FOREWORD

In this nineteenth century, an era in which the materialism, secularism, and paganism of imperialistic communism is being spread throughout the world, the need of Christian schools and Christian instructors are the most important means of saving the world from the destruction of this type of communism.

We, the Seniors of 1959, wish to express our gratitude for the opportunity of receiving a beneficial Christian education.

To our parents and to our teachers, who have so unselfishly helped us to gain our goal; and to all others who have in any way made our memories of Shawe pleasant ones.

Throughout the 1959 edition of the Hill-topper, quotations from the encyclical of Pope Pius XI, "The Christian Education of Youth," are being used. Through these quotations we will strive to show how the principles of a Christian education are being carried out in the activities here at Shawe Memorial.

What greater work is there than training the mind and forming the habits of the young? — Pius XI

DEDICATION

We, the Senior Class of 1959, wish to dedicate the Hilltopper to our beloved superintendent, Reverend Hilary Meny, who has worked unceasingly to provide us with our Catholic education.

Learning surely is nice.

Whoops! Here comes Sister.

Classes

French I students check written exercises under the supervision of Sister Aloysius.

Father Boehm demonstrates a point of grammar to his Latin II students.

Sister Benedicta has Spanish II students record their readings and check on pronunciation during playback.

Sister Rosemary's English II students prepare for a class recording of Shakespeare's JULIUS CAESAR.

Bookkeeping students learn to balance the books.

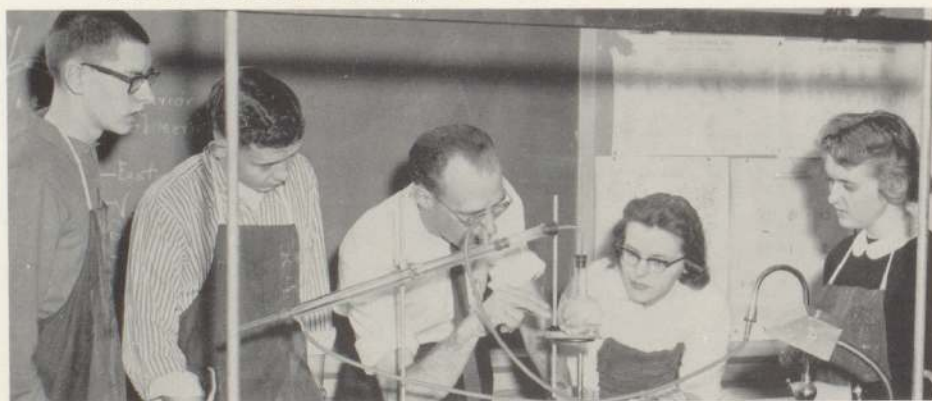

Artists Robert Yungman, Charles Craig, Carolyn Schwab and Diane Schell are fervently at work on their future masterpieces.

"When shifting from first to second, always remember to push in on the clutch," drivers' training instructor, Jack Dwyer, explains to the following students: Paul Kessler, Sandra Ryan, Mildred Schafer (at wheel), and Adam Davis.

Chemistry students William Potter, David Wolfschlag, Roserita Thorpe and Bonnie Kaelin, under the supervision of Mr. Winkel, perform chemical experiment of condensing water.

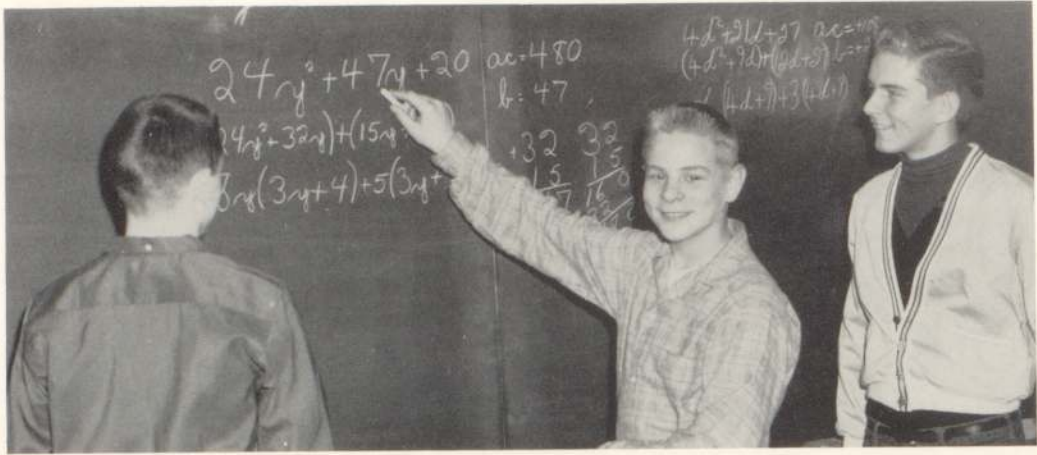

"A woman's work is never done," but home economics students Mary Ann Finnegan, Joann Schafer, Catherine Winkel and Mary Pat Knoebel prove it can be fun.

Yards of material quickly take the form of garments as Anita Bear and Kitty Hawk measure the hem of a dress while Carolyn King and Stephanie McCarty work at the sewing machines.

It will never be hunt and pick for these typing students. Under the supervision and instruction of Sister Aloysius, they have mastered the art well.

"Three heads are better than one," say James Kaelin, Robert Spencer, and Thomas Schell about working this Algebra I problem.

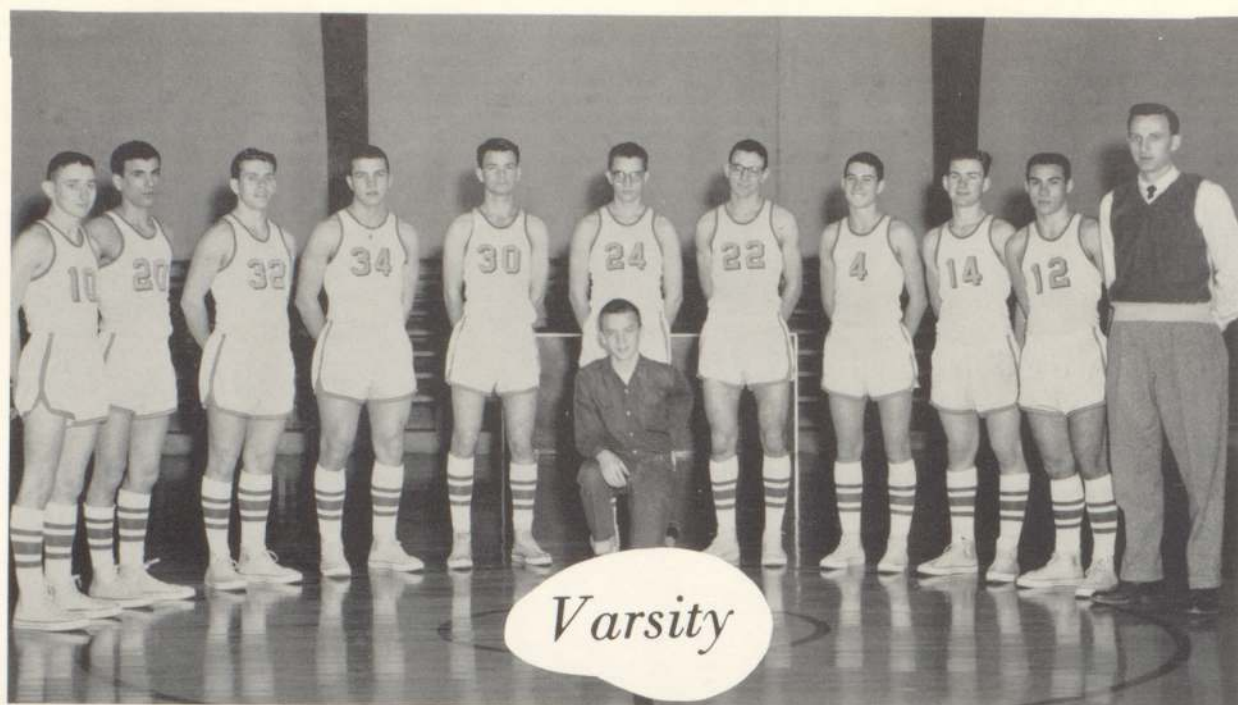

Masters with their hands are these young carpenters in craft class.

"That's easy, Father," the members of the junior religion class seem to be saying.

Fighting for a rebound, Peter Dattilo leaps high amid a flurry of arms.

Leonard Dattilo scrambles to regain a lost ball during Sectional action.

If Pete Dattilo doesn't rebound the ball, Leonard Dattilo's main objective is to push it in the basket.

Even though Robert Lockridge and John Lorenz are outnumbered two to four, they still manage to score two more points.

to man's last
end — Pius XI*

The 1959 senior class's gift to the school is an inspiring and beautiful statue of Saint Joseph which is dedicated to Sister George Marie with a plaque which reads as follows: "In grateful remembrance of Sister George Marie, Shawe Memorial's first principal. Class of 1959."

Realizing their need for guidance as they leave school to choose their vocations, the seniors prepare to receive Holy Communion from Father Drewes.

Notable traditions are often grouped in special association — Pius XI

Coty Chesterfield, Editor of the HILLTOPPER, checks over the last minute details on the yearbook.

Janet Hill, Co-Editor of the HILLTOPPER, assists Coty in managing the HILLTOPPER.

Adelaide Thacker, HILLTOPPER advertising manager, adds finishing touches to the advertising.

HILLTOPPER artists Robert Yungman, Andrew Wolfschlag, and Charles Craig ponder over a cover design.

Typist Susan Stanner busily types captions for pictures.

Andrew Wolfschlag and John Driskell take care of HILLTOPPER finances as business managers.

This Florida life is the most; eat, sleep and swim.

Of all the nerve, not even one present for me.

The beautiful Safari Motel where the seniors spent four wonderful days.

Can't you ever remember that line?

Just the thought of going home on that tin monster makes me sick.
