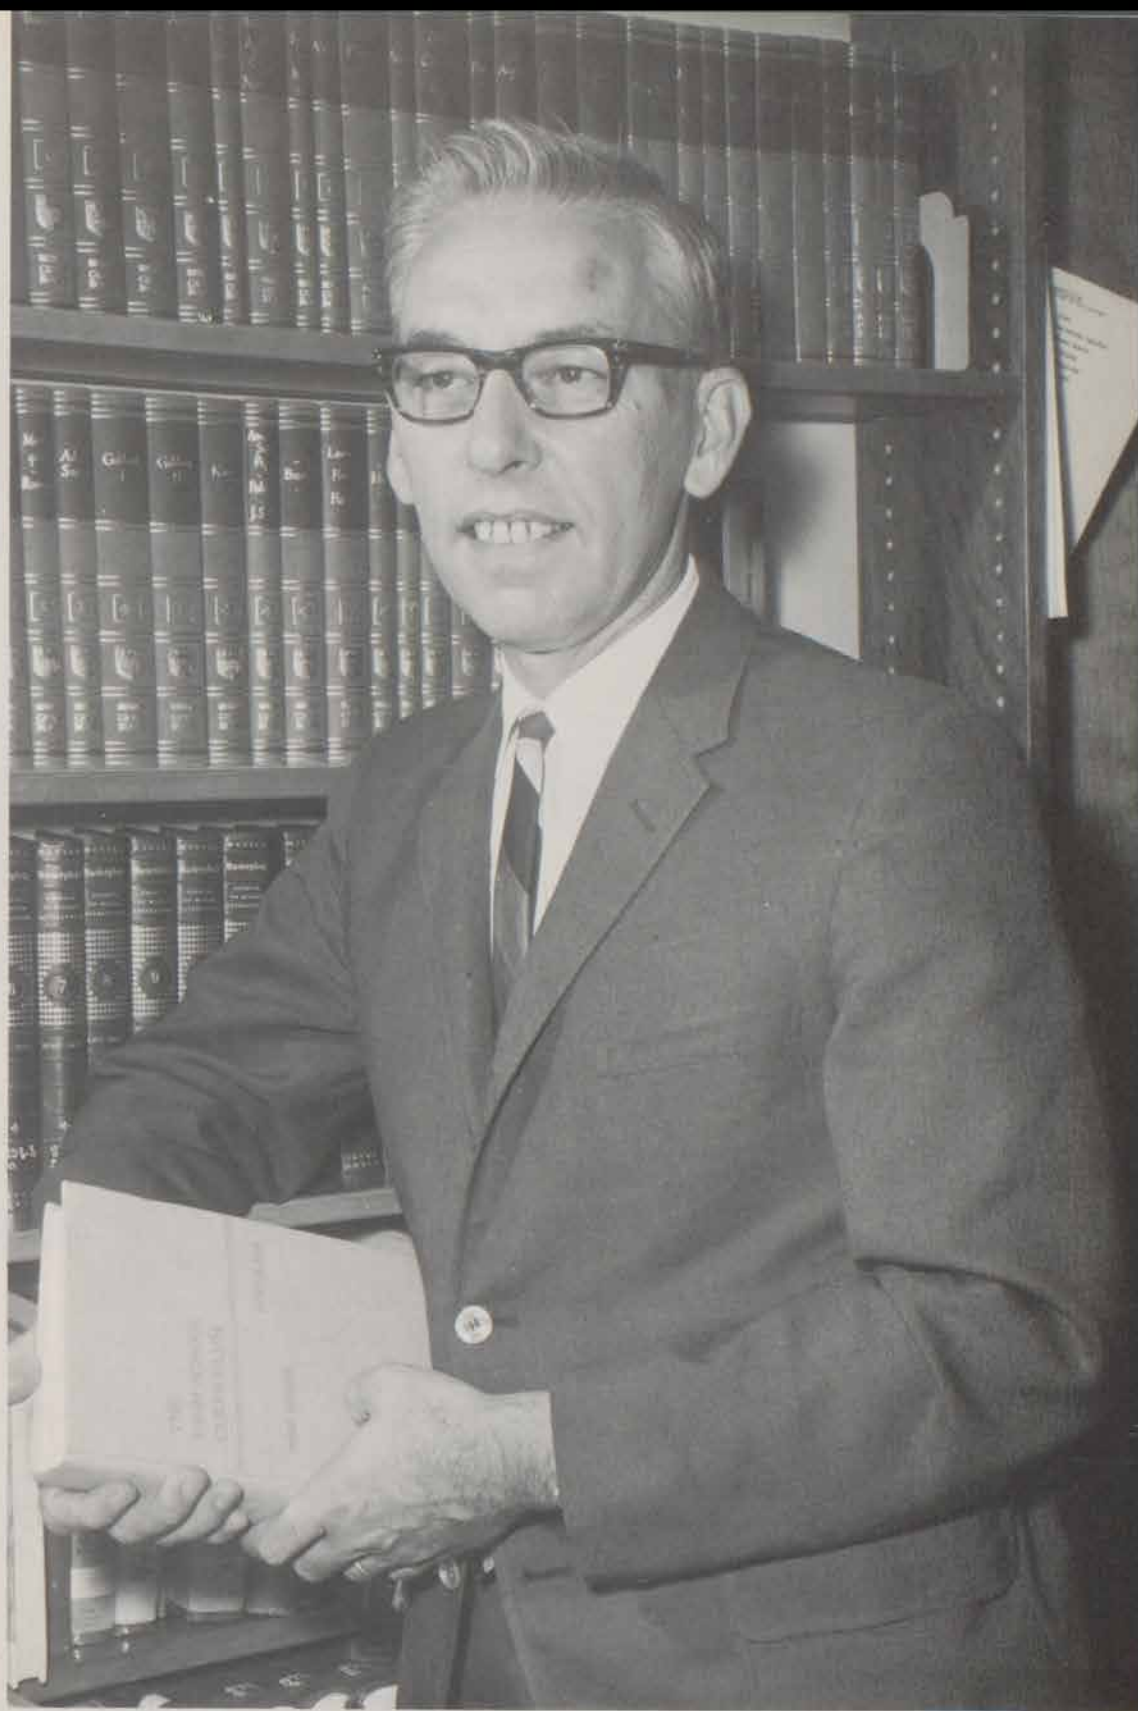

administration

MR. DAN WATERFILL served his first year as Assistant Principal this year.

A NEW ADDITION to the MCHS staff was Home Visitor Mr. John O'Sullivan.

Again, as past young people before you, you have in your hands a journal of the activities of another year in the history of Madison Consolidated High School and school community. As each year passes, we witness greater achievements and endeavors of our young people. And each year we observe more responsibility given to, and accepted by the youth of succeeding generations. As we see the rapid changes in our society, with new materials, methods and occupations presenting themselves daily, you have a tremendous responsibility to contribute to making the world a better place in which to live. Be prepared to accept the challenge.

In a very few years, you can look at MAHISCO 68 and be amused at the way things were done in the "old days." Congratulations to the staff and sponsor of this book for all of the dedicated work and effort in making this an outstanding presentation. To those of us reading the words and looking at the pictures contained within these pages, we might make the mistake of accepting this as a chronicle simply put together in a short time. We should understand the hard work put in by the staff and say sincerely, "Thanks For The Memories."

Faculty members welcome a quiet moment

MRS. SMITH UTILIZES a brief moment of relaxation by grading an exam. The teachers' lounge is one of the few spots available for members of the faculty to relax during their preparation hour. Teachers find that a cup of coffee can be a great energy builder in the middle of a long day.

MR. BUCKLES, MR. KNOWLAND, Mr. Dougan, Mr. Yarber, and Mr. Neeld combined their musical talents in an effort to enliven the school spirit. The teachers' band, although small in number, added much to the school spirit week and was quite a hit with all the students and faculty.

Teachers' aids, janitors, cooks

MRS. REED, assistant to librarian Mrs. Cook, checks a current book list for available books.

Working behind the scenes, the custodians, cooks, secretaries, teacher aid, and librarian assistant strived to keep the school running smoothly.

The two custodial staffs of MCHS performed assignments that ranged from carpentry to plumbing. Special care was taken to keep halls, windows, and rooms sparkling and maintain a comfortable temperature in the rooms. During the spring, the custodians also undertook the job of cutting the grass and keeping the hedges trimmed.

Due to the demand for an additional lunch line, the cooks were kept busy preparing different foods for the new a la carte line. For the benefit of those who arrived at school early in the morning, the cooks sold orange juice and doughnuts.

The secretaries encountered the everlasting task of answering telephones, directing lost students, checking the where-abouts of missing students, and keeping typewriters humming.

Mrs. Paul served as the teacher aid for MCHS. Whenever she was needed, Mrs. Paul assisted in the reading lab.

Acting as an assistant to the librarian, Mrs. Reed occupied her time by getting new books ready for use, keeping the card catalogue up to date, and filing periodicals as they arrived.

CHECKING RECORDS IN the office, Mrs. Paul executes her job as teacher's aide.

and secretaries provide needed assistance

ATTENDING TO THE JOBS of distributing books, collecting book rental, and taking care of the attendance and scholastic records are the office secretaries, Mrs. Marjorie Bright, Mrs. Norma Jean Bentley, Mrs. Mildred Thomas, and Mrs. Mary Lou Giltner.

TAKING A STROLL through the lobby during one of the art exhibits, displayed by the art department, Mr. Ruel, Civics, Economics, and Sociology teacher,

COMBINING ARTISTRY AND CREATIVITY, Carolyn Hand applies make-up to Chuck Rogers before the opening curtain of the all-school play, "Seventeen."

Extra grease paint or gray "wrinkle lines" may change a character from a child to a disgruntled old man or a flirtatious young maiden.

Homecoming week ignites school spirit spark

"BURY 'EM ALIVE" became the Senior's victory chant during the 1967 football homecoming game between Madison and North Vernon. Juniors and Seniors erected floats that were presented during the half time ceremonies.

The Cubs soared past North Vernon in Madison's first victorious football homecoming game.

RECIPIENTS OF THE LOTZ SCHOLARSHIP: Patty Petway, Jane Akers, Mike Paliquin, Dave Huling, Sue McAlexander, Candy Combs, Kay Camenisch, Tim McKinney, Betsy Graham, Mary Thieman, Chuck Rogers, John Taylor, and Sharon Thom.

Elected seniors participate in city government.

DURING STUDENT GOVERNMENT DAY, Mayor Donald J. Vaughn shows student Mayor David Huling a water project, now under way on the river front. This was the first Student Government Day at MCHS, where the senior class divided into two parties and the school body elected the officials to take office for the day.

Underclassmen follow in Seniors' footsteps

Whether it was working on projects, taking tests, or simply making decisions, the 1967-68 school year meant ACTION for the underclassmen at MCHS.

The juniors entered a float entitled "How in the World Can We Lose?" in the Homecoming parade. They also conducted a magazine sale in the fall to raise money for the prom, which they held on May 4 in honor of the seniors. College-bound juniors took the National Merit Test in February and the Scholastic Aptitude Test in May.

In February, the sophomores took the National Educational Development Test, which pointed out their strengths and weaknesses in achievement. The highlight of their year came in April when they ordered class rings. Twelve sophomores served refreshments at the Junior-Senior Prom in May.

Besides electing their first slate of class officers, the freshmen were also initiated as new members of numerous clubs. Their testing included an I.Q. test in November.

MONTHS OF PLANNING and worrying preceded the big week of Prom festivities. In the first picture, Juniors Mike McKinney and Louise Johnson add the finishing touches to one of the two refreshment booths. Later, on Prom night, guests danced under a deep blue crepe paper sky in a garden of flowers. Finally, the cleanup committee, as Mark Stealey shows, removed the decorations and brought a close to the week's excitement.

Growth of business in Madison remains a vital link to the community and its people. Industrial expansion along with small business expansion has played an important role in our city's growth.

The use of advertising stimulates the community's interest in the products. It can also be used, as in this section, by businessmen to demonstrate their support for the school and its members.

Businesses cater to our needs and provide ready materials for our use in homes, schools, and places of business. And it is into the world of business that the footsteps of the students of MCHS will someday lead. There they will put to use the knowledge they have received in school and they will endeavor to prove themselves assets to the community.

This portion of the book has been used to present proof of the enthusiasm displayed in our community by the industries and merchants through

The Graduation Gift That Nobody Ever Gets...

It's tops on the most-wanted list of every graduate, but no one ever gets it ... not the rich ... not the smart ... not the swinging ... not the cool.

That's because it can't be bought anywhere in your town or anywhere in the world for that matter. It has to come from inside you. It has to be earned the hard way, without help from your parents, your teachers, or your friends.

It's the ability to know what to do after the prom is over and the cap and gown have gone back to the rental service. It's the ability to make a decision about the army, or college, or a company that's going to help you amount to something.

Nobody ever said that knowing what to do is the simplest thing in the world. Nobody ever will. But they will tell you that the best choice is seldom the easiest one. They'll tell you that the right decision is often the one that takes careful planning, thinking and plain old guts when you get down to making it.

We hope that at this time you give your plans for the future at least the same amount of time you give to thoughts of the past. And if it's a career you decide upon, one that will give you a chance to prove your worth to yourself and a company, we hope you consider Reliance.

You see, we have confidence in you and your town. That's why we're here. Think it over, and let us know if we can help you pick out that decisive gift ... from yourself.
